RABBI'S MESSAGE

Some years ago I heard a comedic critique of the changes that American society was undergoing. I call it the magazine analysis. The idea is that you can track our thinking and our major interests just by looking at magazine titles. First came People magazine. That was nice: we wanted to know about other people and read “human interest” stories.

Some years later a new magazine was produced to compete with People. A simple knock-off would have been silly. The publisher was trying to catch the eye of the American reader and the tenor of the times. The title would have to convey the fact that this magazine was more in tune with what we seemed to be interested in. So the magazine “Us” came into being. Implicit in the title was a narrower focus and the creation of a group called “Them.” “They”, obviously, are less interesting and less deserving of our concern.

Finally, a publisher came along who felt that both People and Us had run their course. There was a perception that our society had continued to change and the public needed another new magazine. The direction of the change was clearly evident in the title, “Self.” We had moved from People to Us to Self. The popular expression, “It is all about me”, also came into being.

I am old enough to remember when a person might be described as “a rugged individualist.” This was a positive characterization: strong, independent, true to ideals. But I also learned that the rugged American pioneers did barn raisings. Neighbors, who did not live just a stone’s throw from each other, would get together and put up a barn for someone trying to establish a new farm. People reached out to help others in part because there was sense that we really did need each other. We could be stronger as a community than we could be as individuals.

It turns out that 2,000 years ago Judaism said the same thing in the Book of Ecclesiastes, “... the three fold cord is not easily broken.” This quote is not just about the strength of threads and ropes. It tells us that when we join together to achieve a common goal, we can manage almost anything. This concept of coming together runs as deeply in Judaism as one can imagine. Not only are we suppose to gather as a minyan when we pray, but the phrasing of our prayers is clearly aimed at a group. “Blessed are You our God, You have made us holy, and taught us to ...”.

Judaism may seek to elevate, change and improve the individual, but it does so in a group context. It teaches that we are each responsible for one another. It is a community obligation to pass Torah on to our children. It is virtually impossible to do it alone. As communities, we used to raise barns; now, as congregations, we raise children. Temple Beth Shalom tells us, tells our families, tells our children, that we are not alone.

B’shalom and Shana Tova,

Rabbi Marvin Schwab

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

One of the true honors of being the President of Temple Beth Shalom is getting to stand on the bima at the end of each B'nai Mitzvah and present a gift to each student on behalf of the Board of Trustees. In August, I represented the Board at the Bar Mitzvah of Graham Gesten. In the pews were generations of the Gesten family come to celebrate this special occasion and to represent grandparents and aunts and uncles already gone. There were many familiar faces too, taking me back to when my oldest daughter, now 21, was 6. I thought how lucky we are as Jews not only to have such a rite of passage, a spiritual ceremony that is forever etched in our memories, but also to have a TBS family to celebrate with. I found myself holding back tears of joy while trying to talk to Graham.

In July, Rebecca Baran-Rees and I had the opportunity to share pizza and salad with some of our newest members at a welcome dinner. For the most part, they were families with young children. From the moment they arrived, the energy of the adults and children was contagious. The parents started mingling, the kids started playing and, though many began as strangers, you could see connections happening. By the end of the evening, they seemed like old friends. Two hours later, some of the kids had to be dragged off the playground because it was time to go home, it was getting dark.

If you ask people what makes a great synagogue, they might say it is the Rabbi, the Cantor, the sermons, the services, religious school, High Holy days. All of those answers are correct but, to me, what makes a synagogue great are the connections members make to one another. What cements friendships is history. History is what Temple Beth Shalom is all about.

Meryl Marchand, Temple President

SUKKOT/SIMCHAT TORAH

Sukkot

Our very first TZEDAKAH FAIR is coming! You can hear about many of the wonderful organizations working to do good in Santa Fe while enjoying the TBS potluck before the Sukkot service on September 20th. Our Youth Group will also be there, ready to tell you all about their own work in the community. Come a little early: the Fair will run from 5 until 6:30 when services will begin in the sukkah.

