News notes

Pancake supper here Friday

Shorthorn Staff

MARFA - A pancake supper will be served from 4:30-6:30 p.m. Friday at Robinson Cafeteria.

The supper, sponsored by the Rotary Club of Marfa, precedes the Marfa-Fort Davis football game.

The menu will include pancakes, sausage, orange juice, milk and coffee.

The public is invited. The cost is $3 per plate. Tickets are available from all Rotary members or can be purchased at the door.

Time changes on Sunday

Falling-back time is upon us once again.

Daylight savings time ends Sunday at precisely 2 a.m.

Set your watches, clocks and timepieces back an hour before getting under the covers Saturday night and prepare for brighter mornings and shorter afternoons.

Lady Horns to face Dell City

MARFA - The Marfa Lady Shorthorn district volleyball team, 1996 district champions, head to the first round of the state playoffs on Thursday, November 7, against Dell City in Van Horn.

Marfa will be playing for the bi-district title and are 14-8 on the season.

Game time will be announced next week.

Art show to open in Ft. Davis

FORT DAVIS - Art work by Clyde Heron will be exhibited at the Fort Davis High School auditorium beginning with an opening reception at 7 p.m. Tuesday.

Heron is known for his Civil War-era art and locally for his work with Fort Davis National Historic Site.

The show is hosted by the Fort Davis High School art students, and the public cordially is invited to this free-of-charge event.

Refreshments will be served.

Big Bend Ranch sets trail ride

PRESIDIO - As the sun sets over the Bofecillos Mountains, a cowboy recites a poem about rodeoing and his pickup truck, while his audience of city folks gathered around the campfire savors dutch oven cobbler and cowboy coffee. Welcome to the evening portion of the first-ever trail ride at Big Bend ranch State

Festival del Fortin next Thursday in Presidio

PRESIDIO - Presidio High School students are bringing history back to life at Fort Leaton State Historic Site.

Since September 1, the students - in period dress - have been giving tourists a taste of what life was like in the mid-1800s at this former Spanish mission, Chihuahua trail trading post and fortress for the area's first Anglo-American settler, Ben Leaton.

And from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Thursday, October 31, the fort will be the site of Fiesta del Fortin, the official kick-off of the living history program.

In addition to fort tours, the event will feature demonstrations of traditional crafts - blacksmithing, woodworking, baking, gardening, leatherworking and animal husbandry - as well as traditional foods, papermaking, Callotype photography, artists and artisans at work and an art show, a firearms demonstration and folk music.

To help envision the lifestyle of the frontier border, there also will be dramatizations of historic incidents, including a play, 'The Saga of Fort Leaton.'

The living history program is a unique partnership with the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, Presidio schools and Los Amigos del Fortin, a group of Presidio residents who are friends of the fort. It was spearheaded by Presidio teacher Randall Cater.

A relative newcomer to the Presidio area, Cater saw the potential for tourism and employment at the historic site, a sprawling adobe structure whose walls echoed with the history of south Presidio County and northern Mexico. Yet, it was frequented little by tourists and locals.

More tourists now are beginning to arrive.

Joan Negley Kelleher is presented with a plaque of appreciation by Big Bend Regional Medical Center RN JoAnn Lister for Kelleher's and her family's significant contribution toward the purchase of a much-needed diagnostic device. Please see story, page 6.

Early voting continues in November general election

PRESIDIO COUNTY - Early voting in the November general election continues through Friday, November 1.

There's one contested race in Presidio County. Democratic Party nominee for sheriff Danny Dominguez is being challenged by Ellen Kimble, a write-in candidate.

In Presidio, early voting will be conducted weekdays during regular business hours at the Presidio County Courthouse Annex.

In Marfa, early balloting will be held weekdays during regular business hours at the Presidio County Courthouse.

Applications for ballots by mail must be received no later than the close of business on Tuesday, October 29, and should be mailed to Presidio County Clerk, Box 789, Marfa, TX 79843.

Election day is Tuesday, November 5.

City of Marfa officials to consider utility grant for proposed tomato farm

MARFA - It's not a done deal yet, but just in case it is, the Marfa City Commission is ready to help the proposed tomato farm greenhouse near Marfa.

When elected city officials meet at 9 a.m. today at City Hall, they will consider applying for a Texas Capital Fund grant to extend a natural gas line to the proposed greenhouse site at Marfa Municipal Airport. The gas line is about one mile east of the airport parallel to Texas 17. The tomato operation needs natural gas to heat its greenhouses on cold days.

In other matters, commission members are scheduled to award a bid for the renovation of City Hall, consider an amendment to the no-smoking policy, consider the proposed paternity/maternity policy and consider closing City Hall during the noon hour.

Cowboy Social next month to benefit Marathon clinic

MARATHON - An all-star cast of local musicians and entertainers will perform at the Marathon Cowboy Social and Silent Auction benefitting the Marathon Health Center.

The event is set for Sunday, November 10, from 3-6 p.m., at the new Cafe Cenizo at the Gage Hotel in Marathon, announced Guy St. Clair Combs, president of Marathon Primary Care Services Inc. (MPCS).

The Jose Brothers (Clay Lindley and Gil Prather) will lead off with cowboy comedy and song.

Mike Stevens and Scott Brown will follow with authentic cowboy ballads and western music favorites.

And author-musician Robert Waller and Tony Lujan will perform original songs by Waller for the grand finale.

Lindley lives in Marfa and Prather in Muleshoe. They are well-known for their funny skits presented at the annual Cowboy Poetry Gathering in Alpine.

Stevens' music is that of the open range, recalling the longing and simple pleasures of old cowboy melodies. A former Austin Lounge Lizard, he also is a master guitar maker. Both he and Brown, a fiddler, live in Alpine.

Waller and Alpine multi-instrumentalist guitarist Lujan have been working together for several months polishing up some of Waller's original music for guitar and voice.

Waller is the best-selling author of 'The Bridges of Madison County,' - which was made into a major motion picture starring Meryl Streep and Clint Eastwood

- 'Border Music,' and 'Acapulco Squeeze.' He lives on his Brewster County ranch.

Admission is $12 at the door. A crowd-pleasing complimentary buffet and a silent auction of fine art, collectibles and other donated items will also highlight the afternoon of festivities.

Guests may circulate to the brand-new White Buffalo Bar at Cafe Cenizo, the beautiful grounds of the Gage Hotel, or they may wander across the street to visit the former Alamo Bar, the VFW Hall, which is soon scheduled for a major renovation to become Marathon's first community health center and clinic.

"It's going to be a great day for Marathon," said Combs. "We are looking forward to a terrific turn-out. We feel confident that this third stage of our fund-raising effort will be successful."

A non-profit corporation, MPCS raised more than $19,000 in its first year of organization and needs about $26,000 more to renovate the building.

"We are using a lot of voluntary help and donations of all types and sizes to get this thing done," Combs said.

The group is seeking support throughout the greater Big Bend area, with invitations extended to residents of Marathon, Alpine, Marfa, Fort Davis, Presidio, Fort Stockton, Big Bend National Park, south Brewster County, Sanderson, Valentine, Van Horn, and more.

"If you don't get an invitation in the mail, please call us or come anyway. Everyone's invited,"

Brite White ranch plans bull sale here next week

MARFA - J.E. White Jr. & Sons are taking the bull by the horns and are having their own bull and heifer sale later this month.

It's scheduled for 12:30 p.m. Thursday, October 31, at the bull barn at the Presidio County Fairgrounds east of town.

Seventy bulls - 60 two-year-olds and 10 yearlings - 10 bred registered heifers and 350 commercial heifers will be offered from the Brite Ranch.

No, there's no rift between the Whites and the Highland Hereford Breeders Association and its annual bull sale next month. Beau White said recently, and the Whites plan to have consignments at the association sale in mid-November.

It's just that the ranch has a healthy inventory of breeding stock, and the association limits the number of consignments, he said.

J.E. White Jr. said that the Whites were founding members of the 78-year-old association and continue to support it wholeheartedly.

S.G. Salazar of Lubbock stopped in Marfa last week to sell some pumpkins, perfect for good eating or carving into Jack-o-lanterns. Halloween is just around the corner, a week from today.

Paracelsus stock still low

Stock in the healthcare company that wants to build a new hospital and nursing home in Alpine remained in the doldrums this week.

Paracelsus two weeks ago announced it would restate its financial and revenue statements, prompting investors to devalue shares by 60 percent.

On Tuesday, Paracelsus stock was valued at $3.75 a share. Before trading was halted for about one hour two weeks ago, it was about $10 a share. After trading resumed, it was valued at about $4 a share. The stock's 52-week high was $12.25 a share.

The company's stock is traded on the New York Stock Exchange and is listed as PLS.

