Students want more drug ed

High school student says instruction stops at elementary level

BY MEG FOX

A Fall River High School student received applause at the Feb. 11 school board meeting when he asked for more drug and alcohol education for high school students.

Jake Shuler, student representative on the school board, told the trustees for the Fall River Joint Unified School District that when he ran for the position he promised to represent the entire student body and now had an issue to discuss on their behalf.

Shuler said drug and alcohol education stops after elementary school, but he sees a need for it to continue into the upper grades.

He is concerned about the increasing numbers of suspensions and expulsions because students violate education code and the law. High school students need more

Diseased trees cut, more set for timber

Ten black locust trees were cut down last week at the Burney Chamber Gardens on Main Street.

"It's always very sad to take trees down. This was heart-breaking, but it had to be done," said Lynn Miller, who owns the property and leases the building on the grounds to the chamber.

Although the luxuriant trees provided welcoming shade in the summer, they were about 80 years old and had very little left inside to hold them up.

'They all scare me when you think how tall they were and how heavy and see how rotten they were inside. They're powder," said John Quinlan, a Burney Chamber member who was helping with the clean up on Feb. 11.

"When Davey Tree (Surgery) cut one of them, it started to fall in three different places," he said.

Miller, Quinlan, and Quinlan's wife, Sherrie, the chamber's executive director, said they watched the trees separating when the wind blew and could hear a few of the 70-foottall trees "cracking and moaning" last spring when they were planting flowers around the bases.

"It was dangerous and a liability," said Quinlan.

Looking on the bright side, and the Chamber Gardens will be brighter, Miller said she is going to plant roses along the fence and is happy that a specimen cedar tree, —Please See Page 3

The school district was not tempted to accept a swimming pool that was built on the property they sold to the Burney Water District for one dollar in 1989, even with $75,000 thrown in to sweeten the

At the Feb 11 school board meeting, the trustees for the Fall River Joint Unified School District had little to say about a Jan. 22 letter from Burney Water District Manager Bill Suppa.

He reminded the school board that it was "no backs" if the water district can't pay for its pool, a situation he said they are fast approach-

When the school district sold the water district the land, it was with the provision that "if the pool closed for any reason, it would revert back to the school district," Suppa said in his letter.

School board president Teri Vigil said the Burney Water District charges each customer a $2 per month assessment to maintain the pool.

"We wouldn't have the luxury of charging a fee," she said, adding that other than the water district's offer of their $75,000 pool reserve fund, the school district had no source of income to operate and maintain a pool.

Convictions slipping in high school, student says

Nicole Carlotto, a junior at Burney High School, was the winner Thursday of the

Burney Lions Club Student Speaker contest on the theme, "Democracy – Is It

For Everyone?" She competed against senior Kristen Churney and junior Tara Winningham to win the Cathy Meyer Memorial Trophy, presented here by Dr. Bill Cummings of Cassel, a $50 cash prize, and the opportunity to compete at several more levels for a grand prize of more than $20,000 in scholarships.

Carlotto is the daughter of Rob Carlotto and Lynn Miller. Coaches for the information about the consequences of a positive drug test and related education code violations, he said.

Well spoken

"In my personal experience, in seventh, eighth and ninth grade, we all said, 'No way.' It was out of the question. If we were asked to drink, we had each other and nothing could stop that."

But in high school, he noticed those convictions slipping.

'We realized all the (older) kids drank and did drugs and we thought maybe, to be cool, we would have to, too," Shuler admitted.

Shuler asked for more professional communication with high school students and suggested forming a committee that includes students and parents, as well as school administrators, and medical and law enforcement representatives.

Newton agreed to meet with Shuler and the student council to discuss the proposal.

In other business at the meeting in McArthur, the trustees reviewed a compilation of costs to the district, from 1999 to the present, to retain a School Resource Officer from the Shasta County Sheriff's Office.

"It was going along peachy until this year when the state deferred its funding (from the School Safety and Violence Prevention Act)," said Newton.

The school district has had carryover funds to help fund the officer, "but if there is no grant money next year, it's a very significant financial decision for the district," he said.

reports next month from the school principals on whether or not it is worth the cost to keep the officer.

Deputy Shawn Lewis, the current safety resource officer, sent an invitation to any board members to ride with him for day and observe what he does.

