BACKGROUND INFORMATION:

Rebekah completed the 2003-2004 school year as a second grade student. Her mother has chosen to use an assortment of good quality resources as the basis for Rebekah's curriculum. Her activities and field trips reinforced her learning experiences throughout the year.

REVIEW OF PORTFOLIO:

Rebekah's portfolio contained the necessary documentation to complete the PA State Act 169 requirement of 180 days in the required subjects.

Rebekah progressed through the mathematical areas of fundamental operations, time, money, fractions and so forth with no real concerns or difficulties. Her test scores were all in the ninety percent range demonstrating her understanding of the concepts taught.

Rebekah read to me from one of her reading comprehension books. She read nicely with precise dictation and oration. Her portfolio contained monthly reading lists. The books varied in length and content and Rebekah chose a favorite book for each month. She also completed short reading passages to improve her speed and comprehension skills. Her language arts program consisted of formal grammar lessons, phonics, weekly spelling lists, and creative writing as well. Mrs. _____ used the Internet to find a variety of fun and creative writing assignments for Rebekah to complete. Some of these included poetry and holiday projects.

Rebekah enjoys educational videos and programs. She used many of these to enhance her science and history studies. In addition, she read many books with her mother and completed hands-on activities. Along with American history and an introduction to civics, Rebekah studied geography and map skills.

Rebekah had instruction in health and safety education, including fire safety. She participated in a weekly homeschool gym co-op at the local YMCA and went bowling for physical education. Rebekah is learning to play the keyboard and enjoys listening to a variety of music. She also loves to draw and color. Her art projects consisted of collages, crayon rubbings and puppets to name a few.

SUMMARY:

Rebekah is a talkative, outgoing young girl. Her mother is very committed to her education and encouraged Rebekah to do her best at all times. Her portfolio and interview reflect that she has sustained progress in her overall program. I certify that Rebekah _____ has received an appropriate education for the 2003-2004 school year.

Sincerely,

Leigh A. Genasevich
