

1. Do you feel that the Angel/CTL Minute is appropriate for Assembly meetings?

		Response Percent	Response Count
Yes		82.2%	83
No		17.8%	18
answered question			101
skipped question			1

2. Do you think the Angel/CTL Minute should continue to be an agenda item at Assembly meetings?

		Response Percent	Response Count
Yes		77.2%	78
No		22.8%	23
answered question			101
skipped question			1

3. Do you feel that you benefit from what is presented during the Angel/CTL Minute at Assembly meetings?

		Response Percent	Response Count
Yes		63.7%	65
Somewhat		24.5%	25
No		11.8%	12
answered question			102
skipped question			0

4. Please share any additional comments you feel would be beneficial for EC to consider.

Response Count

35

answered question

35

skipped question

67

Q4. Please share any additional comments you feel would be beneficial for EC to consider.

1	See submission made by FSDC in regard to Division meetings	Jun 10, 2013 9:14 AM
2	Very efficient and informative!	May 8, 2013 5:05 AM
3	I do not know how many faculty members attend the CTL events, but I feel they are very valuable. When they are discussed at the meeting, it helps to remind me to sign up for certain events and also helps me to understand what some of the topics are about. Please keep them in the meeting.	May 7, 2013 4:44 PM
4	Since it really has been only "a minute" each thing is short & sweet, not detracting from the business at hand. I have picked up a few ideas...even if I don't get the full idea of how to do it...I have been introduced to some great technology...after all we have ID'd technology deficiencies across campus for YEARS...I believe this is just another way we have been addressing this...and doing a great job at it too.	May 7, 2013 12:55 PM
5	I would like to have the specifics sent/emailed to me regarding what was presented. I often can't get down all of the information. Maybe just sent the presentation to each of us after the meeting.	May 7, 2013 12:03 PM
6	The Angel/CTL minute is the best thing about the Assembly meetings. Maureen and Dena present useful material in an organized and concise manner. The other presenters should learn from them.	May 7, 2013 11:47 AM
7	What I like about the CTL Minute is that it is brief and targeted. We learn something about the topic without being drowned in information and are informed of where to go if we want to learn more. This stands in stark contrast to the overly lengthy and detailed Middle States updates, which I came to think of as "Death by PowerPoint." I think the CTL Minute is a model for how Assembly presentations should be conducted.	May 7, 2013 8:02 AM
8	I am already quite tech savvy, but I know that many of our faculty are not so tech savvy. Though some faculty take responsibility for their own learning to improve their tech skills, some do not. Including the CTL	May 7, 2013 7:32 AM
9	Definitely keep this. Maybe move it to the top of the agenda so it doesn't have that "standing in the way of us all leaving" feel to it. I think it would be a nice way to open things up--like an announcement.	May 7, 2013 5:47 AM
10	I think this is better suited to Division Meetings. It tends to be faculty-oriented, is really more like training, and would be better at the academic division level. That would also leave at least a few more minutes for actual Assembly business or discussion. And thanks for asking!	May 7, 2013 4:56 AM
11	I don't feel that there is enough time at assembly for these trainings. They could be accomplished at the workshops in August.	May 7, 2013 4:56 AM
12	It would be nice if we could spend more time in Assembly on these kinds of things... things associated with teaching and learning rather than administrative matters.	May 7, 2013 4:50 AM
13	It would be nice if we could spend more time in Assembly on these kinds of things... things associated with teaching and learning rather than administrative	May 7, 2013 4:49 AM

Q4. Please share any additional comments you feel would be beneficial for EC to consider.

	matters.
14	We could get the info on grapevine	May 7, 2013 4:22 AM
15	The ANGEL/CTL minute is the only time during assembly we ever consider anything related to what we enjoy doing as educators, which is what we ought to do more of at every meeting. Please don't take away our "minute" of enjoyment at assembly!	May 7, 2013 4:20 AM
16	There is no other format to bring these brief tips to the body of faculty & staff at one time. As long as they are kept brief, I think they are a good idea.	May 6, 2013 8:09 PM
17	This is an opportunity for the faculty to learn and discover what is available and can be done with technology on campus. It is a reminder that teaching/ learning is the main mission.	May 6, 2013 7:40 PM
18	CTL minute was effective because it was focused and quick.	May 6, 2013 7:30 PM
19	It would be a disservice to exclude this from Assembly meetings	May 6, 2013 6:55 PM
20	All presentations - regardless of their content should be brief where appropriate. CTLT did a great job doing this. However OTHERS dragged on WAY TOO LONG!	May 6, 2013 6:36 PM
21	The Angel/CTL Minute has been practical and useful for professional development in a "mini" format. As technology becomes ever more important, it is a helpful way to keep pace with it.	May 6, 2013 6:09 PM
22	The meeting are way too long and we are talked at way too much. The CTL minute is not a minute it is about 10-15 minutes. The more two way discussions the better.	May 6, 2013 4:02 PM
23	Please de-emphasize committee reports and other bureaucratic matters and focus instead on academics--new ideas, projects, colleagues' achievements--and other matters that build community, enhance participation, and promote innovation.	May 6, 2013 2:49 PM
24	Best part of the meetings.	May 6, 2013 2:25 PM
25	I think presenting it at Division may be more fruitful.	May 6, 2013 1:40 PM
26	I really find this part of Assembly useful.	May 6, 2013 1:22 PM
27	Inclusion as an agenda item is OK. However, allowing other areas of the college (i.e. Sustainability, Grants, Student Support Services, Wellness Center, etc.) to do "Minutes" as well should be considered. Perhaps choose two areas for each semester to be "Minute" presenters. Only one "Minute presentation" per Assembly meeting. ~Thanks.	May 6, 2013 1:21 PM
28	I think this "minute" has caught on and should only continue with a great change to announce. All announcements can be on Grapevine where the same announcements are posted anyway.	May 6, 2013 1:14 PM
29	Though I like the mission of the CTL and feel that it is appropriate at meetings, I	May 6, 2013 1:09 PM

Q4. Please share any additional comments you feel would be beneficial for EC to consider.

don't think its "current" value is strong enough for it to be on the agenda each month. Other important topics are too often rushed in an attempt to adequately cover & discuss. Perhaps, the CTL team could speak only when an extremely important item is at hand.

30	Keep it short but meaningful!	May 6, 2013 1:00 PM
31	One minute really is not enough time to fully learn something. What if one month was Angel, one month CTL? I would also move it to the top of the agenda. By the end of the day, the two women have to rush through and it's hard to let it all sink in.	May 6, 2013 12:49 PM
32	I'd rather learn something practical, such as the CTL minute, than review documents in an Assembly meeting. When the Assembly needs to review documents or wishes to include a discussion item, it might be much more productive if we broke up into smaller groups. The same people tend to speak out during Assembly meetings. Smaller group discussions would give more people an opportunity to engage in dialogue.	May 6, 2013 12:46 PM
33	For me, the Angel /Ctl Minute has been a highlight if not THE highlight of Assembly, and briefly but professionally gives us a "taste" of what's out there. I hope it will continue.	May 6, 2013 12:43 PM
34	Keep it up!	May 6, 2013 12:42 PM
35	should be on the grapevine each week	May 6, 2013 12:40 PM