Oilar asked the district to review the expense at a previous board meeting and clarified his request Feb. 11.

"I want to know why the district is burdened with the cost of this service. I'm not questioning what (the deputy) does," Oilar said.

In other business, the school board:

· Agreed to make recommendations at the June board meeting about awarding letters of achievement to students in activities such as band, drama, fine arts, and Academic Challenge and would announce at that time which activities are appropriate, the criteria and design for the award, funding sources, and where and when the awards or letters would be issued.

- Agreed to a request from Oilar to take a tour of the district's facilities to see firsthand and "to quantify the dilapidated state" and determine where upgrades are needed
- Agreed to a request from Oilar to compare costs and consider whether or not leasing vehicles would offset the cost of reimbursement for mileage expenses paid on private vehicles used by employees and
- · Agreed to a request from trustee Teri Vigil to arrange

The trustees asked for a Gifted and Talented Education (GATE) update at a future meeting. In closed session, the trustees expelled three students to the community day school for the next 12 months and stayed the expulsion of another student who will be returned to school under strict contract. The trustees also released Lizz Thomason from her position as director of curriculum and assigned her as a regular classroom teacher for the 2004-2005 school year.

Judge is dismissed by Lunbery defense attorney

Redding attorney asked the court to disqualify Judge James Rugaiero from presiding over Kristi Lunbery's trial for the 1992 murder of her husband.

Jury selection was set to begin today in Shasta County Superior Court.

At present, other judges are each involved in other trials, according to Senior Deputy District Attorney Greg Gaul.

He said Lunbery's attorney, Jeff Gorder, of the Jeffrey Jens Office in Redding, isn't required to give a reason for his request and didn't.

Gaul said it's rare for an attorney to request further disqualifications unless an attorney "has a very specific cause of prejudice" and can show why his client won't receive a fair trial.

Gaul said they return to court March 16 "unless something else comes up."

No one was charged after Lunbery's 25-year-old husband, Charles Bateson, a Burney high School athlete, was found shot to death in their home on April 17, 1992.

Lunbery remarried and the case was stalled until she was interviewed by deputies again in December 2001 and reportedly confessed to the shooting

GETTING TO KNOW YOUR NEIGHBORS

Do you wish to know your neighbors better? An o-en house,a block party, or a potluck are some creative ways to turn this desire into a reality.

How do you go about doing this? Start by introducing yourself to you r neighbors. For those people who take an interest in your idea, together you can make a list of what needs to be done and delegate the different tasks. Then set a date and distribute some kind of invitation or notice to the rest of your neighbors.

This kind of activity has a lot of benefits besides the fun and camaraderie. Getting to know your neighbors increases neighborhood security as you get to know who belongs in the neighborhood- and who doesn't. You may discover new babysitters or people who would be glad to feed your cats while you're on vacation. Should someone in the neighborhood need help, you can all work together to provide it. And if any problems develop in your area, you can work to create solutions with people whom you have become acquainted.

Fall River Boosters forced to build new $10,000 concession

BY MEG FOX

A visit from the Shasta County Health Department is costing the Fall River Boosters Club at least $10,000 and a few headaches.

Booster Vice-President Elizabeth Reynolds asked the school board Feb. 11 for stand since the existing one on the high school football field does not meet the state health requirements.

The main issue sparking the new construction is that the health department said the concession needs three sinks, including one specifically for janitorial and one permission to build a new strictly for hand-washing. It's 28-by-18-foot concession one of many health requirements when food is sold to the general public.

"Three sinks would take up all the room in the concession," Reynolds said, adding that the concession take from high school football and basketball is 65 percent of their income.

Even though the cost is eating up about two-thirds of the club's savings, "Boosters can not exist without a concession stand."

Community members and local businesses are already pitching in with donations of labor, materials, and funding.

Reynolds said she wasn't asking the trustees of the Fall River Joint Unified School District for money, but for permission to go ahead with the project.

Because all of the help will be from is volunteers, many in the construction industry, "We want to get going in April and May so we're not interfering with their livelihoods in June, July and August," she said.

Board President Teri Vigil said she would put the request as an action item on the board's March 3 agenda.

