Meeting Ended with Show and Tell

Looking for a fun Quilter's mini vacation? Check out www.maqonline.org for info and class listings. For one day or all three, it is a "close to Carroll County" quilters retreat held at Mt. St. Mary's Univ, Emmitsburg, where you can choose from an array of fun classes and stay overnight in nice dorms in Bicentennial Hall, including meals, - or commute daily! Several members of EQG have attended previous years and had a great time - sewing with each other in classes or sharing stories in the dining hall.

At our June Mid Month program we will be working - hands on, to make Comfort Pillows for cancer patients in the area. Candy M. will be bringing all of the fabric and we will be cutting, ironing and sewing at the meeting. All you need to bring is a ruler and rotary cutter - whatever we can accomplish at the meeting will help to increase what Candy has available to give to those who need them.

Barb McMahon

The workshop with Mary Mahoney on making a Barn/House Quilt will be on August 22 at the Finksburg Library starting at 9:00 a.m. The class is currently full with a waiting list. If you would like to be added to the waiting list please contact Marlene at mgienow@comcast.net . The cost is $40 and Marlene will start collecting funds at the next business meeting on August 5.

Quilt Alliance to Present Conference on
Sharing Quilt Stories in the Digital Age

Quilt history isn't over. Every time a new quilt is made, another chapter of quilt history is written -- or at least it should be. The nonprofit Quilt Alliance teaches quilters, quilt collectors and quilt lovers everywhere how to record history as it happens.

On Saturday, July 18 the Alliance will conduct its second conference on the oral history of quilts Not Fade Away: Sharing Quilt Stories in the Digital Age in Herndon, VA, near Washington, D.C.

The conference features a day-long program on Saturday, July 18, and an optional Friday night program. A two-day pass costs $75 for QA members and $90 for non-members (membership starts at $25/year). One-day passes are available as are packages that include a Saturday evening fundraising dinner.

Friday evening's program includes a welcome mixer, a preview of the Sacred Threads exhibition, and an exciting night of video previews and special presentation of the work of Donna Sue Groves.

Saturday's program includes continental breakfast, lunch, and a full day of workshops, discussions and informal networking sessions on oral history and documentation techniques, challenges and successes. Registration includes one-day admission to Sacred Threads, an international exhibition of quilts.

Seating for the conference is limited so early registration is encouraged. Conference details and online registration can be found on the QA website: <http://www.allianceforamericanquilts.org/support/NFA2015tickets.php>.

Those unable to come can attend virtually by purchasing a Home Ticket which will provide online access to video footage of the event, after the conference closes.

Discounts for groups of ten or more are available. Contact Debby Josephs for information at admin@quiltalliance.org or 828-251-7073.
