

ABOUT THE SOFTWARE PRODUCT

The Alimony Calculator 4.7, with the 2006 DSS Guidelines, the 2008 SC tax rates and the 2009 Federal tax rates, calculates each spouse's net disposable income after calculating the child support, income taxes, FICA/Medicare taxes and other obligations of the parties so that the practitioner or judge will know how much each party will have to live on each month. How else could you possibly know what is a fair amount of alimony?

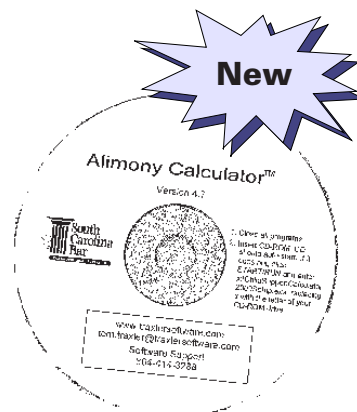

Software Program Highlights Include:

- Calculation of each party's income taxes, taking alimony into account
- Calculation of each party's FICA/Medicare taxes, it even calculates self-employment taxes
- Calculation of child support payable by the noncustodial parent
- Calculation of the value of a child's exemption for each parent
- True, net after-tax cost or benefit of the alimony
- Export to Word function

If you are an existing user of the Alimony Calculator Version 4.0, you only need to purchase a software patch. You do not need a new software package. Please click here to purchase The Alimony Calculator Version 4.7 Software Patch.