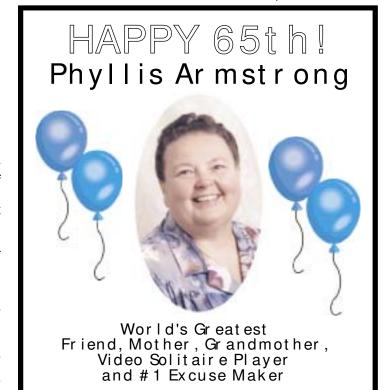

In the meantime, Supt. Eric Newton suggested he and Reynolds get together with Roger Borkey and the school principals to "lay the groundwork.'

The Fall River Boosters, and thus the Burney Boosters, too, came under scrutiny after Bulldog Bite owner Kim Chapman, who also owns the Buckhorn Saloon, complained to the health department about unsafe food handling practices at school and community fundraisers.

In a Dec. 10, 2003 interview, Chapman said she was concerned for the kids.

Reynolds said the county health department is working with them and has been very

"We want to do this and get everything up to par so that no one question (our practices) in the future," she

Burney garage band taught themselves music

Three Burney musicians taught themselves to play the drums and guitar and about a year ago put together a garage band, "Attempted Failure," that took second place recently at the 2004 Battle of the Bands in Who's in Attempted Failure: Randy Costa, 15, bass player and singer. Matt Galvez, 16, drummer, and his brother, Jerome Carmony, 17, electric guitar and singer.

Your repertoire: We've got about 17 songs. We're adding new songs and dumping others constantly.

Your style: Hard rock and metal. We used to be all over the place, but now it's mostly hard rock.

How they produce a piece: "We make stuff up and it all falls together. The vocals are always last. I'll

'Then I'll make up my part," said Randy, who also writes most of the lyrics. "It takes Randy and me about an hour and a half to get something down and it takes Matt about 10 minutes," said Jerome.

The rules: Everyone has to like it or we won't do it.

Musical training: None. Matt plays the drums in the Burney High School Gold Band. Randy is at the Burney Community Day School and Jerome attends Mt. View Continuation High School. Neither program offers band or music classes. "We all learn together and we learn pretty fast," said Matt.

Influences: Matt: Matt "sPaG" McDonough, drummer with Mudvayne, a numetal band. Randy: Ryan "RyKnOw" Martinie, bassist with Mudvayne. Jerome: My influences are all over. All Other interests: Matt and Randy: "We like to beat each other up. Football. Video games, Boxing." Jerome: "If I'm not listening to or watching music, I'm making stuff up. Music is what I do.

Hopes for the future: Matt: To make it in a band. Randy: To get a record label before I'm too much older.

Where they've performed: The 2003 and 2004 Battle of the Bands at the Win-River Casino in Redding.

About 24 bands playing punk, rock, old music and metal competed in 2003. "Bands were there with all their equipment and we had little tiny amps and our tiny drum set."

About 36 bands competed this year.

Attempted Failure has also played in a few Redding talent shows. They played a fundraiser for the Bailey Avenue skatepark in Burney and for the opening of Bailey Community Park. "That didn't go so well. We rented speakers and the amp blew up. We thought we could do it off the generator, but it didn't work. We still played, though.

When we can hear you again: On April 9 in another fundraiser concert for the skatepark. Also playing will be two bands that Attempted Failure met at Battle of the Bands - the South Dakota Standards and Hammerface.

Medal of Valor

Former Burney resident Randy Nethery, a sergeant in the California Highway Patrol, is seen here receiving the California Medal of Valor from former Gov. Gray Davis for his heroic action. He also received the CHP Medal of Valor and his name has been engraved on the State Capitol's "Wall of Honor" in Sacramento. Nethery was off duty when he came upon an irrational driver, whom he then followed to US Bank in Weed. He observed as the driver left his vehicle with a high caliber handgun and entered the bank, which he reportedly intended to rob before shooting the bank manager. As the gunman started to threaten the bank employees, Nethery came up from behind and tackled the gunman, pinning him down until sheriff deputies arrived and arrested the gunman. Nethery attended Burney High School and was in the Class of 1979, though he took the early exit exam in his junior year.

Office open, but hours reduced at public health

BY MEG FOX

The doors are staying open, but office hours and services will be reduced beginning Friday in Burney at the regional office of Shasta County Public Health.