But as Big Bend Regional Hospital District officials stated last week, negotiations with Paracelsus for the proposed new hospital and nursing home are continuing.

Last week, company officials were in Alpine meeting with hospital officials. On Wednesday, hospital administrator Tom Lawson and district directors Ralph Meriwether and Rosario Salgado Halpern flew to Houston for a round of meetings.

They were scheduled to meet with the hospital district's accounting and law firms Wednesday and with Paracelsus officials today.

Parties will be negotiating a rough draft agreement proposed by Paracelsus.

Former Lajitas museum to become cultural education center

FAR WEST TEXAS - State Rep. Pete Gallego, D-Alpine, and the Texas Department of Parks and Wildlife announced this week that planned renovations of the Barton Warnock Environmental Education Center are under way.

The Warnock Center, formerly the Lajitas Museum and currently the southern visitor contact point for Big Bend Ranch State Park, will become the premier interpretive and environmental education facility for the Big Bend region of Texas and adjacent areas in the states of Coahuila and Chihuahua, Mexico.

The long-term, two-phase project will include new exhibit galleries, environmental education classrooms, a conservation laboratory, and new administrative offices and library. Phase one began in July, with the upgrading of physical accessibility to meet ADA standards. Interpretive exhibits are expected to be installed in 1998, with the remaining education and offices renovations following in Phase two.

According to a draft interpretive plan produced in August, the Warnock exhibits will inform and educate the public about natural and cultural history, public and private conservation efforts, and how each visitor can be a responsible steward for the region's natural and cultural assets.

During renovations the Warnock center will remain open to visitors, but with limited access to exhibit areas. Some of the less crucial collections and exhibits will be donated to other educational institutions and state agencies, or returned to their donors. An important addition to the core study collection will be the herbarium of Dr. Barton Warnock, Professor Emeritus of Biology at Sul Ross State University, for whom the Lajitas facility is named. The original museum was completed in 1983 by the Misher Corporation of Houston as part of its Lajitas on the Rio Grande resort development. Information: (915) 424-3327.

Letters to the editor

Editor:

The Presidential debate of last Wednesday evening was a definite "cut above" that of two weeks ago. They had both obviously thought more, reviewed their positions, measured their opponents.

Clearly Senator Dole had decided to change his strategy to a more confrontational one. He attacked where before he had just "played the gentleman."

Clinton, riding his current popularity, was able to maintain his position of confidence in his policies continuing success.

Sen. Dole continued to stress his belief that his plans for a 15 percent income tax cut was the best economic plan. President Clinton maintained that his own planned tax reduction, balanced by specific planned reduction in certain program expenditures, was a wiser course to follow. Sen. Dole assured the audience that his word could be trusted that his plan would not be damaging to vital interests.

The Senatorial campaign between Republican Senator Phil Gramm and his Democratic opponent, Victor Morales, is a fairly clear cut one between a confirmed Conservative and a basic liberal. Gramm stands four-square for all the conservative issues: pro-life, anti-gun controls, anti-affirmative action, in favor of welfare reforms and block grants to the states.

(The idea of block grants is that money will be given to the individual states to carry out their own welfare plans and payments for their own state people rather than it being carried out by the Federal government.)

Morales is pro-choice, favors gun controls, is pro-affirmative (favoring special credit being given to minority groups and women in hiring and in school acceptance). He is also strongly against any cuts in educational policies or funding. He does cover his tracks a little on gun control by admitting that he has a handgun that he would not want to surrender.

he also warns that women making the choice for abortion must recognize that it involves certain risk. The big difference between the two is that Gramm is very well financed for his campaign while Morales, a school teacher on leave, while campaigning is operating on very, very limited funds.

The Congressional race is between Republican Rep. Henry Bonilla and his Democratic challenger, Charles P. Jones. Bonilla has voted to cut "wasteful spending" by the Federal government, has supported pro-life legislation as well as recent welfare reforms and the voting of block grants to states to handle their own welfare expenditures.

He has favored Tort Reform, offering business relief from excessive law suits against them. He voted against the National Voter Registration Act which permits those who register their motor vehicles also to register to vote.

Jones, a veteran of the war in Vietnam, is a strong supporter of veteran's rights, of education programs which include "head start," and is in favor of tough law enforcement to combat crime, drugs and gangs. He's very supportive of our working population and of all emerging small businesses.

The Marfa Police Department has begun its second year in the Marfa Independent School District. This year has begun in a positive way. This letter is to thank a very special group who donated $250 toward this year's D.A.R.E. program. I sincerely thank the Marfa Ministerial Alliance for this generous donation. Their support for D.A.R.E. has made it possible to purchase materials to market D.A.R.E. in Marfa.

This year, I have the pleasure of teaching sixty-seven fifth and sixth-grade students during the seventeen week D.A.R.E. curriculum. I will also be instructing grades K through 4 later this year. I am writing not only to express my appreciation toward the Ministerial Alliance, but also to ask all members of the community to support the youth of Marfa. D.A.R.E. is a vital part of educating youth to make good choices now and in the future.

Any group, business, parent or citizen of Marfa who would like more information about D.A.R.E. is cordially invited to contact the Marfa Police Department D.A.R.E. Officer for a presentation. Thank you for your support.

To: Roger and Henry:

So what if Marfa has a curfew law for young people. Maybe that is the reason Marfa doesn't have any kind of gang activity, as you so nicely stated in your letter.

Sorry guys, but I support Marfa's curfew law, even though I don't live in Marfa. But I do have someone there that I love very dearly.

You might disagree with the reasoning for that law now, but believe me, someday you will come to appreciate it.

Keep up the nice work, Marfa!

Border riffs

The River Road

By T.L. DAVIDSON

There are many places to see in Big Bend National Park. Hiking trails, both improved and otherwise, are available and numerous. Hiking is pretty much the way to see the back country. One exception is to drive the river road.

The river road runs between Castolon on the west side and comes out about a mile west of the Hot Springs road on the east side. The River Road is very old and has been a major east-west corridor for many years, being used by ranchers and miners to transport their goods. These days it's used mostly by tourists and river companies. When you enter the River Road from the east, the first side road you come to is the 'Gravel Pit.' This place is fairly accessible and is a good place to camp. Further through the rough country is another side road to a place called La Clocha, where there are old machine works. As you move west, the scenery changes. Driving through rocky passes and clay hills you get to the San Vicente Road. San Vicente is a small Mexican village that used to be on the Texas side of the border before it was relocated south of the Rio Grande when the park opened. This village is unlike Boquillas, as there are no tourist attractions and no boatmen to take visitors across. I take that to mean Stay Away.

At this point on the River Road, the landscape is stark and barren. In one direction, the Sierra Del Carmens stand in all its mountainous glory. The Chisos Mountains are very prominent, as is San Vicente Mountain and Mariscal Mountain to the south.

The next stop is the old farming community of Solis, one of those places that always seems to be summer. On the day I was there, the temperature seemed to be 10 to 15 degrees hotter than anywhere else I went.

Past Solis a few miles is the old abandoned Mariscal mine. Literally out in the middle of nowhere, the Mariscal miners made a thriving community. There are many things to see here, and hiking is very pleasurable. But be cautious at this spot, especially around the old furnace, as there is mercury residue nearby.

The final stop on my trip was Talley, once a farming community, now used mainly for river access. There are places to camp at Talley and the site is truly remote.

At this point, you've gone thirty-five miles down the River Road. On my journey, this was where we turned back. The River Road west of Talley is said to be in really bad shape and should be avoided unless in a four-wheel-drive vehicle.

There are a few things to consider before taking a motorized backcountry tour. Take plenty of water. If you break down way back on the River Road, it could be hours or possibly days before you see another person. Be sure to have a spare tire or two, and extra things like fan belts and hoses. A shovel comes in handy sometimes if you get stuck, and always tell someone where you're going and when you'll be back. Two-way radios work on certain parts of the River Road, but cellular phones will do absolutely no good. This is a true backcountry journey and should be approached thoughtfully. Most of the side roads go to the river. There are people that live on the Mexican side, so if you run into a local, please be polite. The Mexican people have a reputation for courtesy and politeness. Americans don't. If you drive the River Road, please be careful and enjoy yourself.

A visit to Marfa and unlocked doors

By JOAN R. NEUBAUER

When God made West Texas, He was having a particularly good day. Flatlands give way to rolling green and brown hills and rugged mountains of rusty red. Each bend in the road brings a new and exciting vista, along with gasps of admiration from visitors like this little Yankee girl.

I recently had the pleasure of accompanying Mary Katherine Earney back home on a visit to Marfa, a sleepy little town smack in the middle of West Texas. I found the people I met as varied and as beautiful as the surrounding countryside. Their warmth, their hospitality, their humor entertained me. Their common sense, their practicality, their knowledge, educated me. But small town living takes some getting used to.

