

Free Event CQC's Evolving Role in Shaping the Future

Tuesday 28th June 2016 | 5.30pm-7.30pm | 28 Portland Place, London, W1B 1LY

The health and social care landscape is set to change as new models of care are tried and tested by the Vanguards and Integration Pioneers. But how will their performance be measured and regulated?

As the independent regulator of health and social care, CQC's role is to ensure that services provide people with safe, effective, compassionate, high-quality care. Its inspection, regulation and monitoring functions are designed to encourage improvement across all health and care sectors.

David Behan, CEO of the Care Quality Commission (CQC), will take to the floor to set out how the independent regulator will support building a new collaborative culture and develop new models of inspection that ensure that regulation does not act as a barrier to innovation.

A question and answer session will follow David's presentation.

Who should attend?

This event is designed for all healthcare professionals interested in how regulation is set to adapt and develop to reflect the rapidly changing landscape of health and social care. Attendees will gain insight into how these changes will ensure that emerging new models of care continue to make a real and positive difference both to the lives of people who use services and to the organisations and professionals who deliver them.
