Rejectamenta

Clinker, ashes, leaves and branches mostly:
and batteries, bolts, oyster shells and cables,
rainpipe, a pair of scissors, a zip fastener,
grinding wheels, a marble washstand top,
springs, fuse insulators, a metal drug phial, some rubber hose, odd socks, a pair of army boots laced together, a rusted
toy train, umbrella stays, and inner tubes;
a gas-mask filter, car parts, a soapdish,
torn coalsacks, slate, part of a tiled
surround, a teapot, switches and contacts,
a woman's shoe, the twisted spring of a lever-arch file, film spools, a spatula,
and tins; for polish, cigarettes, sardines,
milk, talc, oil - these alone recognisable
by their shapes, the myriad other types rusted into nonentity, the edge
corroding last of all; who was it said
the path of civilisation is paved with tins?

BS JOHNSON

ORANGE SECTION

“I had never heard that bell strike before”

—the clocktower, Bangor, Gwynedd

How to start something? with my own handwriting—a wooden pen—gone for the cheaper book—not the moleskine—the two pound one [not weight] with 5 sections—orange, pink, yellow, green, blue—with a struck bell, with a departure.

This is a practical creative writing manual—I will take all the advice I’m given—I advise myself to choose a springbound book—to be free, to use my own handwriting, to use a wooden pen.

“we live here now” —I say, the coffee shop, puds laughs.

“a bulky book I should fill up with stuff?”

some characters—me, Sveinn, Beatrice (say) & Annwn.

“SHALL I GO DO MY SHOPPING?!”

“do you want this kind of one—coconut?”

“OKOK Ie”

“to the tobacco shop to get cherry flavour.”

interruptions

Sveinn ‘cause of Sveinn-Sea—a destination—possible etymology of Swansea, Viking.

Me—Rhys because I could never not write in the first person—never he did, she said—though through following advice I may try that technique.

some advice of the l=a=n=g=u=a=g=e poets—familiar faces—
so many welsh physiognotypes welsh bands I have seen, played on the same bill as—something like:—cut up or ‘treat’ a great writers work—no text available for me to predate upon.

“Be tisho?”

Terribly vulgar to write anything new always predating on input text, always assimilating.

Orange section Buddhist section, divine colour.

“ Here’s Daddy”

“Joel’s eaten all his *inaudible”

“eatitupleeze”

In automatic writing you must (if you get stuck return to a pre-agreed colour (not colour, letter—but why not colour? —the colour orange (disappearing up a novelistic arse))

“I’d like to try it.”

“That should be ample”

“What the fuck”

“Feels so strange Walrus”

“That you’re going?”

That’s Puds—she’s off to Minorca with her mum. Walrus is also me—Rhys...grinding to a halt here—orange—orange—orange—marigold—marigold—marigold.

list.

Must put batteries in Dictaphone—for when I’m walking—to transcribe later (can’t walk dog and write)

Print out advice from l=a=n=g=u=a=g=e poets [online]

Photocopy that archetypaly shit creative writing book in library (abandoned idea)

“Yellow one”

Start: orange be free, orange be free—try not to crave success as novelists do— not like the pure obscurity of poetry—break with reality—stop, this is Bangor children.

“lokahrmime”

(is that a cliché) —the going to somewhere.

“this woman thought it was her daughter— ‘Branwen,’ ‘Bronwen’

pendown—orange.

“where’s my Żabka puds?”

Żabka= polish = frog = ŻABKA is the Polish equivalent of SPAR which I was obsessed with in Poland—this is fun kind of epistolary—very cheap—chocolates—and those straight salted pretzels—my obsession with cheap food snacks—with sensation—sensitive—adjectival that squeaking novelistic style (a woman looks disappointedly at the child) sun shines orange

“you know when you go to work—when you’re a grown-up”

“mission accomplished”

says PUDS

“ I like scuzzy things” I say

—paper falls on the floor

—orange

pink prompt, no orange

genetic attentions—what would you mean—right, quite—scary really [voice becomes clearer over background bar-noise] remember I used to go out with [yes—my father’s voice] I did this thing the other night—I thought I’d try and see—I wanted to recall the relationship—so I though I want to go back in my head and replay it, and so I did (handwriting improving)
YOU know the POWEr of your mind? —it’s really important you DON’T go back on those memories [interruption from me—ignored] IN THE DARK—at first I couldn’t remember, so I found I COULD remember that moment, filled my head like ghosts,

expressions, the conversations—by the end I thought “fuck” stop

Bernadette Mayor & the member of the St Mark’s
Church Poetry Project writing workshop 1971-1975 say “Hello”

say

“Never listen to poets or other writers; never explain
your work (communication experiment)”

Bwlch-y-Groes—my family are from there says Sveinn, says SWANSEA

a project—an impart of disparate discourses

“I lived in the army truck I had to visit Tal in hospital, used my rucksack as a sledge with Milly on my shoulders”

Rhos Ddu

a superimposition, a sub-imposition

Cwm Diad

the Kiev underground onto Cwm Cych—the supposed entrance to the underworld—Annwfn [etymology
undep] and where I got my dog Annwn, the place where Pwyll meets his otherworldly counterpart—
Arawn, lord of the underworld

Poetic Projects—the creating of artists—repetitive or absurd tasks—of factory jobs for ourselves—though we be guided by ‘higher ideals’—to walk crazy routes that made no sense but that felt right.

Cwm Cadifer Cadifor ancestor

[warmth sea-sounds]

Red Lady of Paviland—here present reluctant—how to transform mundane text into something of value—Tor Bay [etym gate? a. Saxon?] the illusion of significance—

describe something

the two men dropping from height on dunes—the object—rejectamenta [BS interposes—fat man on a beach]

“a seat” —one man says

A pebble of fibre glass embedded with black rubber spheres, erosion has exposed the sphere’s interiors—like honeycomb lump—a metre across—

“a sculpture” —says the man

Dialogue and description, dialogue & description. At least the dog is happy—sitting on the sculpted seat [keep the dog from other dogs][square brackets – interposition][authorial][CAPS

METAAUTHORIAL]watch the sand fleas—encouraging voiceover—repulsion effect of other people—

Second feather=gul

fear of water=fear of illness

=fear of * *intimacy, love, death, others ... these processuals, the PhD poetic plans I devised, I planned them to make me do—got the got to get out of the house—all these things to put-off my increasing interiorization—to externalise my senses—offset towards an eventual completer internalisation from the world—death

I put a tracing paper map of the Kiev metro on an OS map of Cwm-Cych—sympathetic magic
