AN INFINITE ADVENTURE

Ever been Volcano Surfing in Nicaragua? Perhaps Sand Surfing in Dubai then?

Ever visited Llanfairpwllgwyngyllgogerychwyrndrobwlilllantysiliogogoch? It's in Wales.

Ever zorbed? It basically entails rolling down a hill in a big inflated ball. Invented in New Zealand.

In 2012, Kate Eccarius and Rémi Le Calvez plan on doing not only that but more in the web series, 'An Infinite Summer'. The duo will chase summer (literally) around the world, beginning in Australia in December 2011 (the mark of the southern hemispheres' summer) and then continuing up to the northern hemisphere through Asia by June 2012 [ref. Map]. Every step of the way will be captured as Kate and Rémi discover the weird and strangely captivating things this world has to offer. 'An Infinite Summer' doesn't aim to solely explore textbook tourist destinations as many shows have done before, it aims to get down and dirty with the culture, customs and alternative activities each place has to offer. Each episode will be accessible via the Internet; targeting audiences of the new online generation.

Born and bred in Melbourne, Australia; Kate spends her days camera assisting on TV shows, commercials and music videos. She has a proclivity for photography and an extraordinary knowledge of Final Cut Pro and when backpacking around Europe for nine months discovered her proficiency in deciphering train timetables.

Rémi was born in a small provincial town of France, today commonly known as Paris. With a penchant for website creation and design, Rémi spend his days and most nights deciphering and writing code. Much like the matrix. Picking fruit and roving the Australian outback on a working visa in 2008, Rémi returned three years later, only this time to pursuit a crazy Australian girl named Kate. It was then they initiated the planning of 'An Infinite Summer'.

Thus, with Rémi's expertise in the world wide web and Kates' in film & television (and 6 months planning) – 'An Infinite Summer' will be launched online in English followed by a launch in French soon after.

BUT WHY ONLINE?

Take YouTube and its 490 million users for an example. YouTube isn't just videos of funny cats and other viral curiosities; it's now a glimpse at the future of television. And I'm sure TV executives know it too. Even products like GoogleTV, Apple TV, Boxee, Xbox, TiVo and many BluRay players have moved the Internet into the television, closing the gap between web-based entertainment and broadcast/cable entertainment. 'An Infinite Summer' will be filmed in 1080p HD quality (higher than the TV broadcast standard). The aim is to have 100,000 viewers by July 2012.

We want a community, not an audience. Keep the experience real and accessible.

"For me, it's always been about storytelling, making people laugh, and sharing. It's a great community who provide instant feedback and interaction and it's a very different dynamic to the traditional television show and audience relationship."

– Natalie Tran (YouTube personality)

Kate and Rémi have created a short demos from the first episode; Melbourne.

Kate and Rémi have also created established the website which includes some photography, links, videos and blogs.

*Please keep in mind these are both in development and only reflect a speck of what the final product aims to be.

Currently we have no major sponsors signed up (you were the first people we thought to ask). If after reviewing the proposal you are unable to sponsor the proposed amount, we appreciate even the smallest of help that could go towards a fundraising raffle or our trip.

Kate and Rémi thank you for taking the time to review their proposal and hope to hear back with a positive response. If you have any questions, please don't hesitate to contact them.

SELF PROMOTION & SPONSORSHIP PACKAGES

PRESS

We will be contacting local newspapers and national e-newspapers, pitching our project for an article piece. When the project commences, we will continue to locate and reach out to paper and e-paper mediums within each destination. We will also be creating a newsletter, which will be sent to subscribers each episode and will feature up-to-date news regarding the project, comments or letters from viewers/subscribers and advertisement. We will also run competitions for merchandise and/or sponsor donated products intended for such things.

RADIO

With the power of the press at our finger-tips, digital radio will be a key player in the distribution of our message. We will be reaching locally tuned-in (i.e. KISS.fm, Triple J, Triple R) and nationally engaged audiences as we travel the globe in search of the weird and wonderful.

WEB / INTERNET

Considered one of the biggest media outlets, we have created pages on numerous social networking sights, dedicated to our project (see icons below).

As well as these we have researched into popular social networks around the globe and will be joining up to Ning, QQ, mixi, FourSquare and Tuenti. These will be constantly updated and will prove to provide worldwide advertisement coverage.

We have also been actively joining forums and blogs that discuss travelling and contributing while subtly promoting our website.

PUBLIC

We have printed stickers with our logo and website address with intentions of handing them out on the street, at festivals and when we are filming. In addition to this, we have designed wristbands with our website address which we will also be giving away at summer public events (associating our website with summer and its atmosphere).

MERCHANDISE

Available from the website will be our project t-shirts*. Kate and Rémi will wear these t-shirts up till and during the project.

Other merchandise available will be lanyards, the wristbands and stickers. Also available for purchase will be 35mm B&W photography by Kate from each destination. Depending on success of sales, we hope to increase the range of merchandise for sale.

ONLINE ADVERTISEMENT & AFFILIATE MARKETING

PRIMARY SPONSORSHIP ADVERTISEMENT

The primary sponsor will have a small logo and profile of their company listed in the 'Sponsors' section of the website, with a back-link to their company website [Example 1]. This logo and profile will be listed first in the list for heightened coverage over all other sponsors.

The company logo will appear first in the credits of each online video in colour above all other sponsorship.

The primary sponsor will also be given colour advertisement space in the right-hand column of every page on the website [Example 2] and an advertisement strip at the top of the homepage [Example 4].

In addition, the primary sponsor will have a large colour logo printed on our t-shirts [Example 3].

GOLD SPONSORSHIP ADVERTISEMENT

A gold level sponsor will have a small logo and profile of their company listed in the 'Sponsors' section of the website, with a back-link to their company website [Example 1]. This logo and profile will be listed higher above all bronze and silver level sponsors.

A gold level sponsor will also have their company logo appear in the credits of each online video in monochrome above those of silver and bronze sponsorship.

Gold sponsors will also be given colour advertisement space in the right-hand column of every page on the website [Example 2].

In addition, gold sponsors will have the opportunity to have a small monochrome logo printed on our t-shirts [Example 3].

SILVER SPONSORSHIP ADVERTISEMENT

A silver level sponsor will have a small logo and profile of their company listed in the 'Sponsors' section of the website, with a back-link to their company website [Example 1]. This logo and profile will be listed higher above all bronze level sponsors.

A silver level sponsor will also have their company logo appear in the credits of each online video in monochrome.

BRONZE SPONSORSHIP ADVERTISEMENT

A bronze level sponsor will have a small logo and profile of their company listed in the 'Sponsors' section of the website, with a back-link to their company website [Example 1].

ALL SPONSORS HAVE THE OPPORTUNITY TO PARTICIPATE IN AFFILIATE MARKETING.

Today the name is more relevant than ever, as Snowgum pushes into new areas, adapting to emerging markets with its growing range of Climate Control Clothing. We are proud to be sponsoring An Infinite Summer and for more information about us visit www.snowgum.com.au