Celebrate the work of TBS and the greater community, with organizations including:

Big Brothers Big Sisters of Northern New Mexico, Envision Santa Fe, Creativity for Peace, Interfaith Community Shelter, J Street New Mexico, New Mexico Women's Foundation, Long Term Care Ombudsman Program, New Mexico Suicide Intervention Project, Youth Shelters, Capital High School, Girls Inc. of Santa Fe, Santa Fe Animal Shelter and Humane Society, Pamoja Project, League of Women Voters of Santa Fe County, and New Mexico for Gun Safety

Simchat Torah

Join us at Simchat Torah as we kick off our "Year of the Torah" celebrations!

As is our custom at Simchat Torah, we will welcome the newest members of our Religious School in a brief Consecration ceremony. The Friday Night Live Band will provide joyous music for the service and for dancing with the Torahs. Also this year, as we unroll one of our newly restored Torah scrolls, we will invite you to Find Your Place in the Torah. Your Place might be the portion of the Torah read the week you were born, or the portion of the Torah you read at your Bar or Bat Mitzvah. The Torah is read in a continuous cycle, so every event in our lives can be attached to a portion it.

Come Find Your Place!

THANKS/CONDOLENCES/COMMUNITY

Are you looking for ways to participate more at TBS? Some of our committees could really use your help!

- Adult Education -- call chairperson Ethel Hess or Education Director, Joy Rosenberg
- House & Grounds -- call chairperson Miriam Ries or Dorothea Migliori
- Gift Shop -- call Gloria Silver or Marcelle Grant
- Library -- call Helen Goodman or Dotty Weber
- Membership -- call Dorothea Migliori
- Mitzvah Corps -- call Susan Bernstein
- Ritual -- call Manny Marczak or Rabbi Schwab

Looking for a one-time task instead of a regular commitment? You could help build the Sukkah, clean up after onegs, greet at services, work on the Latke Lunch or the Purim Carnival. There's always lots to do and rarely enough people doing it. Give the office a call and we'll help you find your place in the big friendly world of TBS.

A Note about Advertising:

Advertising in our weekly e-Digest is limited to events of interest to the Jewish community. If you wish to advertise your business, please bring your flyer or card to the TBS office and we will post the information on our bulletin board. Paid advertising space is available in our TBS Bulletin.

See page 19 for more information.

Do you like to sing?

We do too! After the holidays, we will meet for an hour each week or two at TBS to sing songs: Yiddish, Hebrew, American folk songs.
No auditions, no rehearsals, no services.
Just singing.
More info to come.

Nosh 'n Noggins is coming back for another successful season!

Starting with the third Wednesday in October, Nosh 'n Noggins will again provide a monthly place for seniors to gather, have lunch, and nourish their noggins - free of charge!

Do you know someone who should participate? Let us know!

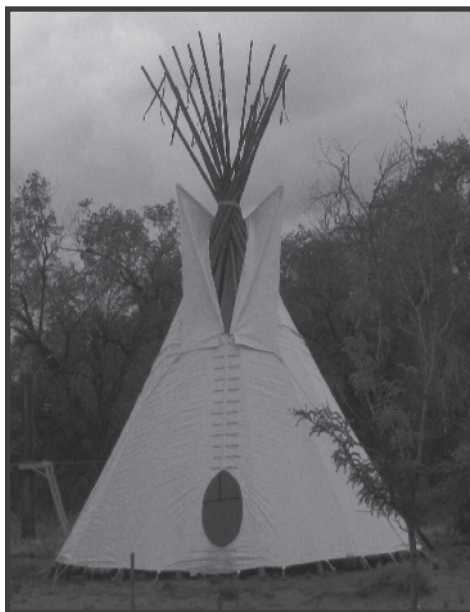

Send their name, address, phone number and e-mail address to info@sftbs.org or call the temple office at 505-982-1376.

