

Product Authentication & Brand Security Conference 2012

September 10-11, 2012 - Chicago, IL, USA

The Established conference for all associated with the product authentication and brand security industry as user, producer or supplier

Conference Outline

Jackie Marolda, Vice President and Senior Consultant, AWA Alexander Watson Associates, sets the context for this key industry event.

AWA announces PABS™ 2012 -The Product Authentication & Brand Security Conference – the 9th annual event focused on this emerging market segment. Led by industry experts, this forum assesses the industry, the developments, the opportunities and the challenges during each step of the process of including production authentication and brand security into/onto products and packaging. Each step is conveniently translated into a session during the conference: Market, Strategy Development & Implementation, Technologies & Solutions, and Enforcement & Litigation. Information, thoughts and ideas will be shared via presentations, panel discussions and networking sessions.

PABS 2012 provides an holistic overview of the counterfeiting industry, technology and solution innovations, opportunities, challenges and the different steps, elements and parties involved in the process creating, implementing and enforcing brand protection, product security and counterfeiting strategies. A focus is put on the role that technologies and solutions play in this process.

The Conference is conveniently divided into sessions which address key parts of the process namely: Markets, Strategy Development & Implemenattion, Technology & Solutions, Enforcement & Litigation.

PABS 2012 is conveniently linked with the 2012 Label Expo in Rosemont (Chicago), Illinois. Conveniently timing these events provides a unique opportunity for those related to the label industry to receive an insight in the various steps, elements and parties involved in creating, implementing and enforcing brand protection and product security strategies. During the conference a focus is placed on the role technologies and solutions play.

We look forward to seeing you in Chicago on September 10 & 11.

Enforcement & Litigation Session

9:15 - 9:45	Litigating Against Counterfeiters: Practical Challenges and Strategies Tom Fitzsimons, Attorney at Law - Greer Burns & Crain Litigating against counterfeiters presents unique challenges. Counterfeiters generally don't keep records, often insulate their identities (and bank accounts) from detection, and increasingly base some or all of their operations overseas. Counterfeiter's use of the internet has further complicated identifying and prosecuting them. There are some litigation strategies, however, that are useful to address some or all of these challenges. This presentation will explore the unique challenges presented and summarize some anti-counterfeit litigation strategies that have proven effective.
9:45 - 10:15	Catching Counterfeiters: An Overseas Success Story Andrew Gardner, World Wide Brand Protection Manager - Lexmark International A Lexmark case study highlighting the criminal enforcement action against a manufacturer of counterfeit printer supplies in China.
10:15 - 10:45	Working with CBP to "Transform" protection of your IPR Geoffrey Ord, International Trade Specialist, IPR Policy & Programs Division Branch - U.S. Customs and Border Protection U.S. Customs and Border Protection (CBP) enforces Intellectual Property Rights (IPR) at U.S. borders by seizing counterfeit and fake goods. CBP can issue civil fines and in appropriate cases can turn shipment information over to law enforcement for criminal prosecution. The flow of counterfeit and pirated goods is a global problem that requires vigorous collaboration between customs agencies and rights owners to ensure effective intellectual property enforcement at the border. Working with CBP provides many benefits for rights owners of patents, copy rights, and trademarks to ensure maximum intellectual property rights protection. The three steps you can take to maximize your relationship with CBP to improve IPR enforcement are e-Recordation, e-Allegations, and information sharing. This session will explain how to work with CBP and how you can enable CBP to better protect your intellectual property rights.
10:45 - 11:15	Coffee and Networking Break

Technologies & Solutions Session

11:15 - 11:45 Brand Protection Techniques: Fighting Counterfeiting and Diversion with the Latest Technology Kevin Harrell, Director, Global Commercial Business - Kodak Security Solutions Don't roll the dice when it comes to developing or improving your global brand protection strategy. Counterfeiting and Product Diversion continue to plague every brand owner in nearly all vertical industries in today's global market. Learn about new technologies and strategies for mitigating these risks, and how to change the game in your favor. See how layered overt and covert brand protection security features can be deployed in all kinds of packaging, inks, substrates, plastics, and even directly in products. Find out how software solutions can help tie your security print features together, with effective track and trace techniques. So don't take chances with your brand protection strategy - learn the new rules in the battle against counterfeiters and diverters.

11:45 - 12:15 Improving the Distribution Chain Through Security Inks Nick Cooper, Marketing Director - Luminescence This presentation will look at the way that digital technology is changing security printing. Variable data has become an essential part of security documents; whether it is a barcode on pharmaceutical packaging or a photograph on a passport. Nick will then describe the 3 levels of security features developed for a 'live' tax stamp project using inkjet printing and how the customer planned to verify these at different stages of the distribution chain