Shasta County Public Health Director Marta McKenzie said asked the Burney, Anderson, and Shasta Lake regional offices to plan their own reduction schedules to best suit their community's needs.

The county cut one fulltime and two part-time positions in the Burney office and has reduced services countywide.

Shellisa Moore, community development coordinator, said the Burney office would be open three days (Tuesday through Thursday), instead of five, with staff working in the field on Mondays.

Moore said she is often in the Burney office on Mondays and Fridays and would be glad to assist the public then, as well.

The immunization clinic hours will be reduced from all day to about four hours in the afternoon, but community members will still be able to walk in for all childhood and adult immunizations and TB tests.

Travel shots are available by appointment.

The county has eliminated bike safety, child safety seat education, and bicycle helmet give-aways; the tobacco cessation classes, and perinatal outreach and home visits for high-risk mothers and McKenzie said Burney was fortunate to have been allowed to retain Public Health Nurse David Moeschler on a full-time basis.

She said the Anderson and Shasta Lake offices would be sharing a nurse.

According to Donnell Ewert, deputy director of Shasta County Public Health, the county's reductions in services result in total projected savings of $370,646 for fiscal year 003-04 and $1,392,197 for FY 2004-05.

"While most public health services benefit the entire population of the county (such as mass vaccination, tobacco smoke-free environments, and disaster preparedness) and cannot easily be measured in numbers, the (reductions and cuts) will directly decrease services to more than 10,000 county residents per year," Ewert

On Jan. 27, the Shasta County board of supervisors finalized the resolution to borrow $1 million from the county's 1988 tobacco settlement reserve to save about 20 public health jobs and to keep the three regional offices open.

The supervisors originally planned to use tobacco settlement reserves to repay bonds issued to build the county's new Court Street administration complex.

Supervisor Glenn Hawes said in an earlier interview that the county would repay the tobacco loan in 2006, when the state is paying Shasta County the more than $1 million in Vehicle License Fees accrued but never paid in August, September, and October 2003.

Fire chief wants fire safe council to begin here

By PATTY BLEDSOE

A new program was introduced at the Burney Fire Protection District board meeting by Fire Chief Bob May that he believes will lead to long-term fire protection for the commu-

The Fall River Resource Conservation District (RCD) contacted the fire district regarding creating a Fire Safe council. May said that based on Burney's fire history and the recent California fire, it seems appropriate that Burney explore the possibility of creating its own Fire Safe Council.

The Fire Safe Councils are coalitions of public and private sector organizations that share a common, vested interest in wildfire prevention and loss mitigation.

They mobilize people in the community to develop emergency preparedness plans for the community before a wildfire occurs.

May said that this is a community-based program and the fire district will only be the facilitator to assist in getting the program up and running and then will turn the project over to the Fire Safe Council. Lt. Howard Fincher will be the local project manager.

The RCD will be the physical agency for the grants but the fire district will be the physical agent to assure the grants are placed properly.

Sierra Pacific Industries, Fruit Growers and retirees with expertise will be encouraged to become members of the committee.

In other business, May recommended that the board declare the 1972 Van Pelt engine and the 1977 Chevrolet Brush engine as surplus equipment so that they can be disposed of to the highest bidder.

The Van Pelt engine was purchased new by the district and has been housed at the Johnson Park Station 18.

The unit received a safety check where minor repairs

Fully functional, it does not meet current NFPA standards as a front-line or back-up service engine.

were made.

The Brush engine was purchased in 1995 at a state auction as a surplus engine from CDF.

Because of its age and design it has limited use and parts for the gasoline pump are no longer available.

May said one engine at a time would be sold so that the district will be not be placed in a compromising situation. The board approved May's recommendation.

In other business:

· May said that the California Joint Powers Authority will be hosting a First Responder Class March 6 and 7 in Burney.

• The Burney Fire District has received all the hazardous material reports on every business in Burney from Shasta County.

This is a benefit to the fire district, as they now will know what hazardous materials are in a fire and will have the proper plan of operations to remove the material and put the fire out.

 Cindy Cooley from Cassel and Elizabeth Gordon were introduced as the tentative job-share secretaries. Their position will begin sometime in March.