PRESCHOOL

TBS Preschool is now enrolling for the school year, 2013 – 2014. We offer a nationally accredited program emphasizing the arts, ecology, and Judaism in a child-centered environment. We offer enrichment programs of yoga and music/movement as well. We fully integrate the precepts of Reform Judaism: tikkun olam, mitzvot, bal taschit (care of the earth), chesed, and tzedakah. Limited spaces are still available. Contact Leah at 982-6888; email preschool@sftbs.org or check out our beautiful website, ww.preschool.sftbs.org.

I'd also like to thank the TBS Parent Committee (Dawn Kaufmann, Heather Rider and especially the co-chairs, Felicia Katz-Harris and Jenny Kaufman) for their dedication this past year. We were able to put in a new keypad security system, install panic buttons in each classroom, sign up for One Call Now (a notification system), and put up our new tipi. And a big Thank you to Dylan Weller for building our beautiful new bookcases. Now on to new goals in the new year. Thanks to all for support of the Preschool.

L'Shanah Tovah and shalom,
Leah

Quotes from the children:

Leah explained the concept of doing a good deed, a mitzvah, to the children during Shabbat in the tipi. One little girl said: I am mitzvahing my sister. Then another child said: my big brother is not mitzvahing me.

The creation of new words!

Pre-School Director

RELIGIOUS SCHOOL/ADULT EDUCATION

Religious School begins on September 18!

It's not too late to register for the Religious School! We offer an innovative and personalized program for children in grades K-12. For more information, please contact Director of Education Joy Rosenberg: joy.rosenberg@sftbs.org or 982-6161. You can also find the a Religious School application and calendar are on our website, www.sftbs.org.

The Sukkot Family Potluck and Service on Friday, September 20 at 5:30 will also feature a Tzedakah Fair, sponsored by the Social Justice Committee. (see p. 5 for details)

All parents and grandparents are invited to Shalom Sunday on September 22. Children will go to class and adults will get together to hear about plans for the year and sign up to volunteer. Light refreshments will be provided. You are also invited to bring something to hang in the sukkah, as the community will be decorating that day. Bounty from the garden is particularly appropriate.

The High Holy Days will conclude with Simchat Torah and Consecration of our youngest students on Friday, September 27. Don't miss this joyous celebration: we will dance with the Torahs to the music of Friday Night Live!, we will celebrate our congregation's 60th anniversary, we will help you to "find your place in the Torah" and, of course, we will end and begin the annual Torah cycle.

The first Family Shabbat Potluck and Service will be on October 4th: Potluck at 5:30; service at 6:30.

On October 20, the Sunday School will take a field trip to the New Mexico History Museum for a private tour of the Cowboys exhibit! Watch for more information.

Adult Education

The 2013-2014 Adult Education Handbook will be available starting Erev Rosh Hashanah. You can also get a copy in the office or on our website shortly thereafter.

Women of the Bible: A Presentation / Book Signing with Sara Novenson Sunday, September 29 at 7 pm

Sara Novenson will present a slide show of the paintings of her Women of the Bible series while telling their stories. The stories are beautiful, powerful and mostly unknown. Each is a powerful archetype and teacher. Defying the boundaries of their time, the Women of the Bible reach out to guide and strengthen us in our "modern" lives.

Novenson's book, "Illuminated Visions, Women of the Bible", is at the heart of the presentation. In addition to her own research, Novenson studied for eighteen years with an esteemed Torah and Kabbalah scholar. Sara will speak of her personal journey as a Jewish woman and artist, focusing on how and why she began this body of Jewish work, and how her spirituality has affected her art and life. This strange and serendipitous story brought Novenson from Germany in the 80's full circle back to her Jewish roots.

