Family Tree of the Dharma

In the three worlds of delusion which is constantly flowing and turning, it is hard to sever the bonds of attachments of affection and love. Hearing a call of Amida's Vow, do we gain spiritual liberation and enter into Nirvana.*

* three worlds: human world of desire, material and spirit

Recently, a senior couple visited my office. They showed me the names of a family tree written on several pages and asked me some words to translate from Japanese into English. The gentleman was part Japanese and his wife, Caucasian. They said they are not Buddhists. The gentleman told me that he already had spent a few years compiling his family tree and was still creating it because the members of the family were increasing. He told me he even went to Japan and met his cousins. But they did not show much interest in what he had done so far. He asked me, "Are Japanese in Japan not interested in this kind of research, to create family tree?" I said, "Well, it depends on the people." Then he asked me, "Are you interested?"

I said "I have no time and no energy to make up our family tree like you. It is endless job. I am not that patient." I can trace back two or three generations of my family and that is enough for me. Our children who were born in Canada may be interested but I do not think they are that patient to compile their family trees going back many generations.

I told them "After all, we all go back to the time of monkey! Or as you say, to the time of Adam and Eve." We laughed. I translated some words for them and they

According to the legend, the Siddhartha Gautama, a future Buddha, abandoned his family, his wife and a new born baby, Rahula, at 29 years of age to seek enlightenment. Some people think that the Buddha did not think of his family and was completely indifferent to a family life. However, we must understand that it was a common practice and custom in India in his time that when you had an heir you were allowed to leave your family life, renounce the world and seek the Truth of Life called Dharma. The custom is also practiced in some Buddhist sects in Japan. The custom we call "shukke" means to enter the monkhood which literally translates: "To leave and abandon the household." Siddhartha withdrew from the world to seek the truth of life for six arduous years. An important thing we must remember is that he returned to the world after he discovered the dharma and shared it with others who were still struggling in the world of delusion. He abandoned the household but did not abandon the world and sentient beings in the world. We know that his son, his father, stepmother, cousins all followed the noble path he had discovered.

Because of Buddha's returning to the world we are able to enjoy the nectar of the dharma without abandoning the world. Shinran Shonin also left from secular and worldly life at the age of nine years. He went up Mt. Hiei, the center of Buddhist monastery to study Buddha dharma. After 20 years struggle with traditional religious practices, he descended and returned to the world. He took a wife, ate meat and shared his appreciation of Amida's compassion with others. For both, the great sages, Sakyamuni and Shinran, their thoughts were extended to all living beings in the universe. Whether we go back to the time of monkeys or the time of Adam and Eve, we are all connected one another. Yes, we are one in the family tree of the dharma. Namo Amida Butsu

毎週日曜礼拝の後、当番グループによって60人、70人、時には100人以上のお参りの方々に茶菓の用意がされています。手作りのお菓子や果物などです。「楽しいお寺」の雰囲気作りを皆んなで考えています。しかし毎週いろいろな茶菓を用意するとすると、これはなかなか大変なことです。

ある方を訪問しました。腰痛でしばらくお寺参りが遠くなっておられるシニアの方です。激痛のため痛み止めを常用し、歩行器を使っておられます。話の途中、お茶とアップルパイを出して下さいました。「これと同じものをお寺の茶菓に用意させていただきました。お寺のことが気になるもので。。。」驚きました。不自由な体で手作りのアップルパイ。。。時間がかかったろうなあ、と思いました。そして何よりもお寺のことをこれほどに心配してくれる人がいる、ということに頭が下がりました。毎週、当たり前のようにしていた礼拝後の「楽しいひと時」。その裏にはこのような方がおられたのだ、と知らされました。み仏の光に照らされながら、「今日もおかげさまでした」と支えてくれている、いろいろな働きを思いながら生活したいものです。合掌 泉

BTSA NOTES

April showers will be welcome—as long as it's rain--as BTSA prepares for one of Jodo Shinshu's three most important services of the year: Hanamatsuri. This year, we'll be observing it on the reputed date of Shayamuki's birth—April 8—when sweet rain bathed him after his birth.