Beverly Stafford has been filling in for the last seven months as secretary. She did not apply for the secretary position as she said that it would interfere with plans she and her husband have made.

May said he was very grateful for her dedication, skill, and her ability to pick up and take over the secretary position at the drop at a hat. The board amplified May's sentiments and wished her well in her endeavors.

Efforts continue to spark tourism in Fall River Valley

BY MEG FOX

The Committee to Preserve and Protect Fall River (CPR) is quietly continuing its efforts to revitalize Main Street and spark tourism.

In addition to the ongoing renovations at the former Y-Saloon, the dilapidated building CPR bought after winning a lawsuit against the owner, the committee has a new idea in mind.

CPR members Terry and Barbara Briggs recently attended two days of the eight-day Western Trailbuilders Association conference in Reno to gather ideas and funding sources to establish walking, hiking and commuter-bicycle trails in the Fall River Valley.

"The CPR mission statement is not only to preserve and restore Fall River Mills, but to breathe some life into the economy and we feel recreational tourism is a great way to do that," Barbara Briggs said.

"It would not only enhance our own lifestyle to have trails to walk, hike, and bike, but would create a tourist activity and perhaps even draw special interest groups to our area," she said.

The focus of the conference was on trail building, trail management, and trail funding and drew federal and state park representatives and trail building contractors from "Alaska, Florida, Vermont and every place in between," Briggs said.

And, like CPR, there were also many other representatives from non-profit organizations "interested in creating opportunities for their communities," she said.

Their attendance at the conference was made possible by a grant from the Partnership for the Public's Health awarded to IMAGE (Intermountain Action Growth Education). Laura Thompson, community health advocate with the Burney office of Shasta County Public Health and an IMAGE member, coordinated the funding for

Senior students can breath easier over grad requirements

BY MEG FOX

Seniors who are worried about meeting the state's new Algebra I requirement for graduation can breathe a sigh of relief.

The state Department of Education offered up a waiver, for 2004 only, and the Fall River Joint Unified School District is taking advantage of it.

In a Jan. 9 letter to all school districts, the state Department of Education said it would allow "narrow, limited waivers" of the requirement for the "very small number of seniors in certain high schools" who will not have completed Algebra I by June 2004, but who would otherwise graduate.

The state also advised all high schools that the affected students must be enrolled in Algebra I during the spring semester.

The waiver is for the Class of 2004 only.

Following a brief public hearing at the regular Feb. 11 board meeting in McArthur, the district's trustees signed the waiver request.

"Given that the district knew about the (Algebra I requirement), why didn't the students get the curriculum?" asked parent Cathy Cimaglia, of Old Station.

Supt. Eric Newton said that "1,000-plus school districts" might have one or more students who would not meet the criteria and not graduate.

different," "We're no Newton said, explaining that if there were even one local student who might be prevented from graduating and the state had opened a window, he wanted to take advantage of the opportunity. "I say, shame on the district," said Cimaglia. Trustee Pat Oilar asked how many students in this district are affected. "Zero to less than 10," replied Burney High School Principal Larry Hutchinson.

He said some students who transferred from other school districts have not met the requirement.

"It's not only our doing," explained Newton after the meeting.

He said if a student arrives in the district mid-year with no Algebra I on his transcript, the requirement could not be met by June.

The first waiver request came to the state from the Santa Cruz City Schools.

Santa Cruz said that they were not notified about the Algebra I requirement until November 2003 and that six percent of their graduating seniors were at risk of not getting a diploma.

The state said it would be firm about not granting such a waiver in 2005 and there-

According to the Department of Education, students in grades 7 through 12 may fulfill the requirement at any time, as well as complete two years of mathematics in high school to graduate.

Special Needs students are also required to meet the Algebra I requirement, though are currently permitted more options as determined by their Individualized Education Program (IEP) team.

Athletic committee offers suggestions area sports

BY MEG FOX

The school board was asked last November to come up with some answers to questions about the district's athletic programs, which are now partially funded through community donations.

An 11-member ad hoc competitions. athletic committee met Jan. 22 and after several hours of "lively" discussion presented their recommendations to the Fall River Joint Unified School District.

The committee decided that coaches, students, and parents are willing to continue fund raising.

