Positions Held Committee/advisory: Numerous Military Committees World Wide:

- Chairman, Development of Jungle Warfare Training Center, Okinawa, Japan. Transitioned training area into a world class training center specializing in Jungle Warfare, capable of accommodating up to 1000 personnel (Infantry Battalion size) for up to one month. With the closure of Jungle training areas in the Philippines and Panama, this site became the sole source in the military for this specialized training.
- Member, Disaster Relief Board, Parris Island, SC; Marine Corps Base, Okinawa, Japan. Representing 7000 Marines at Camp Schwab, and about 10,000 personnel, including 4500 recruits, at Parris Island, these committees conduct the planning and drills for natural or man made disasters requiring evacuation or protective measures, including recovery operations post incident. At Parris Island in 1999-2000, hurricane Floyd caused the evacuation of the entire East Coast of the US, including Marine Corps Recruit Depot, Parris Island, SC
- Member, Anti-Terrorism/Force Protection, Parris Island, SC; Marine Corps Base, Okinawa, Japan. Planning and enforcement of protective measures on a daily basis for all military, civilian work force and visitors against possible terrorist attacks.
- President, Tri Military Command, Military Community Relations Board, Parris Island, SC. Plan, review and take action on all interactions between military personnel and local businesses and the community at large. Committee had the authorization to recommend to the Commanding Generals to place businesses or local areas off limits to military personnel if safety, discrimination or other conditions warranted such action.
- Member, Regionalisation of Marine Corps Community Services, Marine Corps Recruit Depot, Parris Island and Marine Corps Air Station, Beaufort, SC. Year long project combining the Organizational Headquarters for both sites, their finances and accounting and distribution of profits. This project was the first regionalisation of MCCS activities in the US Marine Corps. The regionalisation affected nearly 100,000 active duty military personnel, their families and a large retired military community and over 250,000 visitors annually to the base and depot. Hundreds of thousands of non-appropriated funds were shared more equitably between operating and supporting establishment forces because of the regionalisation.

Public office held: No

additional knowledge: Question 3b above covers some major highlights of my service on active duty, inside and outside the country. After retiring, I served as a security force Subject Matter Expert in the International Zone (Green Zone) at the US Embassy, Baghdad, Iraq from 2007-2010. I worked closely with the Regional Security Officer. I was the lead in writing the security orders for the US Embassy Guards Forces. I was also the Command Inspector and Assistant Chief of Staff, Quality Management for Marine Corps Recruit Depot, SC. I conducted numerous investigations into wrong doings for the depot and US Marine Corps recruiting forces for the eastern half of the United States (ERR). Additionally I was responsible for the Safety program for the depot and ERR. The skills and experience to hold down these responsibilities are acquired over a life-time of hands on, dedicated service towards the good of Marines and their families. I think they will serve me well as I undertake duties on the Planning Commission.

Particular contributions: I have always vowed that when I was done serving the country, I would come home and settle down and find a place to serve in my community. The fact that I have retired does not mean that I have a right to sit on the sidelines while others take care of the community. I am ready to help in some capacity and the Planning Commission seems to be a good fit, given my background, education and experience.
