Background:

Post graduate courses in Ayurveda and disciplines related to herbal drugs have seen a marked rise in the preceding decade where Dissertation/Project report based on a research topic exercised by a researcher has great significance. The new generation, inquisitive students of this field with varied innovative ideas, do not find facility to try them practically. Moreover, though the Research Methodology is a part of syllabus, the students at large are not acquainted with practical; experimental protocols leave alone the knowledge on instruments/equipments. RMD Research & Development Center has taken up this as an academic and social responsibility to bridge the gap between increasing number of starving students versus available facilities for practical experience and hence organizing a three day workshop on RESEARCH METHODOLOGY FOR AYURVEDIC & HERBAL DRUGS during 8th to 10th December 2011.

Salient Features of the workshop:

The workshop will cover both theory and practical aspects. Eminent experts will deliver lectures on recent advances in concerned areas like in vivo experimental models for evaluation of drugs, biostastical analysis, Identification and phytochemical screening etc. In practical sessions, the participants will receive hands-on-exposure in handling sophisticated instruments like HPLC, GC, HPTLC, AAS, UV-Vis spectrophotometer etc. as well as carrying out experiments as per Ayurvedic Pharmacopoeia of India /WHO guidelines. This will definitely of value to researchers/ students/ analysts of all disciplines dealing with natural products.

About us:

RMD Research & Development Center (RMDR&DC), established in 2011, is solely devoted to natural product research and development of analytical protocols conforming the standards of Ayurveda/ WHO guidelines. The center is managed by Prabhav Hem Kamdhenu Giri Vihar Trust, Palitana, an eleemosynary institute, devoted to the service of life in general and mankind in particular. The trust serves cancer patients by providing free Ayurvedic treatment. Accompanies and visitors of the patient are provided meals with a token charge of ₹ 1. The trust is also running a modern hospital at Palitana and an Ayurveda General hospital at Waghaldhara associated with Ayurveda College. At Palitana, the trust strives to support the poor families in and around Palitana by providing free ration as well as daily buttermilk obtained from about 5000 cows of Panjarapol governed by the trust.

The center presently concentrates on many aspects of Ayurveda and Panchagavya Research. The center is enriched with state of art laboratory, an agro-field as well as experienced, well trained staff members to carry out research work. Important sophisticated instruments include HPLC (Waters), UV-Vis. spectrophotometer, GC, AAS (all Perkin Elmer), HPTLC (Camag).

RMDR&DC caters wide range of research and analytical services to researchers, students and industry:

- ▣ Consultancy for Ayurvedic drugs & Medicinal Plants research