Old habits die hard, and I have to admit that out of habit I locked the car doors each time Mary Katherine and I left it parked somewhere. And we stopped at so many places that I was constantly locking and unlocking doors. Then, on one of our visits to the post office, as I once more went through the unlocking ritual, the woman in the car next to me said with a smile, "Honey, this is Marfa. We don't lock our doors here."

We shared a laugh and a few funny comments when Mary Katherine explained, "You'll have to excuse her. She's not used to such a little town."

Little town or not, the people of Marfa made my visit both memorable and enjoyable as they welcomed me with warm, inviting smiles and hearty handshakes. I thank you all for that. Marfa may be a little town, but it has the biggest heart I've ever seen. I promise, on my next visit I'll try not to lock my car doors.

WOOL GATHERING

Bookworm

In cleaning out the bookcase, I made a mistake. I opened a book. So much for cleaning out the bookcase. It was 'The Education of Hyman Kaplan,' by Leonard Q. Ross. Although it was printed in 1937, it is well worth any one's time.

Kaplan was an immigrant in New York City, learning to speak and write English. He spoke of the west as 'vest,' and conjugated good as "good, better and high class;" bad as "bad, worse, rotten;" and okay came out as "Hau Kay," which Kaplan is. Good for laughs.

Next there was 'Miss Minerva and William Greenhill.' Nothing is so much fun as that book, at least since "me and Wilkes Booth Lincoln were born." Going through William's trials of his spinster aunt trying to raise him as a girl - he resisted vigorously as any six-year-old boy would do - and he talked about Aunt Blue Gum Tempy Paruney Perline and her husband, Uncle Pill Jerk Peter, who had raised him until he joined Miss Minerva.

The last book I allowed myself was, 'El Sombrero de Tres Picos.' It had been a Spanish textbook at the University of Texas in 1932 with Miss Cassis. The poem written on the back page by a student was worth the whole book:

Of all the many crimes
My wicked past bestrewing
I most regret the ones
That someone caught me doing.

If I laugh at myself
And the fool things I do
It won't bother me much
To see others laugh, too.

A rule for good conduct
Which hasn't failed yet
Is just to do nothing
You'd like to forget.

Peers lavish Lassiter for three Texas decades

FORT DAVIS - To mark Doralene Lassiter's 30th year as a state of Texas employee, co-workers surprised her with a dinner party at the Indian Lodge Restaurant last Wednesday.

Employees from every field office she supervises attended the dinner as well as her superiors from El Paso.

Lassiter is a Registered Nurse and currently serves as the Rio Grande Area Nursing Supervisor and nurse manager for the Marfa field office for the Texas Department of Health (TDH). The Rio Grande Area includes the counties of Presidio, Jeff Davis, Brewster and Hudspeth.

A spokesperson for Public Health Region said that it was truly an honor to have Lassiter as part of the state health department team. "Someone with her caliber of expertise and knowledge cannot be matched. She consistently advocates for her clients, employees and her community. She is dedicated to her profession and her family and continually strives to improve herself."

"Should you ever wonder what a 'true' public health nurse is or represents, Doralene is that very person. We thank Doralene for all of her years of dedicated service to TDH and we continue to wish the very best to her and her family."

In 1966, Lassiter began working with the Texas Department of Human Services, and in 1968 she was hired by TDH as a nurse in Marfa.

She participated in the inception of the following preventative health services: maternity, family planning, child health, adult health, case management immunization, WIC program, and sexually transmitted diseases/HIV.

In 1972 she became the nurse manager for the Marfa field office. At that time, Presidio was a satellite site and residents from Shafter, Redford and Ruidosa were served.

She served on the Marfa school board for nine consecutive years beginning in 1976.

In 1979 she received the Community Achievement Award from the Marfa Chamber of Commerce.

When TDH extended public health services to the counties of Brewster, Jeff Davis, Culberson and Hudspeth, Lassiter was directly involved in the planning and the delivery of services to those counties.

Lassiter received the Nurse of the Year Award for her region in 1991.

She currently serves as a

member of the Big Bend Regional Hospital District board of directors and has held that position since the bi-county district was formed.

She is the area nurse supervisor for the Marfa, Fort Davis, Alpine, Sierra Blanca and Presidio field offices, including the Presidio school-based clinic. She supervises five of a total of eight field offices in her region.

When asked why she has stayed with TDH as long as she has, she replied, "Had it not been for the staff I work with, I would not have survived. They and the clients are the ones that make the difference and make it all worthwhile."

Lassiter belongs to the First United Methodist Church of Marfa where she sings in the choir and played in the bell choir as well. She has been married to her husband, Marfa CPA Bobby Lassiter, for 38 years. Her children, Adam (deceased), Arman, Linda and her grandson, Trey, are her pride and joy.

Presidio County gets FEMA grant

Presidio County is the recipient of an $18,263 grant from the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA), to help feed the hungry and shelter the homeless during fiscal year 1997. The state of Texas was awarded a total of almost $8.2 million.

This marks the fourteenth year that Congress has appropriated funds for those with non-disaster needs under the Emergency Food and Shelter (EFS) National Board Program.

The EFS program is a public/private partnership. FEMA chairs a national board composed of representatives from the American Red Cross, Catholic Charities USA, Council of Jewish Federations, National Council of Churches, The Salvation Army, and United Way. The board develops each year's distribution plan based on unemployment and poverty rates.

Marfa teachers, that's who Students nominate educators for recognition

Marfa High School teachers Timothy Flanagan and Jay Foster, and Marfa Elementary School teachers Marta Menendoza, Jose Sanchez, and Felicia Wood were recently selected by their former students to be listed in Who's Who Among America's Teachers.

A total of 120,000 teachers nationwide were nominated by students who are currently listed in Who's Who Among American High School Students or The National Dean's List - publications which recognize 5% of the country's high school and college students, respectively.

The students were requested to nominate teachers who "made a difference in their lives" by helping to shape their values, inspiring interest in a particular subject, or challenging students to strive for excellence.

Many students commented about the enthusiasm and knowledge their teachers demonstrated in the classroom, and many praised their teachers for the ability to relate to young people on a personal as well as a professional level.

Also listed in Who's Who are Alpine teachers Laurie Champion, Roberta Daniels, Dan Decker, Rosario De La O, Martin Estrada, William Green, Kathy Greenwood, Bob Hext, Raymond Kessler, Jimmy LaBaume, Benny Merideth, Barbara Nelson, Ernest Reising, David Rohr, Brenda Ross, Larry Sechrest, Barbara Stooksberry, William Whitley, and James Zeck.

Also listed are Fort Davis teachers Terence Davidson, Oscar Medley, and Pamela Seipp.

Small business advocate agency recognizes Bonilla

WASHINGTON - U.S. Rep. Henry Bonilla, R-Texas, has been named Guardian of Small Business by the National Federation of Independent Business, the nation's largest small business advocacy organization.

NFIB represents more than 600,000 small and independent businesses nationwide, including more than 36,000 in Texas. The organization honors U.S. lawmakers who provide consistent support for free enterprise by voting favorably on key small-business issues at least seventy percent of the time during a two-year session of Congress.

Bonilla's small-business voting record, based on 37 recorded votes, was 100 percent.

Among crucial issues for entrepreneurs this session were legislative proposals dealing with balancing the federal budget, reducing government regulation, protecting small businesses from frivolous lawsuits, simplifying pension plans, and making health insurance more readily available for small business owners.

NFIB is a non-profit, non-partisan organization which lobbies federal and state legislatures on behalf of small business. Small businesses comprise about 98 percent of all American employers, hire nearly 60 percent of the workforce, and create about two-thirds of all net new jobs.

Holocaust survivor to speak at Sul Ross

ALPINE - On Tuesday, October 29 at 7:30 p.m. in the Marshall Auditorium at Sul Ross State University, Mr. Mike Jacobs, a Dallas resident and Holocaust survivor, will present the second lecture in the Department of Behavioral and Social Sciences' Fall Colloquium series. Mr. Jacobs will speak of his experiences during the Holocaust.

Mr. Jacobs was born in 1925 in the small Polish town of Konin, a town whose Jewish community dated back to 1937. Two months after the Nazi army invaded Poland on September 1, 1939, Mr. Jacobs and his entire family were herded into cattle cars and moved to the ghetto in Ostrowiec. His parents, two brothers, and two sisters were murdered in the Treblinka death camp. Another brother was killed while fighting the Nazis.

Mr. Jacobs was sent to the camp Ostrowiec and subsequently transported to Auschwitz (Poland), Birkenau (Poland), and Mauthausen-Gusen II (Austria). He was liberated from the Mauthausen-Gusen II camp by the Americans on May 5, 1945.