Sara Novenson's work has been exhibited for the past 30 years in galleries, museums and numerous one-woman shows in Switzerland, Germany, and New York City. Her work has appeared as cover art on many publications, was used by UNICEF, and has been published in books, magazines and newspapers in the US, Europe and Israel, most recently in the Jerusalem Post. She has taught and lectured all over the world, receiving a grant from The Levinson Foundation in 1994 to revive the tradition of Jewish Folk Art through teaching workshops nationwide.

Please visit Sara's website www.novenson.com, or visit her gallery on Canyon Road.

RELIGIOUS SCHOOL/ADULT EDUCATION

Adult Hebrew with Bonnie Ellinger

Beginning October 20

Our exciting adult Hebrew classes will enhance your participation in Shabbat and holiday services. You will also pick up some Modern Hebrew expressions for that future trip to Israel! Contact teacher Bonnie Ellinger with questions: 820-1334 or b.ellinger@comcast.net.

Kita Alef: Beginners. Eight sessions to get you started! We will use the textbook Aleph Isn't Tough. Eight Sundays, beginning October 20, from 10-11:15 am. Cost for the course: Members $80; non-members $100; textbook $18.

Kita Bet: Intermediate. This class is suitable for those who have knowledge of the alphabet and recognize words and phrases from the Shabbat service. Participants will strengthen reading skills, increase vocabulary, gain fluency and comprehension with the help of the book Aleph Isn't Enough. Eighteen Sundays, beginning October 20, from 11:30 am - 12:45 pm. Cost for the year: Members $220; non-members $250; textbook $18.

Mitkadmim: Advanced. For students who read well and have a good level of comprehension. Textbook will be Readings in Biblical Hebrew by Ben Zvi, Hancock and Beinert. (Entry to this class is by permission of the instructor.) Eighteen Mondays, beginning October 21, from 10-11:30 am. Cost for the year: Members $220; non-members $250; textbook $18.

Beit Midrash with Rabbi Nahum Ward-Lev

Please contact Rabbi Ward-Lev for more information: thelevs@q.com

Evening Beit Midrash: "Walking in the Footsteps of the Prophets". Following our two-year study of the Hebrew prophets, we now will track the movement of the prophetic expression as it emerges in contemporary times. We will explore selections from Martin Buber, Emanuel Levinas, Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., Pablo Friere and Vaclav Havel as well as some Latin American liberation theologians. Tuesdays, September 17 – May 27, from 6:00-8:30 pm. Cost: $18-22 per session, paid monthly (scholarships are available).

Daytime Beit Midrash ("House of Exploration") is a learning circle that creates a safe and loving community in which people of all faiths and no faith can engage in deep exploration and find profound insights. Our text is the Book of Genesis, with multiple commentaries. As a learning community, we enter into a careful study of the text, and, guided by the text, we engage in searching conversation and creative exploration of core issues in our lives. Many different points of view are expressed. Beit Midrash is a serious commitment, so you must plan on regular attendance. Thursdays, September 19 – May 29, from 9:45-11:45 am. Cost: $18-22 per session, paid monthly (scholarships are available).

"Nice Jewish Cowboys and Cowgirls" at the New Mexico History Museum

Sunday, October 27 at 2 pm

Prompted by the current special exhibit "Cowboys Real and Imagined" at the New Mexico History Museum, the program "Nice Jewish Cowboys and Cowgirls" will be co-sponsored by The New Mexico Jewish Historical Society, the New Mexico History Museum and Temple Beth Shalom.

Surprisingly, Jewish ranching and sheep-raising families have played a prominent role in New Mexico's rich and diverse economic and social landscape from around 1850 to the present day. Professor Emeritus Noel Pugach will provide a historical context for this largely unknown topic. Ms. Meredith Davidson, a curator at the Museum, will then show slides from the Wurmser photo collection. The program's focus will be a panel representing Jewish families who have remained active in the ranching industry in New Mexico (including our own Todd Wertheim). The panelists will describe how their families became involved in this enterprise, telling some fascinating stories. The audience will then have an opportunity to ask questions and share their own experiences.