The community contributed $27,000 to help fund athletic program district-wide last year.

The Cow Chip Bingo fundraiser was a success, but the committee said it could be even more successful if they promoted it earlier and held it in conjunction with another well-attended community event, like the Intermountain

As to whether specific sports should be cut depending on its number of participants, the committee said yes if there weren't enough players to field a team, like football, that requires 11 play-

But they had a more creative solution for individual sports, like wrestling, golf, cross-country, and track.

"If an athlete has a passion for one of these sports and could participate on an individual basis, how can tell (him) he cannot represent his school," the committee said. They suggested that, if necessary, the student could practice with a coach from the "sister school," but represent his own school at Fall River Athletic Director

Greg Hawkins said that students are permitted to have a one-time transfer for a sport season at another school if their own school wasn't able to offer the sport.

The group agreed also that once a sport is cancelled, even for a season, it's difficult to reinstate it.

The committee wants to retain the junior high athletic program that offers flag football, volleyball and basketball. They asked the school board to plan for all activities with the assumption that there would be enough students and then cancel the sport if there isn't a good turnout. The committee re-identified the funding status of all of the district's sports offerings. Varsity and JV football, basketball, and volleyball, are fully funded by the district. Wrestling, varsity baseball, softball and track are partially funded. Soccer, varsity golf, and junior varsity baseball and softball are self-funded sports in the district.

Claims leveled at districts

People of Burney, I wish to start this letter with a lesson in Civics. Burney is not a town or city so therefore our "Civil Government" for our area is the Shasta County Board of Supervisors, not the Burney Chamber of Commerce, Water District Board, Fire District Board or any other local "elected" or "appointed" boards.Now that has been said and set straight, civics lesson # 2, any politician serving on any board or office ,elected or appointed in the State of California can be recalled. End of civics lesson, for now.

The people of Burney need to start asking questions around here, because things are being done in your name every day by people who were appointed to office or elected to office by far less than a majority of the people of the Burney Basin. One big thing that sticks in my mind is the spending of $60,000 + on having snow removed from Main Street.I mean come on, first question is why, that has been the way snow has been delt with here for years and it never bothered folks before, but because the Fire Chief doesn't like it , it gets done in the middle of the night at the cost of $60,000 (could be more, but that is the price that has been quoted the

Who is going to pay for this, why was it done and who gave the order.I called the BOS and they said they knew nothing of what I was talking about, CalTrans will not comment, but the talk of the town is that it was either the Fire Board or the Chief, if this is wrong, please step foward and tell us the truth.

If it was the Fire Board or the Chief, under what authority did they act?

Who is going to pay Packway and Hat Creek Construction for this?

Why was it done and if the reason is saftey why has it never been done before?

People of Burney, it is a fact the total power corrupts all the time, 100% of the time.Boards and Government in general is here for us ans answers to us, so maybe now folks will ask questions, I have asking them for months and every time I ask, I get the run around, so I write and hope enough people start to ask so maybe we will get answers. So in closing I will remind y'all of 3 special words that every American should never forget and those are "WE THE PEOPLE," question our local leaders, for they work for us.

Fire District speaks out

Editor:

I have not responded to previous letters from Mike Rodriguez as I felt that the citizens of the Burney Fire District could easily see that his "facts and figures" were ridiculous and totally out of

Many of his claims were so far fetched that responding to them would lend credibility to an individual who obviously did not know what he was talking about and did not take the time nor effort to research

His latest diatribe does deserve a response only because it is so filled with misinformation that we feel we must respond.

First of all, Rodriguez deigns to offer us all a civics lesson.

It is evident he does not know the first thing about the system of government in which he wishes to instruct all of us.

His first statement that the "Civil Government" for our area is the Shasta County Board of Supervisors is partially correct. He is also correct in his statement that the Burney Chamber of Commerce is not a government agency.

However, he is not correct when he lumps in the Water District Board, Fire District Board, School Board, Hospital Board or any other 'elected" "appointed" or boards.

The Water District, Fire District, School District and various other districts in the Intermountain area are legally elected districts instituted and elected into being by the people in their districts and are appointed by your legally elected County Supervisor.

County, state, and federal government do not control them except by the laws that are passed overall in health and safety issues or environmental laws, which all agencies are required to obey.

