Home Equity Conversion Mortgage Pool to Security Balance	For the Ginnie Mae HMBS Program, the pool balance includes all underlying Participation balances, and this amount must equal the security balance. Management System	disbursement of congressionally authorized commitment authority to guarantee mortgage-backed securities under the Ginnie Mae MBS Programs. The Issuer requests commitment authority, which is aggregated, as approved, and is referred to as a commitment authority account or “line.” As an Issuer issues approved securities backed by pools of mortgages, Ginnie Mae enters the amount of securities issued into the automated commitment file and the commitment line is automatically drawn down.
IR	Internal Reserve Accounting Method.
Interest Rate Cap Structure	The interest rate cap structure for adjustable rate mortgage loans generally provides the borrower with protection from large interest rate swings. Typically, there are two types of interest rate caps – annual and life-of-the loan. Annual interest rate caps limit the extent to which the loan’s interest rate can increase (or decrease) in any given year. Life-of-the-loan caps limit the maximum (or minimum) increase in the note’s interest rate which the borrower will be obligated to pay throughout the term of the loan. Ginnie Mae will guarantee several FHA-insured adjustable rate mortgage products, including a 1-yr ARM and four additional hybrid ARM products. Hybrid ARMs offer an initial interest rate that remains static for the first 3-, 5-, 7- or 10-years and then adjust annually once the initial rate period has expired. The 1-year ARM and 3-year hybrid ARM each have annual caps of one percentage point and life-of-the-loan caps that may not exceed 5 percentage points, even if the prevailing market rates do in fact exceed 5 percentage points. The 5-, 7- and 10-year hybrid ARM products have annual caps of two percentage points, with corresponding life-of-the-loan caps which may never exceed 6 percentage points.
Interest Rate Change Date, i.e., Initial Payment Change Date (ARM)	The interest rate change date is that date which triggers a rate change and payment amount change on an adjustable rate mortgage (ARM). The security adjustment date occurs at the same time as the mortgage change date.
Internal Reserve Accounting Method	Under the Internal Reserve (IR) method, loans are “paid up” through the payment due one month before the date of issue. All mortgage payments due on or after the pool issue date are collections due the pool. Since security holders are not paid until the 15 th or 20 th of the month following the month of issue, two months of mortgage collections may be available before securities holders are paid. The IR method of pool administration leaves approximately a one-month cash cushion, or reserve, in the pool bank account.
