Rider's Age & Cell Phone:

To determine the length you need for your face guard I will need your head length. This can be calculated by standing facing a wall and measuring from the top of your head (as if to measure your height), then marking where the bottom of your chin is on the wall. The distance in between gives your head length. Take the measurement three times and calculate the average. The shell is adjustable so as to fit any head size. Your hat size will be sufficient measurement for determining which size shell you need. To determine the length you
