Destination Salt Lake City— Site of the Windemuth 2007 Family Reunion

The August 1- 3, 2007 Reunion Promises a Great Time for All!

◀ LDS Temple

Skyline of Salt Lake City ▲

Every Windemuth descendent is invited to attend the 2007 biennial Windemuth International Family Reunion! It will be held on August 1-3, 2007 in downtown Salt Lake City. Gary Schlenker, co-host of the reunion, reported that “We had to change the originally scheduled date and location because of a facility conflict. Fortunately the change has improved our event and lowered the cost.”

Gary is co-hosting the reunion with his sister, Chris Johnson. Both are residents of the Salt Lake area and Windemuth descendants.

Chris enthusiastically proclaims “We are planning some exciting activities. Our goal is to make the reunion so memorable that family members who don’t attend will be disappointed!” The reunion will include planned activities combined with free time for relaxing and sightseeing.

Salt Lake City is clean, safe, and friendly. It’s easy to get around too. Tidy TRAX trains whisk you throughout town and you can even get free rides in the loop where we will be staying. Our hotel is the Shilo Inn on West Temple.

With Temple Square just 2 blocks from the hotel, family members will want to see the free Thursday evening concert by the Mormon Tabernacle Choir. If you enjoy genealogy, a visit to the LDS Family History Library is a must.

On Friday, a bus tour will take us beyond the city to see some incredible sights. Stops include the spectacular botanical beauty of Thanksgiving Point Gardens; the world’s largest open pit copper mine at Bingham Canyon; and of course the Great Salt Lake where you can wade in the warm salt water!

Getting there is easy. By car, Salt Lake City is located in north central Utah on I-80 and I-15. Many major airlines provide daily service to the city. Delta uses Salt Lake City as a hub and has the most options.

Let's get to know each other...

We continue our series on "Getting to know each other." John Wm. Schiffeler is a descendent of Georg Phillip Windemuth. Recently retired, he and his wife Terry moved to France to live out their dream. Here is their story.

France: The Land of Clouds

By John Wm. Schiffeler, Ph.D.

Last year, after thirty-eight years of being an ophthalmologist, my wife, Terry, decided to retire from her medical practice, joining her husband (I having retired earlier from being a lecturer at the University of California at Berkeley) to our summer home, "Domaine de La Boue," an 18th century farm in the heartland of France. Life here is a far cry from the cosmopolitan hustle and bustle of Paris to the north and the international "beach babylon" of the Cote d'Azur to the south.

"Why France?" one might ask. For Terry it was literally a lifelong dream since her undergraduate days at Mills College in Oakland, California, when she spent her junior academic year studying at the Sorbonne University in Paris. As for me, rarely does a day pass in which I do not yearn to be back in my hometown of Carmel-by-the-Sea, California. But love has a way of weaving its own inextricable patterns, for being in love can mean giving something of yourself up for the other, when, indeed, you realize how important a fulfilled dream can be to the one you love. There are compensations here, however, that provide a joie de vie such as seeing French children with their ruddy little faces chitchatting amongst themselves as they eagerly await their school buses and the day ahead in their classrooms. This appears to be such a far cry from our American youngsters, many of whom dread the thought of going to school and who would, I dare say, prefer to either be on their cell telephones or computers. Also, there is a je ne sais quoi in the way one defines "the quality of life" here: Differences in opinions (to include the all too popular ones related to "sex, religion, and politics") are welcomed and not viewed as threats of unsociability; there is a splendid absence of the Creationism mentality, not to mention patriotism that rivals zealotry; everywhere one finds a sustained support for the humanities (art, literature, and music is not wanting), not to mention a genuine nationwide concern for the environment goes without question. Oh, granted, France is not without its flaws, but where is Shangri-La really except within our imaginations?

The French custom of not ticketing parked automobiles between 12-2 pm so that their drivers may enjoy a relaxed luncheon is a godsend, especially for someone, like myself, who was accustomed to daylong thirty/sixty-minute parking meters in the San Francisco Bay Area. On the other side of this coin, however, is the frustration that comes with wanting to conduct business during this timeframe only to realize that everything is closed except, of course, the restaurants! But, once again, this is the "give and take" of life anywhere.

Just one other interesting custom: The placement of "body signs" along the roadways where fatalities have occurred, serving as reminders to other drivers to proceed with care and caution.

When I think of France, a variety comes to my mind such as the "four Cs," namely, champagne, cognac, cheese, and--yes--clouds! Clouds, you say? Having come from the northern coastal region of California, Terry and I have throughout our lives been enamoured by the magnificence of nature's multitude of colors. Consequently, when I came here I began to observe the landscape and skyscape and what a pleasure it was to behold the extraordinary cloud patterns. At times I felt lost within them as my thoughts drifted along with them into a collage of boundless patterns. Never does a day pass when I do not look upwards to see what surprises await me above...

Life in Oklahoma Indian Territory

A brief sketch of the lives of

Clarence Gilford Wintermute and Aura Edith Love

By Lucille Ellison Gaspar

Windemuth descendent Lucille Gaspar submitted this sketch about the life of her grandparents in Oklahoma Indian Territory circa 1900.

e-mail Lucille at:
R2Ns71cZ@jackgaspar.com

My Grandfather, Clarence Gilford Wintermute (JG-P-VI-III-I), married Aura Edith Love in Bedford, Iowa in 1886. He was born in Iowa and she in Ohio. They made their first home in Firth, Nebraska with five of their six children born there.