Mr. Jacobs immigrated to the United States in 1951. He is the founder and a past president of the Holocaust survivors in Dallas, and is founder of the Dallas Memorial Center for Holocaust Studies.

In addition to discussing his experiences in the Holocaust, Mr. Jacobs will reflect on issues of humanity and freedom. Mr. Jacobs is on campus as part of the Honors History course, History 4317, "The Holocaust and After," taught by Dr. Wayne Sheehan, Professor of History.

State Representative Pete Gallego

Our Lady of Peace sets Friendly Fright Night

ALPINE - Our Lady of Peace Catholic Church in Alpine will host a 'Friendly Fright Night' Haunted House and Monster Mash Dance on Saturday, October 26.

The haunted house will open at 6 p.m. for grades K-4 at the parish school.

After kids have gone through the haunted house, they will go to the parish hall for a mini-carnival, including game booths, prizes and candy until 8 p.m. Also at 8 p.m., the haunted house will be open to all.

A $3 charge will cover the haunted house and dance, which will go from 8 p.m. to midnight in the parish hall. No alcohol will be allowed at the dance.

The charge for K-4 kids will be $2.

Gallego fundraiser Saturday

FAR WEST TEXAS - A barbecue fundraiser honoring State Representative Pete Gallego (D-Alpine) will be held Saturday, October 26 from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. The event will be held at the CF Ranch in Jeff Davis County.

Gallego is seeking his fourth term of office in November's general election. He serves House District 74, which includes Brewster, Culberson, Hudspeth, Jeff Davis, Kinney, Maverick, Pecos, Presidio, Terrell, and Val Verde counties. Texas Attorney General Dan Morales will be special guest at the event, along with other elected State and area officials.

Gallego is a member of the Sul Ross Century Club, the Sul Ross Ex-Students Association, the Alpine and Marathon Chambers of Commerce, and the Board of Visitors at UT Austin's McDonald Observatory.

The CF Ranch entrance is located thirteen miles north of Alpine on Texas Highway 118; its headquarters are 2.4 miles east past the third cattle guard.

A $25 donation is requested of each person attending the event. For more information, call (915) 837-5547.

Saint Mary's plans Fall Festival Sunday

MARFA - On Sunday, October 27, Saint Mary's Catholic Church will host a Fall Festival at its San Antonio Street location in Marfa. Food, music, games and more are planned for the all-day event.

Festivities begin at 8 a.m. with a Menudo breakfast prepared by the Catholic Daughters. Lunch at noon will feature hamburgers, chips and cokes.

The Catholic Youth Group will conduct children's games, beginning at 1 p.m. A Sweet and Prize Bingo will also be held. A costume contest for children up to 10 years of age begins at 3 p.m. awarding prizes for the best Halloween attire.

Candied apples, popcorn balls, and other treats will be sold at the festival; and live music will be provided for everyone's entertainment. Festivities end at 5 p.m.

The event is sponsored by the Catholic Daughters, the Apostolado, the Guadalupanas, the Catholics in Action Youth Group, the CCD teachers and sponsors, and the Lectors. All proceeds benefit St. Mary's Catholic Church.

The community is invited to enjoy Sunday's festivities.

use chiropractors?

It is far more common than you might imagine. They have found that regular chiropractic care often enhances their performance in addition to being very effective in returning them to peak performance following an injury. Doctors don't talk about the patients that they treat any more than a patient typically goes around talking about their health care and that's the reason you don't usually hear about who is being treated by a chiropractor.

Diagnostic device dedicated at Big Bend-area hospital

ALPINE - The long-awaited and much-needed CAT-Scan medical diagnostic device has been installed at Big Bend Regional Medical Center in Alpine and is ready to be used by area patients.

A dedication and ribbon cutting for the CAT-Scanner was held Saturday morning.

Hospital employee JoAnn Lister, who spent countless hours fund-raising and seeing this project completed, presented Mrs. Joan Negley Kelleher with a plaque of appreciation for her and her family's financial support of the CAT-Scan project.

After receiving the plaque, Kelleher said that many years ago her father was at their ranch south of Marathon and became ill. There was no hospital in Alpine at that time so he was taken to San Antonio. As a result of not getting immediate medical attention, he died.

Years later, a friend was visiting at the time he was, too, got sick. This time he was taken to the Alpine hospital and he survived his illness.

She added that doing something significant for this area had always been a dream of her mother's.

Kelleher's mother, Roxana Catto, was the major contributor for this project. The Alfred Gage Foundation, which includes as members Catto, Kelleher and Roxana Hayne, also contributed funds to the CAT-Scan.

Hospital Chief of Staff Dr. Cliff Pearce thanked everyone who helped with the project and said that it was a much-needed piece of equipment for the hospital and will help save lives.

Dr. Jim Luecke said that his daughter, Sarah, who suffered a stroke in the womb and other strokes after she was born, could have used the CAT-Scan had it been available. He was instrumental in raising area awareness for the need of this equipment as well as helping with the fund-raising.

Other financial contributors to the CAT-Scan project were The Dora Roberts Foundation, Chuck and Mary Brewer, William Goddard, Albert and Bertha McGrew, Paul Forchheimer Memorials, Robert Gribble, John Moss Memorials, Sara Luecke Fund-raiser, Jim and Margaret Francois, First National Methodist Church of Fort Davis, Paul and Kathleen Olsen, Paul and Teeby Forchheimer, Jan and Larry Smith, June and Delbert Dyke, Robert and Cathy Greenwood, Corene Comer, Joe Rose Memorial, Eve and Cecil Duncan, Alvin Jarrett Memorial, Ernest McCracken, and patrons of McDonald's Restaurant in Alpine.

Breast exam financial aid now available

In the Breast Health Awareness and Prevention Promotion, early detection is crucial. To encourage early detection, the following entities are working together to offer financial assistance for breast and cervical screenings.

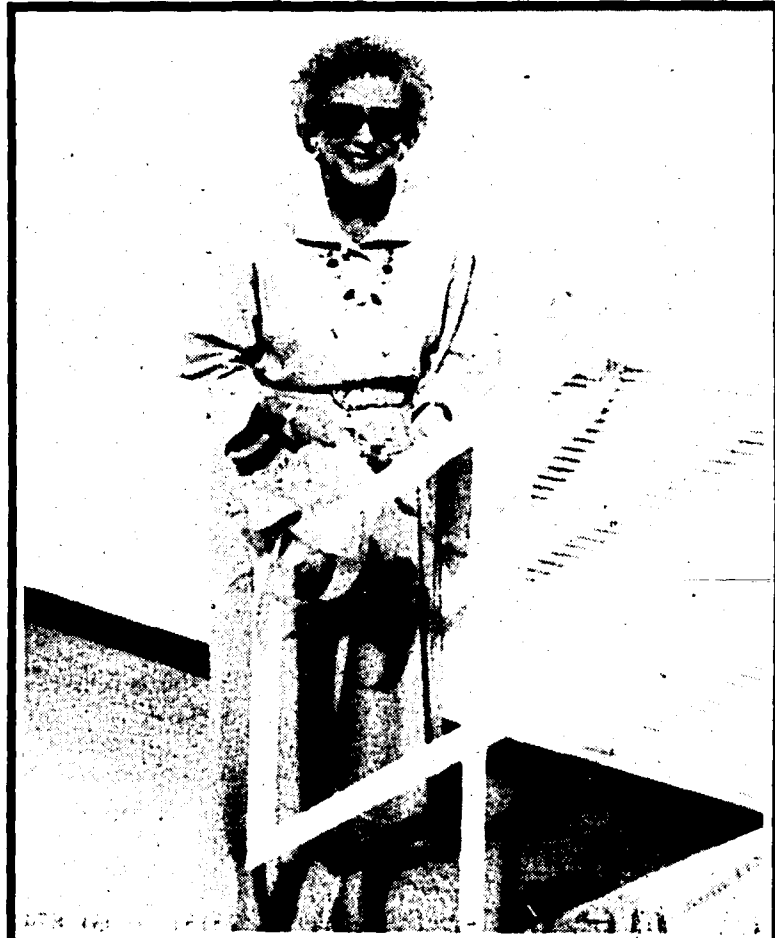

Big Bend Regional Medical Center, together with the West Texas Community Care Consortium of El Paso, the American Cancer Society, and Texas Tech Health Sciences Mobile Clinic of Lubbock, are providing financial assistance to those eligible, as well as education to residents of Brewster, Jeff Davis, and Presidio counties.

The program is operated out of Big Bend Regional Medical Center's Social Science Department, room 15.