Civics Lesson #2 states that any elected official can be recalled.

He does not give the criteria, which is required to do

He also questions whether the people who serve on these local boards were elected by a majority of the people in the district.

All of the people who serve on the boards above were elected by a majority of the people who took the time and energy to vote.

If the people in our districts do not like what the local boards are doing, they are free not only to vote (registration is simple; registration forms are available in several locations in the area or from the County Clerk's office.

Call 1-800-479-8009 and ask for the County Clerk's office), but also to run for the boards they feel are not doing the job they wish to have done.

All of the people who currently sit on those boards felt they had something to contribute, and so they ran.

Rodriguez has also been a candidate for several boards in our area and failed to win election to any of them; so he knows full well how the process works.

If he had won, I doubt he would question that he hadn't won by a vote of the people.

I would now like to respond to the ridiculous statements about the recent snowplow removal.

I do not know where he got the figures he presents as fact in his letter.

On January 7, 2004, Chief Bob May did write a letter to Jeff Kiser, Maintenance Manager of District 2, CalTrans, to point out a potential problem for our emergency response vehicles.

When the snow is piled in the middle of Main Street opposite the Fire Hall, the ambulance and fire vehicles must go up to the end of the berm which at that time was clear at the other end of town opposite Tom & Gingers on Elm Street.

Chief May simply requested that CalTrans do their best to plow accesses across from the fire hall and at intersections so that vehicles could cross the road and not become high centered.

If Rodriguez was the one whose house was on fire or he was having a medical emergency, I doubt if he would argue with the Chief's request.

I know I agree with the Chief's contention, and in this latest snow storm CalTrans did make an effort to comply with the emergency access requested.

I personally felt much safer and felt that my constituents were also.

Now, as to cost, I do not know where Rodriguez came up with the asinine amount of $60,000.

As CalTrans was already plowing Highway 299, I cannot envision any extra cost to the public in clearing access in the center for emergency vehicles. In fact, I spoke with the local CalTrans manager, Jerry Re. I asked him for the costs involved to honor the Chief's request. Re told me that the cost to rent trucks from Packway and Hat Creek Construction was a total of $1.850. He also indicated in a conversation with the Chief that this was normal and would have been done even if the Fire District had not made a request, i.e., that this was not an unusual cost to CalTrans and would have been done normally.

During this last heavy snowfall, only CalTrans equipment was used.

If you wish to have credibility in your statements, Mr. Rodriguez, you must make sure your facts are accurate.

I would also like to point out as a matter of information that Shasta County has absolutely nothing to do with snow removal on Highway 299 or Highway 89 as they fall under the state purview.

As to your question asking why snow has never been removed before, the answer is that it has been done in the past.

The policy to remove snow that presents a hazard to traffic is long standing and has been in existence prior to any CalTrans management currently in office.

This year was a heavier year for snow than it has been in the past few years.

CalTrans was overlooked and took a bit longer to get to the access areas.

The Chief simply was pointing out a problem.

I feel the people of this district should be grateful that the Chief did not a public safety issue in an attempt to protect the people in his district.

In your final paragraph, you state that you have been asking questions for months and just get the "run around."

I submit that you are getting good and accurate answers to your questions.

I will also state that you simply do not want to accept that the answers are correct and honest because they are not what you want to hear.

The people who sit on our local boards are dedicated to serving their communities to the best of their ability.

I will not say that every decision they make is totally the right one, but I will say they all do what they think is best.

Remember, none of them is paid to do this, and I for one am sick and tired of your "flatlander" bashing.

We all live in this community and if you don't like what your local boards are doing. you can run again for office.

If you lose and feel that you are right, keep running until you win.

Once you win, you can try to make the changes you feel are necessary.

Just remember, there are four other board members who, it is hoped, will have the common sense and intelligence you obviously lack.

Pursuant to Section 1773 of the Labor Code, the general prevailing wage rates in the County in which the work is to be done have been determined by the Director of the California Department of Industrial Relations. A copy of these rates is on file with the Director of Public Works and is available for review. Addenda to modify wage rates, if necessary, will be issued to holders of "Contract Which Includes Notice to Bidders, Special provisions, Bid and Bonds" books.
