Mediation Evaluation

Every dispute is a unique event or series of events, involving different combinations of issues, individuals and related circumstances, including the law. Mediation is a service, which, within reason, is responsive and adaptable to many types of disputes.

My overriding objective is to provide the best possible mediation service, delivered in a flexible, user-friendly manner that effectively addresses the issues between the parties and how they wish to deal with them. To maintain a high level of service, I am dedicated to continuing ADR education and apply a reflective approach to my third-party practice, which has included over 1,500 appointments as a mediator.

An important component of learning and attempting to improve mediation and related services is to obtain feedback from users, primarily through this evaluation tool. Both counsel/representatives and parties, anonymously if desired, are invited to print and fill in this form and return it to Resolution House Inc., 71 Rideau Terrace, Ottawa, ON K1M 2A2 by post or (613) 746-6637 by fax. Additional comments are welcome: e-mail: iszlajak@resolutionhouse.com; telephone (613) 746-9679. Please feel free to copy this form so that others in attendance may forward their comments. For more information about Resolution House Inc., visit www.resolutionhouse.com.

Individual replies, even if identifiable, are kept confidential. I use the evaluations to analyze trends, obtain suggestions on how to improve and check my own impressions of "how things went". In a synthesized or statistical form only, the replies may be referred to in Resolution House communications with clients.

Thank you.

Post-mediation reflection can generate some interesting insights into the dispute and oneself. For example, do you now think that you would prepare differently or employ a different negotiation strategy, knowing what you know post-mediation? Did the process produce any unexpected advantages over alternative ways of finding a resolution? Can the mediation process, particularly mandatory mediation, be improved upon? How?