To be eligible, women must be at or below 200% of the Federal Poverty Guidelines Income. Eligible women with insurance may receive assistance if their deductibles are too high.

Eligible women must have a clinical breast exam before the mammogram for the BCCCP program to cover the cost.

For more information about the program, examinations, or for financial screenings, contact Scholastica Hernandez or Elva Torres at (915) 837-3447, extension 15.

Mrs. Joan Negley Kelleher had the honor of cutting the ribbon to introduce Big Bend Regional's new CAT-Scan

Styfle Read

Read replaces Kiowa mural

ALPINE - Western muralist Styfle Read practices the old saying, "If at first you don't succeed, try, try again."

Read was commissioned two years ago by Keri Null and Katie Elms to paint an outdoor mural on the west wall of their Kiowa Gallery in Alpine. It depicts Presidio County pioneer settler Milton Favor crossing the Rio Grande near Presidio with a herd of cattle at night.

Recent rains and direct afternoon sunlight caused the mural to peel. The artist had no choice but to water blast what was left of the mural and start over.

"Two years ago the wall looked good, and there was no indication of peeling," Read said.

After inspecting the building this time he found that old paint on the building contributed to the peeling as well as the heavy rains and direct sunlight.

"Water was the main catalyst that started the lift," he said.

Read didn't want to take any chances, so he removed the existing mural, used a sealer on the wall and is using a clear primer with ultraviolet blocker over the new painting.

"A lot of people like the painting. It has become a symbol of Alpine," Read said.

He added that the Alpine Chamber of Commerce as well as the TV cable company have used a photo of the mural in their brochures.

Read is using photos of the original mural and with the help of an overhead projector, began outlining and painting different sections of the night scene.

The finished product will be a little different than the first one.

"No one can copy exactly the same when it's this scale," he said.

"The painting will look like Favor is crossing further down the river. It looks like Colorado Canyon now."

Other Alpine murals painted by Read include a western scene at the Crystal Bar done in 1989, three murals inside the lobby of the Best Western Classic Inn, the movie 'Giant' mural at the Reata Restaurant, and the backdrop at the Starlight Theatre in Terlingua.

He is currently working on a small mural outside the Reata Restaurant.

Read has lived in the Big Bend area off and on and currently resides in Fort Worth.

Chili cookoff celebrates thirty years of fun, food, and indigestion

TERLINGUA - Folks who haven't yet witnessed the abandon with which Terlingua celebrates its chili will have their chance next weekend. The thirtieth annual Terlingua International Championship Chili Cookoff commences Thursday and stretches into Saturday night.

The cookoff started in 1967 when Wick Fowler couldn't stand to let H. Allen Smith claim that he knew "more about chili than anyone else in the world." After all, Smith put beans in his recipe... a blatant faux pas among chiliheads.

The first cookoff on the front porch of the old Terlingua General Store was declared a draw by referee Frank X. Tolbert, so the two decided to come back the next year. The spectators had so much fun, they returned as well.

But it's not just chili that's up for judging in Terlingua. Festivities include a golf shoot-out at Lajitas, beginning at 10 a.m. Friday, November 1.

As for alternate foods, officials have scheduled the fifth annual Pea Eaters Anonymous P.E.A.-Off, a black-eyed pea cookoff which begins at 1 p.m. on Friday.

And human beans have their chance as well. The Bean Eaters Anonymous 15th annual B.E.A. Cookoff begins judging at 2 p.m. Friday.

At 3 p.m. barbecuists may enter their handiwork in the ninth annual Brisket Barbecue Cookoff. "Team Midland" with Ed

Kelley, and Washington State's "Beaver Castors" with Jim Erickson and Bob Lyon are expected to provide formidable competition in the race for best brisket.

To wash it all down, officials have planned two margarita mixoff competitions. At 6 p.m. Friday, strolling judges will rate entries in the "Peculiar Margarita" Mixoff, awarding points for both content and presentation.

And the World's Championship Margarita Mixoff begins at 10 a.m. Saturday.

The main event starts at high noon on Saturday, when chili judging begins. Award announcements will be made at 3 p.m.

Live music begins at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday nights, and features Jimmy Lee Jones, Ponty Bone, Terlingua's own Jack and Alice Knight, folk singer and storyteller Allen Damron, and a veritable treasure trove of others.

Registration for competitions will be held on Friday, November 1 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. and Saturday from 8 to 9 a.m.

Chili Cookoff officials expect roughly six jillion visitors to descend upon Terlingua for the event, bringing their RVs, vans, trailers, and tents. All visitors are reminded to pack the Pepcid.

For more information, contact Al Hopkins, P.O. Box 617, Corsicana TX 75151, (903) 874-5601.

Art in the news

By MARGARET ANDERSON

Two weekends ago was a wonderful celebration of Donald Judd's art and architecture hosted by the Chinati Foundation and the Judd estate, when the population of Marfa became three times its normal size!

It's now back to its slow and tranquil pace where the Marfa Arts Gallery and the Hospice of the Big Bend Thrift Shop exist side-by-side in complete harmony on West El Paso Street.

Right now, Elisa Galindo presides over an enormous donated inventory that she sells (from 25 cents to a $1) for the benefit of her customers and Hospice.

Next door, members of the gallery continue the monthly second Tuesday luncheons of gourmet food and attractive decor while displaying a wide variety of articles, collectibles and paintings, including oils by Lincy Corp of Alpine and watercolors by Margaret Anderson of Marfa.

There are also hand-made crafts and wooden and stuffed animals; in fact, too many works to itemize. May Quick has unique saint paintings (Anthony, Francis, Pascual) on wood that have the patina of the ancient Renaissance.

Other gallery news is that member Ethelene Finley has just returned from visiting in Lampasas, Black Gap, the Davis Mountains Resort and other places. Ellen Cross is enjoying a trip to England with a friend. Donna Evans is moving to McCamey where her husband with WTU is stationed. Lincy made a trip to Georgia to visit her family; they live on St. Simon Island.

Special dolls give students a brief taste of parenthood

By LAURAN KNIGHT

MARFA - This past week 'kids were having kid' in the Comprehensive Home Economics class at Marfa High School.

Sophomore and freshmen girls demonstrated their parenting skills for one week by mothering a five-pound flour sack or a baby doll.

The girls were obligated to carry their "children" with them everywhere they went. The babies were taken to sports practice, classes and home.

The object of this project was to make the girls realize how hard it is to keep up with the dolls and treat them as human beings.

For those girls that carried a flour sack, they had to take certain precautions so the 'baby' wouldn't leak flour because teacher Mrs. Kitchens would have known that the 'baby' was being mistreated.

"Having to carry around this flour sack for a week has definitely changed my mind about having a kid," said MHS sophomore Mandy Guevara. "It gave me more responsibility than I was ready for and it limited my activities. All I can say is just don't get pregnant unless you're ready."

Mrs. Kitchens said most of the girls did really well and will begin a new project this week.

By ROXANE LUJAN

Taking care of 'Baby Think It Over' was a horrible experience for me. I hated having to wake up at night to 'feed' the baby so it would stop crying.

The 'baby' belongs to the Home Economics department. A computerized chip in the doll makes it cry for three reasons: hunger, not being held right and abusive handling. To stop the crying I had to feed the baby with . . . If that didn't work I had to hold it until it stopped crying.

Driving my standard vehicle while holding the baby was the hardest thing to do. The baby would start crying, and I would drive and 'feed' the baby at the same time.

Having to wake up three times a night to feed was one of the worst things. And, having to take it everywhere was a hassle. Baby Think It Over really made me think it over.

D.A.R.E. TO SHARE

By City of Marfa DARE Officer Jeff Fitzgerald

MARFA - The 1996-97 Drug Abuse Resistance Education Program began its second year in the Marfa Independent School District. Sixty-seven fifth and sixth-grade students are participating in the seventeen-week core curriculum. This year, the students have been introduced to D.A.R.E. and have learned what effects these drugs have on a person's body and mind. They have also been considering the consequences of choosing to use drugs, and choosing to be drug-free. During lessons four and five, students learned about peer pressure and resistance techniques for four types of peer pressures. Self-esteem and assertiveness are currently being covered.

On October 2, 1996, I was invited to the Marfa Ministerial Alliance's breakfast meeting, held at the Thunderbird restaurant. During this meeting, I had the opportunity to update the D.A.R.E. program and speak about our needs for this school year. The Marfa Ministerial Alliance donated $250 for D.A.R.E. merchandise needs. This donation is greatly appreciated and I would like to thank each member of the Alliance for the gift.

This year, it is our goal to teach D.A.R.E. to the entire student body at Marfa Elementary School. It is also our goal to present D.A.R.E. meetings to as many clubs, groups, businesses and parents in Marfa as possible. Several projects are being planned, including a D.A.R.E. parent meeting, tentatively scheduled for Wednesday, November 20 at 6 p.m.