By 1900, Grandpa Clarence was nearly bedridden with arthritis but Grandmother Aura was ready for a new adventure. They packed up their family and headed south to new land in Indian Territory. Surely the warmer climate would be good for him and indeed it was. Grandpa's recovery was remarkably. He was 43 years old and in the prime of his life. The kids, Nellie, Harry, Lillian, Ethel and Lloyd, were bursting with energy and ready to help build their new home.

Grandpa purchased 160 acres of rich farmland 2-1/2 miles southeast of Calumet, Canadian County, OK. After building the house, fences, a barn and granaries, he began raising grain and a huge herd of hogs. He trailed them to the Denver market since there were no markets in Oklahoma yet. What is trailing, you ask? That's driving them with horses. Wagons carried hay and feed. At night the hogs were fed and bedded down. The tired animals slept the full night without the need to be guarded.

Grandma's wedding ring was a bit too large and would slip off her finger. One day she lost her wedding ring, but found it later in a corner of the hogs' feeding trough. It had gone out with the potato peels. My niece, Marjorie (McCray) Morse, daughter of Evelyn (Ellison) McCray has the ring now.

After the hogs became ill and died from cholera in 1914, Grandpa retired from the hog business. He turned his attention to raising wheat and cattle and became a very successful businessman.

By the time he died in 1937 he owned five farms, one for each of his children.

Grandmother brought refinement

Clarence G. Wintermute

to their new home. She had a pedal organ and liked to write music. Their son, Lloyd, followed in her footsteps. He played the violin and banjo and made his own instruments.

But who were the neighbors to the north of Calumet? Why, they were the Ellisons from southern Texas. They were trail drivers who had criss-crossed the Territory since the late 1860's taking their cattle to market in Kansas. After fences blocked their drives, they began selling beef to the nearby forts and Indian agencies.

My mother, Lillian Gertrude Wintermute, married one of these cowboys, Robert Franklin Ellison, in 1908. Together, they raised five children: Charlotte Evelyn, Clyde Gilford, Jacob Jonathan, Lucille Ruby (me) and Robert Franklin Jr.

My brother Clyde, now 95 years old, can still remember vivid details of the Wintermutes in those early times. I never knew my Grandmother because she died when I was one year old. Aunt Ethel also died in 1906. I do remember Grandpa Clarence well. He loved to have his "kids" come home for big family dinners. He would sit in his rocking chair as the women brought potluck to the table. But, he always furnished the dessert, his favorite, "canned cling peach halves and soft gingersnaps".

"These photos are of Emily Orilla Goodenough Lizmore, my greatgrandmother, born April 2, 1847 to Mary Catharine Wintermute and her husband Calvin Goodenough on Grand Island, N.Y. Also, her sister, Anna Margaret Goodenough Felstead, born August 27, 1837. They, along with six siblings were left orphans when their parents died within a year of each other around 1850. Mary Catharine was the daughter of Abraham Wintermute b.1750 and Mary ? no date but obviously not the same age as Abraham, maybe a second marriage. Mary Catharine was born in Bertie, Ontario, Canada 1814. I have been unable to find her burial site but believe it is near Lewiston, N.Y."

Communications Committee Report

By James W. Wintermute, Web Master

The Windemuth Organization's Communications Committee is responsible for the Newsletter and our web site:

www.windemuth.org.

As webmaster, I take care of the web site.

Recently, we upgraded our web site's capacity and now have the capability to do some significant new things. For example: photos and video, e-mail accounts for our members, Monthly on-line newsletters and "postings" of news articles about our family members. In fact, the sky is the limit in-so-far as what we can do on the web site.

Can you help make this happen?

Six volunteers are needed who will assist as reporters and/or editors to gather information about family members. Each will help find stories, photos and information, and edit its content for web site use. I will take care of the technical details of how to place it on the internet.

If you have an interest and are willing to spend a few hours each month helping with this, please contact me. I can be reached at:

Dear Family Members,

August is just around the corner and we are very excited to meet, mingle and forge lasting relationships with you all. Utah is beautiful this time of year with the snow capped mountains and frozen lakes in the north and the beautiful scenery of the National Parks in the south. However the summer is also a gorgeous time of year. We have many fun and exciting things planned which will allow you to "know Utah", so bone up on your Utah Trivia and look at all the exciting places and things you can do within a days drive of the Salt Lake City area during your sight seeing time.

 Reunion Co-host

Help us make a Reunion Quilt!

Our goal is to make the 2007 reunion so memorable that people who don't attend will be disappointed! To make that happen, we need your help.

Whether you plan on attending or not, please submit family photos to me. These photos will be silk screened onto quilt squares and made into a quilt. If enough photos are received, 3 quilts will be made, one for each branch of the family. They will be raffled off during the reunion. I also anticipate making some smaller pillows for door prizes using the photos.

Photos can be of your current generation or your ancestors. Be sure to indicate the family member's names and the emigrator they are related to. Good quality laser color copies of photos are best, that way I won't have to return originals to you.

The photos will also be used to construct coloring/activity books that will help adults and children get to know their ancestors. I hope to make 3 books representing the original emigrators.

When submitting the photos, I would appreciate having them labeled and include a little blurb about each person, i.e. "Uncle Joe was quite a fisherman. He caught a 10 lb. Rainbow Trout in Strawberry Reservoir."

These are labor intensive projects, but so special for families and the feeling of belonging to something greater than oneself. So please send the photos as soon as possible so I can get started.

Have a super day.

Sincerely,
Chris Johnson
