Great news! We now have access to SIRS Government Reporter, part of the SIRS Knowledge Source suite of research tools.

SIRS Government Reporter delivers a comprehensive student resource for the study of all aspects of our federal government.

It contains thousands of full-text documents, summaries, and graphics covering a wide variety of topics including health, science, economics, environment, politics, foreign affairs, business, and industry.

All articles and graphics are carefully selected according to strict SIRS criteria with regard to content reliability, relevance, and appropriateness — making this the perfect complement to our SIRS and eLibrary reference tools. To find out more, connect to proquestk12.com today.

How will this new service help?

- Our Country Profiles include profiles, flags, and maps of nearly 200 countries from the State Department.
- Federal Agencies supplies information for hundreds of federal departments and agencies.
- Historic Documents contains selected documents and speeches of exceptional historic value.
- National Archives Documents provides primary sources and images from the National Archives and Records Administration to illustrate themes in history.
- ...and much more!