Let's encourage our children to make good decisions and remain drug-free. Our kids are our future. Until next week, remember... just D.A.R.E. to share.

STUDENT SPOTLIGHT

Sarah Fellows in the spotlight

Shorthorn Staff

MARFA - MHS junior Sarah Fellows is in the spotlight this week.

She is a member of the Lady Horns varsity volleyball team and is co-captain of this year's cheerleading squad.

In the spring, Sarah plans to participate in basketball and track and field.

She is on the Shorthorn yearbook staff and has been class secretary for three years. As a freshman she was in the band and Spanish Club.

Sarah Fellows

Her favorite pastime is playing sports, and she likes her journalism class.

Jesus Spencer spotlight student

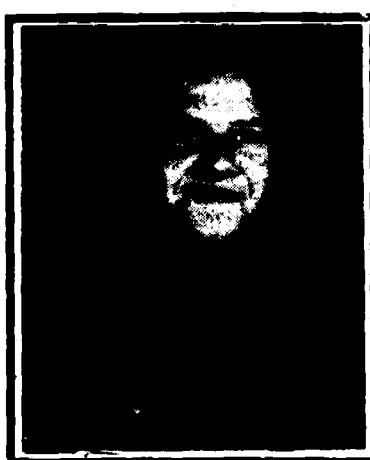

MARFA - Jesus Spencer has been chosen as this week's spotlight student.

As a sophomore, Jesus - 'Pepe' as he is known to his friends - is a member of the MHS Shorthorn football quad. He is a tackle and is a member of the kick-off team.

In the spring he will join baseball and track and field.

'Pepe' lived in Ojinaga, Mexico before moving to Marfa two years ago. He has three sisters.

When not in school, Pepe said "I like to cruise with my friends."

Blazing Horns get division 3 rating

By ZAIDE CABEZUELA
MARFA - The Blazing Horns of Marfa High School received a division III at marching contest in El Paso Saturday.

The band performed at Socorro Activity Complex under the direction of Chuck Wilson and drum major Bianca Gonzalez.

"The students felt good about how they performed," Wilson said. "They know they did better this year than last year from watching the video tape of their performance."

Volleyball district champs T-shirts go on sale today

MARFA - Marfa High School will be selling volleyball play-off t-shirts in honor of this year's Lady Horn District Champs.

The shipment is expected to arrive to today. The T-shirts are available in various sizes and will cost $12 each. XXL and XXXL are also available, but are $13 each.

Only 80 shirts are available and will be sold on a 'first-come, first-served' basis.

For more information or to purchase a shirt contact Mrs. Whitlock at 729-4000 at the high school.

Kindergartners receive first "letterbooks"

Shorthorn Staff

MARFA - The start of the second six-weeks brought some exciting changes in the kindergarten department.

The students received their first "Letterbooks." The next two weeks kindergarten students will be studying about the letter 'C' and the sound it makes. The letterbook series is a phonics-based introduction to reading.

The books teach how to print the letters, the sound the letters make, concepts, such as loud/soft and other activities. A CupCake baking project is planned to celebrate the finishing of the 'C' letterbook.

Kindergarten students were also introduced to the Saxon Math Program.

Fall vocabulary and fall booklets were a big project. American Indian Day was recognized on September 24. Johnny Appleseed was recognized on September 26.

Art projects included apple stamping and apple cutouts. Johnny Appleseed songs and apples to eat were as favorite.

The students also participated in Homecoming Spirit Week activities.

Barraza scores 3 touchdowns

Horns stomp over Ft. Hancock with 56-0 victory last Friday

MARFA - The Marfa Shorthorns evened their District 4-A record with a 56-0 victory over Fort Hancock as Miquel Barraza scored three touchdowns.

Barraza scored from the eight, six and five-yard line in a 25-yard second quarter burst that put the game away Friday night in Fort Hancock.

Horn senior Manny Baeza led the winners with 109 yards rushing on 12 carries.

Quarterback Eric Garcia and Dale Petrosky each scored two touchdowns as the Shorthorns moved to 1-1 in district play.

The offense has rushed for 1,624 yards for the season averaging 5.1 per carry, according to MHS Head Coach Jack Ruiz. Barraza leads the Horns in rushing with 523 yards followed by Baeza with 439 yards.

Garcia has rushed for 285 yards and thrown for 694 yards. Receiving these passes is Wesley Hernandez, one of the leading receivers in West Texas with 17 catches for 471 yards and seven touchdowns averaging 27.7 per catch.

"Our defense stepped up to meet the challenge when they only allowed one penetration for the Mustangs and held their leading rusher to 46 yards," Ruiz said.

Leading the way in tackles for the season are sophomore Jonathon Muhle and senior John Vasquez with 75 each. Jesus Spencer has accumulated 58 tackles followed by Joseph Orosco with 52.

Interception leaders are Eric Garcia and Leroy Gutierrez with two each.

The Horn's aggressive defense has blocked six punts and two extra points this year.

"As a team, we are healthy and in very good condition. Our attitude is great. We're just having fun playing the game of football."

"A lot of credit goes to our coaching staff. A very small staff, I might add, but we back up each other and work as a team. And, that's what counts," Ruiz said.

Horns to face Indians Friday

By LAURAN KNIGHT

MARFA - The Shorthorns will meet up with the Fort Davis Indians at 8 p.m. Friday at Martin Field.

The Purple and White will be looking for Fort Davis quarterback Brent Turnbough, who is considered the key of the Indian's team.

"Turnbough has a really great arm with a lot of quickness," said Head Football Coach Jack Ruiz.

Ruiz is counting on the defense to contain Turnbough and stop the Indian offense.

The Fort Davis running backs also make up a strong team, something the fighting Shorthorns are planning to stop.

On the offensive side the Shorthorns will be running the option.

"If they can stop our fullback then it's going to be a long night," Ruiz said.

Last week Fort Davis lost 54-0 to the Wink Wildcats, the number 10 team in the state.

"I really felt that Fort Davis was going to play Wink a lot closer especially playing them at home," Ruiz said. "But, you never know what's going to happen in this league. Maybe the Indians were thinking ahead for this week's game against us. You know they'll be up for us."

He said the team is preparing itself just like any other district game.

"It's all going to come down to who has the most turnovers," he said.

The Marfa Lady Shorthorns celebrate last week's district championship victory over Fort Davis

Lady Horns beat Balmorhea in stunning display of athleticism

MARFA, BALMORHEA - The Marfa Lady Shorthorns downed the Balmorhea Bears 8-15, 15-3, 15-0, in non-district volleyball action Monday in Balmorhea.

Marfa was crowned 1996 district champ last week with a win over the Fort Davis Indians, and the Balmorhea game was the last regular game of the season for the Lady Horns.

Marfa faces Dell City on Thursday, November 7, in Van Horn for the bi-district title in the first round of the state playoffs.

In action against Balmorhea, the Marfa team just didn't crank up right away in the 8-15 game one loss.

"We probably took them too lightly," Coach Jay Foster said. "We made too many mental mistakes and unforced errors."

Nevertheless, Sy Travis had four service points, including an ace, Danna Buscher's two points were both aces and Lauran Knight served two points.

In kills, Buscher had 3; Rosela Rivera, 2; and Knight, 1.

Rivera also had 2 digs.

In game two, Marfa built a 13-3 lead and Kathy Lujan tied up the match with a game-winning ace.

Service points included 5 by Lujan, including an ace; 3 by Travis, including an ace; 3 by Mandy Guevara, including an ace; 2 by Buscher, including an ace; and 1 point each by Sophia Aguilar and Rivera.

Aguilar and Buscher each had a dig.

Marfa kept the Bears off balance in game three with its service game and "the girls did a good job of playing the ball," Foster said.

"This was our last regular season game," he said, "and we are looking for some practice games to tune up for the bi-district play-off."

Junior High Horns remain undefeated

By MANNY BAEZA

MARFA - The Marfa Junior High Shorthorns remain undefeated this season as they blanked the Presidio Blue Devils, 58-0, last Thursday night.

Eighth grader Eric Lujan rushed for 206 yards on nine carries including five touchdowns.

Luis Madrid also scored for the Junior Horns. He returned a punt 60 yards for the touchdown.

The defense was led by Gabriel Vasquez with 13 tackles. He also had an interception. Auden Flores had 10 tackles and Ernest Chavez has eight. The Junior High Shorthorns will play again today.

MILITARY NEWS

Air Force Staff Sgt. Daniel F. Vega, son of Jesus G. and Mary F. Vega of Grandfalls, has been decorated with the Air Force Achievement medal.