Joy Rosenberg
Director of Education

YOUTH GROUP

The Youth Group is excited about another great year of programming!

BSTY will lead Children's services Thursday, Sept. 5 at 10:00 am for Rosh Hashanah (yes, you should be at Temple, not school, on Rosh Hashanah!).

We will also lead Children's services Saturday, Sept. 14 at 10:00 am for Yom Kippur. During the break in services, we will continue our tradition of delivering contributions from the congregation for our annual High Holiday Food drive.

13 members of BSTY attended the first NFTY-SW Regional Event (Leadership Training Institute) in Albuquerque. We had a great time, and have lots of excellent ideas and plans for the rest of the year!

BSTY meets on Wednesdays from 6:00-7:30 usually in the Social Hall (and we always have a snack).

- BSTY meetings for September: 11th and 25th
- BSTY meetings for October: 9th, 23rd and 30th

BSTY is open to all Jewish high school students in northern New Mexico.

Know someone who should be part of BSTY?

Call TBS Youth Director, Ellen Zieselman, 505-577-2804.

BAR MITZVAH

Alex Baten, son of Michael Baten and Caroline Crosby, brother of Rachel and Emily, will be called to the Torah as a Bar Mitzvah on October 19, 2013.

Alex is an 8th grader at The Academy for Technology and the Classics. Alex enjoys biking, programming, models.

Here's Alex's take on his Torah portion: There can be miracles. We should try to obey God as best we can as we're human. Also, you can get in a lot of trouble for messing up.

Alex's Tzedakah project is a collection of necessary supplies for St. Elizabeth's Shelter. He chose this because he has been donating to the shelter ever since he was small and wants to continue doing so.

SOCIAL JUSTICE

It has been an exciting summer at TBS! Our recent panel event "It Takes A Village: Strategies for Excellence in the Santa Fe Public Schools" attracted over 125 people from all over Santa Fe to hear Joel Boyd, Superintendent of Schools, Communities In Schools NM, the Santa Fe Community Foundation and the Children and Youth Commission discuss challenges and opportunities for our school system. As Brian Byrnes, president and CEO of the Community Foundation stated, "I believe that there's an enormous opportunity at this moment in time to bring together a shared strategy to leverage each other's resources and passion for change." He went on to comment "While there are many groups in the community that work to support the schools, for too long they've worked in isolation. All the small efforts won't add up to a shared strategy." While panelists spoke to the various efforts each are making to try and support a broad strategy for our schools, clearly there is much work to be done.

Julia Bergen, Executive Director of Communities In Schools of New Mexico hopes to link these various organizations and city agencies together. With support from the SF Community Foundation, there was discussion of how CISNM might collaborate with the Children and Youth Commission further down the road. Also highlighted at the event was CISNM's plan for addressing challenges at the Transformation Zone Schools. Site coordinators in each school will serve as the contact point for volunteers, teachers, and administrators -- providing support and guidance to individuals working with students. Communities In Schools of New Mexico will also pay for and arrange the fingerprinting and registration required by the school district. In doing so, CISNM has developed a much-needed streamlined process from registration to tutoring. To learn more contact Julia Bergen at bergenj@cisnewmexico.org or call 954-1880.

We look forward to seeing you all at the High Holy Days, Tzedakah Fair and at our annual Yom Kippur Dialogues! Please join us for these and other celebrations. And as always, contact me with your questions and thoughts on how TBS can do more to positively impact our community.

Empowering Seniors To Prevent Healthcare Fraud

Tips to Protect Yourself from Health Care Fraud

- Protect your Medicare card, like your Social Security card, credit card and bank account.
- Beware of offers for "free" service or unwanted medical equipment or supplies.
- Beware of unsolicited insurance agent calls or visits.
- Never sign anything you don't understand

If you suspect an error, fraud or abuse related or have questions, call the NMADRC-Senior Medicare Patrol at 1-800-432-2080.
