

If You Can Drive, You Can Fly!

If you're looking for a Saturday afternoon stroll through the sky without a lot of burdensome expense and regulation, the FAA created the sport pilot certificate in 2004 just for folks like you.

FAA's Light Sport Aircraft (LSA) category offers affordable, safe, basic aircraft for many people who would otherwise be unable to fly.

Attend this interesting and exciting safety briefing and learn about light sport aircraft and Sport Pilot privileges!

Directions: Video Room at West end of Hangar 1 (enter from ramp)

A message from the National FAASTeam Manager

Over 136,600 pilots earned WINGS credits last year. Will you, this year?