The medal is awarded to individuals for meritorious service, acts of courage, or other outstanding accomplishments.

After the terrorist bombing at Khobar Towers in Dharan, Saudi Arabia, Vega's augmentation support was critical to the success of the Casualty Emergency Operations Center. He responded to countless questions from concerned family members and directed media inquiries to appropriate agencies.

This is Vega's second award of this medal.

The sergeant is an administrative communications supervisor at Randolph Air Force Base in San Antonio, Texas.

He is a 1984 graduate of Alpine High School. His wife, Melinda, is the daughter of Alonzo and Alicia Aguilar of Alpine.

Marine Pfc. Felipe Granados, son of Juan J. and Rosa M. Granados of Alpine, recently graduated from the Marine Corps basic refrigeration mechanic course.

During the course at U.S. Army Ordnance Center and School, Aberdeen Proving Ground, Maryland, students concentrate on learning basic electrical and refrigeration theory, refrigeration systems and refrigeration units. The course also studies in maintenance and repair of air conditioners and bulk refrigeration equipment.

The 1995 graduate of Alpine High School joined the Marines in December 1995.

Army Pvt. Edward W. Lusk has graduated from the cavalry scout course at Fort Knox, Radcliff, Ky.

Students received basic combat and reconnaissance training, camouflage and concealment, communications, demolitions, and first aid.

Lusk is the son of J.C. and Dusty Lusk of Alpine. He is a 1994 graduate of Valentine High School.

Fortin

ning to discover the fort - located just east of Presidio on the river road - as it is western headquarters for nearby Big Bend Ranch State Park, and more visitors are expected as word gets out about the living history program.

In 1995, Cater formed Los Amigos del Fortin, and the group helped stage Halloween and Christmas festivals at the fort last year.

But Cater figured more needed to be done, and with the help of park and site Superintendent Luis Armendariz and Assistant Superintendent Rod Trevizo, they applied to the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department for a living history program grant.

Cater said he expected to receive a token amount, but late this past summer he received word that the entire grant amount - $23,348 - had been approved.

He, other Presidio teachers, students and fort staff quickly went to work, buying and making period clothing, developing the docent and living history programs and working on the fort to install the working exhibits.

Art teacher Madelyn Farmer and her classes helped with the costumes, and theater arts teacher Marion Hughes and her students scripted a play. Cater also enlisted friends who specialize in traditional arts and crafts.

The grant also includes 12 positions for parttime employment as docents and tour guides this year, and Cater said more than 30 students applied for the positions.

He said all the applicants could have done the work and it was the hardest decision he had to make to select the 12. They are Manuel Moreno, Ivan Lujan, Cesar Pando, Ernesto Madrid, Joshue Lozoya, Jesse Atkinson, Anel Urquidez, Tisha Abundez, Victoria Segura, Dania Ponce, Abigail Rey and Joe Herrera.

In this border community with little for young people to do except party in OJ and with even smaller employment opportunities, the work is a boon for the students.

It also is a chance to let Presidio students learn about their heritage, however bitter some of the history may be.

By most accounts, Leaton was a cutthroat, looking out for number one and number one alone: himself. He acquired his land in the fertile Presidio valley by marrying a Mexican widow in whose name the land was in.

He was accused of selling Indian scalps to the Mexicans and selling out the Mexicans to U.S. authorities. He played each group against each other for his own gain.

A massacre at el fortin occurred when he invited a group of men that he believed had cheated him on a horse-trading deal to a great feast. As they were eating, heavy wooden doors were opened and they were killed by cannon fire.

But Leaton also is credited with helping settle an untamed area of Texas.

Because of the atrocities that Leaton is accused of, some local residents to this day refuse to call the site Fort Leaton; they refer to it as El Fortin.

Trevizo said plans call for submitting another grant for the project to continue next year. Whether it is granted, the program will continue in some fashion.

Plans call for opening a trading post at the fort to sell the handmade items. The idea is that the program will become self-sustaining.

Next week's fiesta coincides with a parks and wildlife workshop to be lead by park interpreter David Alloway. State park employees from throughout the state are expected.

It is the idea of the group to show them their living history program and to get pointers from those who already have implemented living history programs at their parts.

Among those invited to attend are Texas Gov. George Bush, Parks and Wildlife Department Andy Sansom and his staff and members of the parks and wildlife commission.

It is an attempt to envision the foundation in a different light, as a self-sufficient society, the result of our assumption that there is a common, basic desire of people to change the place where they live. We are sorry some readers misinterpreted the meaning of this abstract idea. THE VISION, SCOPE AND STRUCTURE OF THE CHINATI FOUNDATION ARE NOT AFFECTED BY THIS PROJECT. Lupus group to meet Sunday

ALPINE - The regular meeting of the Lupus Awareness Discussion Group will take place at 3 p.m. Sunday, October 27 with special guest speaker Carolyn Allred of Alpine to discuss the subject of Fibromyalgia.

The group invites all members of the general public, especially those having Systemic Lupus Erythematosis, related conditions of the auto-immune system, Fibromyalgia, as well as those with chemical sensitivities.

Family members as well as members of the medical profession are also invited to attend.

The chronic condition of Fibromyalgia is a complex disorder often manifesting in inflammation of the joints frequently found in family lineage. Having assembled information from various conferences and sources, Miss Allred will provide a general summary of research available.

Held at the home of Helen Anderson, 303 East Sul Ross Ave. in Alpine, the Lupus Awareness Group is a casual association that exchanges ideas, offers help, and shares personal experiences during its sessions.

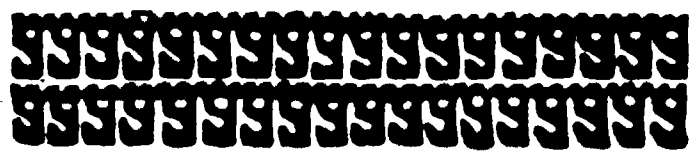

All meetings are free of charge and light refreshments are available.

able.

It is requested that all attending avoid using fragrances that might affect others at the meeting.

The group will also observe October as National Lupus Awareness Month, hoping to educate others about the disorder.

Information: Helen Anderson, (915) 837-2168, or Elaine Harmon, (915) 426-3164.

WHY TEXAS?

Texas is a unique place, full of different climatic zones. In fact, Texas is a way of life. Many believe it to be a state of mind. Whatever else, it is, it is currently home to some nineteen million people, growing at 2.5 % or about 450,000 people per year. If it were an Independent Nation, it would be the fifth largest economy in the World.

Most of you know of the glorious 15 minutes at San Jacinto on March 2, 1836, when as Santa Anna's troops were enjoying their siesta, Sam Houston's rag tag Army that had run for weeks, stood and fought. The long despairing retreat was military strategy at its finest. Houston, knowing that he could not match the 12,000 regular Mexican Soldiers' fire power, ran and ran until he arrived at the time and place of his choosing. When he got his rag tag group across White Oak Bayou, he sent one of his most trusted scouts, Dear Smith, with a small patrol to chop down the only bridge across the Bayou. There was to be no retreat. The time had come to win or die.

The next 9 years were pure hell for the maybe 200,000 people who were citizens of The Republic of Texas. There was no money to do anything. The Republic of Texas borrowed three million dollars from the Bank of England. Defending their homes from the Comanches was nigh onto impossible. The Waco tribes of the Comanches were probably the best cavalries in the world. They raided in small bands a thousand miles from their homes. The citizens came to Texas seeking Freedom. They found Freedom plus the responsibilities that go with Freedom.

Finally, in 1845, a delegation was dispatched to Washington, D.C. to negotiate to enter the Union. They offered all the unappropriated lands in the state if they were permitted to join the Union and the United States assume that three-million-dollar loan from the Bank of England. Those terms were rejected. The Treaty under which Texas joined the Union provided that Texas keep its lands, and its three million dollar debt. That treaty was ratified by a one vote majority. We never looked back. All of that vast wasteland, enormous deposits of oil, gas, sulphur and mineral wealth provided for low taxes. The Permanent School Fund and the Permanent University Fund are supported by millions of acres of land that can never be sold. Its income is preserved into perpetuity. Only the interest on these earnings can be used for education. Out of seeming disaster, opportunity has nurtured the basic needs of our citizens.

Out in the Big Country of Far West Texas a giant is awakening. A classic movie by that name was filmed in Marfa. A new 40-acre green house to grow tomatoes in is nearing completion in Fort Davis. The Big Bend Sentinel reports the possibility of one or two other facilities at Marfa and/or near Valentine.

The Rio Grande mining Company has blocked out thirty million ounces of silver at Shafter. The price of silver must reach $5.50 per ounce to make it economically feasible. Recently two separate hard mineral leases have been granted just North of Shafter.

