He After his wife died he tried to keep things going but found that farm work, house work(his oldest daughter couldn't have been more than 11) and raising a family was too much for a man alone and he remarried. The new wife didn't last very long. She became aware that she was there as a housekeeper more than a wife and began treating the children badly. What badly meant was never elaborated on, but it was sufficient for him to divorce her, unheard of back then in 1886. At an unknown age Johann Joachim Heinrich Plückhahn (586) married Augusta Dorval (1598) in 1886 at Milwaukee, WI, US. He was (an unknown value) in 1900 at Milwaukee Street Car Company, Milwaukee, WI, US. He died on 26 Apr 1907 at Milwaukee, WI, US, at age 62. He was buried on 6 May 1907 at Waukesha, WI, US. c) George⁴ Plückhahn (587) was also known as George Pluckhan (587). He was born on 13 Jun 1876 at WI, US. He was born on 13 Jun 1877 at Brillion, Calmet Cnty, WI, US. He appeared on the census of 1 Jun 1880 at Billion, Calmet, WI, US. He was Hired Hand, Blacksmith in 1888. He George Pluckhahn (Vernon Line) worked as a blacksmith by trade, and had a blacksmith shop located at the intersection of West Windlake and Lincoln Avenues in Milwaukee (triangle type intersection). The intersection is still configured this way, if you want to look it up on Mapquest. Anyway, the shop was located in a barn on the pointed, corner lot. (Smart man, lots of horse traffic by there, in its day.) A cement water trough was located at the blacksmith shop as well. That remained there for decades after the smith shop was gone. (George died as a rather young man, unfortunately.) In addition to the usual shoe work, he made harnesses and buggy whips too. George was an early entrepreneur. You have to admire that spirit in 1900. He was an owner of a Owned a Black Smith's shop. The intersection is a triangle type intersection in 1900 at West Windlake & Lincoln Ave., Milwaukee, WI, US. He was Blacksmith in 1900 at West Windlake & Lincoln Ave., Milwaukee, WI, US. He appeared on the census of 1 Jun 1900 at Milwaukee, Milwaukee, WI, US. He lived on 1 Jun 1900 at 957 Ninth Ave, Milwaukee, Milwaukee, WI, US. At age 24 George Plückhahn (587) married Meta Klug (1327) on 24 Sep 1901 at Milwaukee, WI, US. He was buried in Apr 1912 at Honeycreek Cemetery, West Allis, WI, US. He died in Apr 1912 at Milwaukee, WI, US, at age 34. Here is some of the information I have on George Pluckhahn (Vernon-Brillon). I'm not sure how much of this you may already know, so bear with me. George Pluckhahn is the father of Adele (my grandmother). He was born on 13 June 1877 and died 4 August 1912. He married Meta Klug on 14 Sept 1901. The documentation for the marriage is: Located in Volume 33, Page 167 of Milwaukee County records. Their license number was 6272. The marriage was registered on 24 September 1901. George and Meta were married at Evang. Church, Milwaukee, Wisconsin. They had, as witnesses to their wedding, Martha Pluckhahn and Alma Klug. Adele Pluckhahn was born 29 May 1902. George and Meta's oldest (Clarence) predates the above listed wedding date. More on George: He was a blacksmith, and worked for (or with) Theodor Bartel. George lived with the Bartel family, in fact, prior to getting married. Besides the usual blacksmithing, George also made buggy whips and harnesses. The blacksmith shop was located on a triangle shaped property at Lincoln Ave and Windlake (Milwaukee). The shop was located in a barn at that intersection. It had a cement trough for the horses, that remained at the site long after the barn was razed. Here is where it gets interesting, and a little mysterious, if not downright confusing ... There appears to have been TWO George Pluckhahns, but one was old enough to be an uncle of the other. The death certificate for Grandma Adele's father (George) is located at Milwaukee County records - certificate # 2277. George died in Milwaukee County Hospital in Wauwatosa. He apparently had an alias (see? I said it gets interesting...), which was George Engelhardt. His parents were, nevertheless, listed as John Pluckhahn and Mary Koch. He died of "Empyena" with "contributory" as Pneumonia Labor. He was buried on April 11, 1912 in Honey Creek, West Allis by the J.H. Koelsch & Son Funeral Home. The family story said he died of pneumonia from a lake mishap, and this may well be true. However, it appears the older George actually died of the lake mishap in Waukesha County. What are the chances that BOTH George Pluckhahns died in lake mishaps - at the same lake? Further complicating the story, it now appears that Adele's father may have served time in Milwaukee County Jail, reason unknown. It was common for prisoners to be buried at the Honey Creek cemetery at that time, so the incarceration could well be true. Also, interestingly enough, Meta's mother (Wilhelmina Klug) listed on her death notice a survivor "Mary" (Meta) "Erhardt". This appears to allude to George Pluckhahn's alias, George Englehardt. Why did George use an alias? And if he was indeed incarcerated, what was the offense? Grandma Adele never wanted to speak about her father, George. Dad said she wanted to keep something secret, but didn't know what. Note that George died in 1912. Meta (Klug) Pluckhahn (George's wife), lived with HER father in the 1910 census: April 29, 1910 Meta lived with her father (Edward Klug's family), on 18th Ave., Milwaukee, with her two children. She is listed as married (not widowed), but no husband is living with her. Again, this would make sense if George was incarcerated. Reference: 1910 census - Wisconsin, MILWAUKEE, Roll 1726 Book 2, Page 168b: Edward Klug (65) was head of household ...Living with Edward were: Minnie (wife), Frank (son), Alfred (son), William (son) & Meta Pluckhahn (daughter/head) aged 33 and married, Meta's two children: Clarence and "Adalia" (7). "Adalia" is my grandmother, Adele. Meta (Klug) Pluckhahn remarried after George died. Her second husband (stepfather to grandma Adele) was George Lehmann. Meta and Mr. Lehmann never had children of their union in 2004.