Michael Hayashi sensei of the Toronto Buddhist Temple will be our guest speaker. It also will be the monthly memorial for April, with the service beginning at 2 p.m. and followed by a midday meal. Please plan to attend, along with children since Hanamatsuri traditionally has been a time to showcase them and to shower them with gifts. Izumi sensei will be conducting an infant presentation ceremony prior to the service for parents who may have signed-up for the event.

Also, remember that Hayashi sensei will be giving a public lecture the night before in the hondo at 7 p.m.

BTSA has a full board, following its annual general meeting on March 4, with the elections of Joyce Shigehiro and Jim Tsukishima to two-year terms. They join continuing members Val Boras, John Dubbelboer, Sway Nishimura, Roy Sassa, Eichi Tanaka and Trent Takeyasu. The remaining four two-year terms were filled with the re-election of Akira Ichikawa, Brenda Ikuta, Roland Ikuta and Sylvia Oishi. Thanks to retiring director Tak Okamura for his many years of board service, first at his former temple and since the inception of BTSA on the BTSA board. While no longer on the board, Tak has agreed to help out with matters related to building concerns and maintenance.

The review engagement of temple finances generally circulated at the AGM was not ready in time, but has now been received. We'll have copies available at the temple for anyone interested in looking at this. As was reported by Treasurer John Dubbelboer at the AGM, the BTSA's financial health remains strong with current assets at $737,000, compared with $697,000 at this time a year ago.

The AGM approved dues for 2012 and 2013 at $100 per person. April has been designated membership drive month, encouraging all to send in their renewals.

BTSA also thanks David Major for continuing as a director on the Jodo Shinshu Buddhist Temples of Canada board. He first agreed to fill a vacancy two years ago with the death of Tom Allen of Toronto, then was elected as a board member last year to a two-year term. He's been busy preparing for this year's AGM in Winnipeg during the last weekend of April. He'll be joined there by BTSA delegates John Dubbelboer and Roland Ikuta, BTSA Women's Federation delegates Donna Dubbelboer and Sumie Tsukishima and Izumi sensei.

Thanks to co-chairs Jan Okamura and Pat Sassa and all the volunteers who worked so industriously and untiringly preparing for and making the mein noodles on the last Saturday in March. Part of the output is designated for our spring chow mein supper on May 5.

Also in March, we enjoyed a rollicking Korean comedy for our Movie Night fare. The action film about gangsters hiding out in a Buddhist monastery made for hilarious moments. Thanks to Roland Ikuta for his continuing membership efforts, of which Movie Night is one. He also had scheduled the third and last Buddhist education meetings, this one on meditation.

The inaugural class to review short articles met March 11 following teatime and discussed Buddhist ideas raised in the selected item, a reflection on cockroaches. Please keep abreast of plans for future sessions. The idea is to keep the session short to encourage participation.

At its first meeting since the AGM, the board on March 14:

- re-named unchanged the new executives for the new year: Akira Ichikawa, chair; Roland Ikuta, vice-chair; Brenda Ikuta, secretary; John Dubbelboer and Trent Takeyasu, co-treasurers;
- agreed to follow up on suggestions made at the AGM to have a proposed budget and to include restaurant certificates as an option for hospital visits;
- was informed by the city that it has confirmed our date and place for the annual picnic on June 17 at the John Martin Recreation centre; and,
- decided to send reminder letters to those with unfulfilled building pledges so that that that budget line might be closed.

Keep in mind that records of all board meetings are available for members to peruse. They are kept in binders in the board room.

A reminder: Please make reservations for temple use with Fudge Takeda to avoid conflicting events and disappointments. Increasing demand for temple space may upset plans so as a precaution, please reserve early and also inform sensei and me if so desired. Thanks.

It will be held in conjunction with the monthly memorial service for the month. Please note that the monthly memorial will not be held on the first Sunday of the month as usual.

BUDDHIST Q & A

Sweet Tea (Amacha / 甘茶)

Why do we pour sweet tea over the baby Buddha during Hanamatsuri?

This is symbolic. The bathing of the statue of the baby Buddha is a popular ritual for Buddhists. According to legend, when the baby Buddha was born sweet water, cold and warm, of the dharma fell from heaven to wash and bathe him. By pouring sweet tea, we humbly accept the dharma. Y.I.
