 CHURCHILL WAY, CARDIFF, CF10 2HH
 LIGHT REFRESHMENTS PROVIDED

Event organized by Kate Hockley of AECOM current South Wales Branch Chair

The Environmental Impact Assessment Regulations are changing.

The new 2011 Regulations will replace the Town & Country Planning (EIA) (England) Regulations 1999 and the various amendments to these regulations when they come into force on 24th August. New guidance will be released shortly after the release by the Communities and Local Government Department. The changes include; new additions to the Schedule 1 and 2 projects including gas storage and transportation projects, greater clarity on the Screening Process, right of challenge by a third party and requirements for Local Authorities to advertise their reasoning on Screening decisions and how extensions may now require EIA under the Baker ruling.

This seminar will summarise the changes to the Regulations and how this may affect your clients or proposed developments in your area.

Presented by AECOM, one of the UK's most comprehensive and experienced teams in preparing Environmental Impact Assessments (EIA) and related work. AECOM has managed EIAs for all sizes of site developments and infrastructure proposals in the UK and abroad.