It is truly an opportunity of a lifetime.

As the exclusive Broker, I offer for sale, subject to prior sale, 4,480 acres of surface estate only 3.5 miles southwest of Shafter, Presidio County, Texas. There are no minerals, no wells, nor any fences. It is one mile off Highway 67, with two deeded easements. The price is $35 per acre, for a total of $156,800, if you want to own a hunting ranch on the last frontier, desert brush, stimulating views and limitless opportunity. Principals only, please. If you can decide, call Lamar Golding, Exclusive Broker, at (915) 694-5502, Midland.

Women's Aglow celebrates 15 years of ministry here

VAN HORN, MARFA - The Big Bend Christian women's Aglow Fellowship will celebrate fifteen years of ministry in the area this weekend, with meetings scheduled for Friday, October 25 at 7 p.m. at the Van Horn Civic Center, and Saturday, October 26 at 1 p.m. at St. Paul's Episcopal Church in Marfa.

Aglow is an international, interdenominational Christian women's organization which maintains chapters in 130 nations. It began in Washington state with four women who wanted to meet together as Christians without denominational barriers. Today, prayer and evangelism are the two basic tenets of Women's Aglow.

Connie Lozano of San Angelo, Midwest Texas area treasurer, will be the event's main speaker. Josie Molina from Monahans will direct the praise music in Van Horn. Vera Campbell of Alpine will lead the music ministry in Marfa.

For more information about the event, contact Jere McBride in Alpine, (915) 837-3630, or in Marfa, Josie Vasquez at 729-4165, or Astrid Nunez at 729-4520.

park, scheduled for Nov. 15-17. The Texas Parks & Wildlife Department is offering buckaroos on this trail ride and two future rides this winter a chance to see up close the natural wonders of the state's largest park - an ecologically diverse property encompassing 270,000 acres of the Chihuahuan Desert in the remote Big Bend country.

Riders will enjoy nights around the campfire and sleep in the Saucedo Bunkhouse. They'll spend the day on horseback riding the rugged ranch land on this educational trail ride that will stress the ranch's cultural and natural heritage.

Leading the trail ride will be Big Bend Ranch guide Jim Carr, a Houston photographer who has conducted photo workshops for TPWD at the ranch, and Lockhart photographer Peggy Parks. Carr says trail riders who bring along a camera will have a great opportunity to capture beautiful images of cottonwoods and other fall foliage, while learning about the ranch's colorful cultural and natural history.

"The main purpose for having a trail ride is to open up new areas of the park to tourism," Carr says. "On horseback is the only way to really see the park the way it's meant to be viewed. It'll be fun and educational."

Water-rich Leyva Canyon is the destination for trail riders on Sunday. Plenty of fall foliage, flowing springs and Native American caves typical of the ranch's canyonlands will highlight the nine-hour trip. Each day's ride, designed to accommodate experienced as well as novice equestrians, will cover about 12 miles of rugged, scenic back country.

The cost of the trail ride is $425, or $416 for Texas Conservation Passport holders. The price includes a mount, meals, tack, lodging and entertainment. Riders must sign a waiver acknowledging they are physically able to participate in the activity.

For more information, contact Jim Carr at (713) 486-8070 or Peggy Parks at (512) 398-7627.

Group meeting Nov. 1 Local SWCD to initiate a resource needs assessment

MARFA - "As a result of the 1996 Farm Bill the Highland Soil and Water Conservation District (SWCD) with headquarters in Marfa, along with 3,000 other SWCDs in the nation, has been given the charge to lead the way in developing programs and initiatives to improve soil and water resources at the local level," said Jack Saunders, chairman of the SWCD.

"After years of applying top-down program management approaches in federal conservation programs, the new 1996 Farm Bill establishes a locally driven process, coordinated by conservation districts, to guide the state and nation's agricultural conservation efforts. It provides tremendous opportunities for local people to become involved in assessing local resource needs, setting priorities, developing conservation policy, providing technical support, accepting program applications and approving conservation plans upon which cost-sharing will be based," Saunders added.

According to Jack Saunders, the process deals with developing a list of priority areas and concerns for the long range Farm Bill program for Fiscal Year 1998 and beyond.

To enact the Farm Bill on the local level, the Highland SWCD, in partnership with the USDA Natural Resources Conservation Service, will conduct a work group meeting with its conservation partners and interested persons or organizations on Friday, Nov. 1 at 1 p.m. at The Marfa National Bank meeting room in Marfa.

The purpose of the meeting is to conduct a local conservation needs assessment, establish local priorities and make program recommendations on what problems the SWCD should address in future years.

Local recommendations will then flow to the state level where the district's various technical issues, resource priority areas and program policies will be reviewed and integrated into a state, regional and national program.

"We are really excited about the opportunities the new Farm Bill offers because Congress is seeking our leadership to assist our community in carrying out a cooperative, locally driven, incentive-based conservation program that wisely invests public resources to protect local natural resources," said Jack Saunders.

BBNP fiesta well attended

BIG BEND NATIONAL PARK - More than 1,400 people took part in the 16th annual International Good Neighbor Day Fiesta in Big Bend National Park last Saturday.

The Children's Fiesta had record attendance with more than 250 participants.

"We were very pleased with the excellent attendance at the fiesta," park Superintendent Jose Cisneros said. "We had many local people from around the Big Bend area, as well as park visitors from all over the world."

Cisneros announced the winners of the essay/poetry contest for local school children. The theme was, "What the Rio Grande Means to Me."

Winners for best English essay were: Jose Villa, Terlingua, first; Matt Hender, BBNP, second; Corazon Maxwell, Terlingua, third.

Winners for best Spanish essay were: Yadira Ortega, Santa Elena, Chihuahua, Mexico, first; Maria Belia Ureste, Bo-quillas, Coahuila, Mexico, second; Jose Guadalupe Benavidez Sandoval, Ojo Caliente, Coahuila, Mexico, third.

The contest was sponsored as part of the 'Dia del Rio,' an annual day of celebration of the Rio Grande and its associated natural and cultural diversity that takes place at the same time in communities along the entire length of the river.

The Ford Foundation and Houston Advanced Research Center provided financial support.

"This was the second annual 'Dia del Rio,' but this was the first year that the fiesta was an official 'Dia del Rio' event," Cisneros said. "The Rio Grande faces critical problems with water allocation and supplies, pollution, and loss of wildlife habitat. Collaboration and cooperation up and down the river is essential. We will ensure that future fiestas are held on this important day."

DEATH

Robert Paul 'Robo' Cross, 65, of Alpine died Wednesday, Oct. 16, 1996, at his residence.

Service was at 3:30 p.m. Friday at the First Baptist Church of Alpine with burial in Elm Grove Cemetery. Arrangements were by Geeslin Funeral Home.

He was born Sept. 26, 1931, in San Antonio and had lived in Alpine since 1981. An Air Force veteran of the Korean War, he was the owner of Big Bend Wool and Mohair and a rancher and a member of the First Baptist Church.

Survivors include his wife, Reba Cross of Alpine; two sons, Justin Guy Cross of Alpine and Stuart Paul Cross of Mansfield; a daughter, Kimberly Dawn Cross Johnson of Lockhart; three sisters, Janet Thompson, Mae Tarrant and Dorothy Cotter, all of Midland; and six grandchildren.

CRAIG WILLIAMS,

PLAINTIFF

V.

FERRELL CAMPBELL

AND MIKE ORTEN, DEFENDANTS

IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF WALLER COUNTY, TEXAS 9TH JUDICIAL DISTRICT

MOTION FOR SUBSTITUTED SERVICE

TO THE HONORABLE JUDGE OF SAID COURT:

NOW COMES Craig Williams, Plaintiff in the above entitled and numbered cause, and makes this Motion for Substituted Service of Process on Defendant, Mike Orten, and in support thereof will show the following:

I.
In accordance with Section V, Rule 106 (a)(1), Plaintiff has sought on numerous occasions to obtain the exact whereabouts of, Defendant, Mike Orten, including diligently searching the Waller County Deed Records for an address for the Defendant. Plaintiff, in all aspects, has been unsuccessful in obtaining an address in which service can be rendered on Defendant, Mike Orten.

II.
Plaintiff moves that this court allow Plaintiff to serve Defendant, Mike Orten by publication, pursuant to Section V Tex. Rul. of Civ. Proc. Rule 109, or any other manner the Court may deem reasonably effective to give the Defendant notice of the suit.

PRAYER

WHEREFORE, PREMISES CONSIDERED, Plaintiff requests that the Court order service on the Defendant, Mike Orten by publication, and that a true copy of the order for substituted service be attached to and included with the Citation and Petition so served, and that Plaintiff have such other relief to which Plaintiff may show himself justly entitled.
