Course description

This course provides documentary editing experience in three areas: 1) developing information-handling systems to deal with large amounts of film material, 2) acquiring the means to apply ideas about that material in order to develop a comprehensive authorial approach, and 3) using digital video editing equipment for each student to edit their own interpretations of three typical types of documentary footage: ethnographic, political and sociological.

Course rationale

This course is required for editing majors for two reasons: they are often the hardest to edit, and they are often the first type of film that an editor is hired to edit.

Prerequisites

You will need modest expertise in montage theory and in video editing. A working knowledge of the computer productivity software taught in the Foundations of Computer Applications class (required for graduation) is helpful, but not required.

Goals and Objectives

PRACTICAL

- Know the post-production documentary process, including how to work with a director, decisions in setting up an editing studio, and major financial categories.
- Know how to edit a single camera documentary scene as if it were shot with two cameras, (including how to edit motivated cutaways).
- Know how to deal with enormous quantities of documentary material and to view and log rushes. In terms of logging: the differences between simple, complex and developing shots and how to log them (XCU, BCU, CU, MCU, MS, MLS, LS, VLS, XLS, pan, tilt, zoom in/out).
- Know how to use a computer to make transcriptions, two-column documentary scripts, and paper edits.
- Know how to make a documentary proposal and treatment.
- Know main issues of voice-over narration, subtitles and intertitles.

HISTORY & THEORY

- Know the names of the four documentary styles, their characteristics and canons of belief, and the names of at least two documentaries embodying each style.
- Know how the evolution in the methodology of ethnographic films influenced the history of documentary, and the names of at least five ethnographic films embodying that evolution.
- Know the contents of four essays by Sergei Eisenstein (“The Unexpected”, “A Statement”, “The Cinematic Principle and the Ideogram”, “Methods of Montage”) and their relevancy in editing.
- Know the differences between the two major types of content metaphors (Pudovkin’s “associational montage” and Eisenstein’s “collision montage”) and the major types of editing metaphors (duration and placement, rhythm, framing, kinetic, aural, optical) and their relevancy in editing.

Whew! And this is just the beginning.... So:

Taking good notes is essential—without them you will have difficulty passing this course.

You must work and participate actively in all discussions. Graduate students should lead the way. You should be organized, able to work for long periods alone, and enjoy the process of creating scenes experimentally with time devoted to building and rebuilding them. You will need to devote 6-10 hours per week to work outside class.

Grading policy and evaluation procedures

Credit hours:	3
Grading scale:	GRADES: Grades are based on the quality of your work, your ability as a professional-in-training to meet each deadline, and your ability to work responsibly and creatively with editing problems and issues. Grades are awarded as follows: Assignments and Quizzes: You will be graded at each deadline: F if you miss it; D, C, B, or A for quality of work if you meet it. (50% of grade). Final Edits: F for each project if you are absent for your final presentation in each of the final projects or have no completed work; D, C, B, or A for quality and originality of work completed within the semester. (50% of grade).

Requirements and assignments:	Assignments and quizzes are listed in the syllabus. You should keep this document as well as your returned assignments, quizzes and examinations because it is your responsibility to know these written policies and your performance to date. The grade sheet will always be open and by my lecture notes; you may freely consult your grades to date at any time.
Standards and proportions used:	Grading Scale: I ABSOLUTELY no incompletes. F If you are absent from your final presentation(s); incomplete course requirements and absences above the course allotment. D Sub-standard work. C Work of average quality and with average participation. B Assignments presented on time, regular attendance, good participation, and steady significant efforts throughout. Many students receive this grade. A "B" requirements, along with outstanding participation and work. A small number of students normally receive this grade. (100-95%=A; 94-90%= A- ; 89-86% = B+ ; 85-83%= B ; 82-80%= B – ; 79-76% = C+ ; 75-73%= C ; 72-70%= C – ; 69-66% = D+ ; 65-63%= D ; 62-60%= D – ; 59% and Below = F)

Classroom policies

Academic Integrity:	You are responsible for insuring that original work is correctly attributed. You must give clear and complete attributions for the work of others in your films. Plagiarism will not be tolerated and will result in the failure of the course. Courtesy must be observed at all times in my classroom. Please read the academic policies of this college. I will follow those policies in any instance of academic dishonesty.
Attendance policy:	The department attendance policy allows for two absences. The third absence will result in a reduction of a final letter grade. The fourth absence is an automatic "F" in the course.
Absences:	We will move quickly in this course. It is my experience that if a student misses a single class within the first nine weeks, it is difficult to catch up. Two missed classes are very difficult to overcome. Because of this, there are no excused absences (with the exceptions of jury duty, jail or military duty). Please plan ahead for an unplanned absence by obtaining the email and telephone number of a fellow student and in order to contact them for notes and work due if you are forced to be absent—especially since this syllabus will be changing from week to week in response to your needs and learning pace (see Syllabus, below).

Tardiness:	Tardiness is unacceptable because it disrupts learning. Arriving 15 minutes after the scheduled starting time for the class will be considered a late arrival. Two late arrivals will result in one absence. Leaving fifteen minutes before the end of class will be considered an early exit. Two early exits will result in one absence.
Late work and makeup assignments:	You will be graded at each deadline--and, like any professional deadline, if you miss it you MAY NOT make it up unless you have previously arranged it with me. Late assignments without previous arrangement will not be graded. You may always, however, hand in a late assignment for feedback, only. F for the assignment if you miss it; D, C, B, or A for quality of work if you meet it.
Incomplete Policy	ABSOLUTELY no incompletes.

Conaway Center Statement

“Students with disabilities are requested to present their Columbia accommodation letters to their instructor at the beginning of the semester so that accommodations can be arranged in a timely manner by the College, the department or the faculty member, as appropriate. Students with disabilities who do not have accommodation letters should visit the office of Services for Students with Disabilities in room 520 of the Congress building (312.344.8134/V or 312.360.0767/TTY). It is incumbent upon the student to know their responsibilities in this regard.”

Course calendar

Please note that individual class sessions are subject to change. I will make every effort to keep you informed of changes in the schedule. Some items may change at my discretion, but the overall workload will not change.

Additional note: projects may be edited on the Avid systems at Columbia and presented on that system. However, if you find it more convenient to edit in your own studio, you may digitize the rushes and present your edits on VHS or DVD.
