

Form 1023-EZ Instructions

Overview of Section 501(c)(3) Organizations

Who Is Eligible for Section 501(c)(3) Status?

Organizations organized and operated exclusively for religious, charitable, scientific, testing for public safety, literary, or educational purposes, or to foster national or international amateur sports competition, or for the prevention of cruelty to children or animals are eligible to file Form 1023 to obtain recognition of exemption from federal income tax under section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code.

Application not necessary. The following types of organizations may be considered tax exempt under section 501(c)(3) even if they do not file Forms 1023 or 1023-EZ.

- Churches, including synagogues, temples, and mosques.
- Integrated auxiliaries of churches and conventions or associations of churches.
- Any organization that has gross receipts in each taxable year of normally not more than $5,000.

Even though the above organizations are not required to file Forms 1023 or 1023-EZ to be tax exempt, these organizations may choose to file them in order to receive a determination letter that recognizes their section 501(c)(3) status and specifies whether contributions to them are tax deductible.

Take note that even though these organizations may not be required to file Forms 1023 or 1023-EZ, they may be liable for annual filing requirements (see Pub. 557).

Qualification of a Section 501(c)(3) Organization

There are two key requirements for an organization to be exempt from federal income tax under section 501(c)(3). A 501(c)(3) organization must be organized and operated exclusively for one or more exempt purposes.

Organized. An organization must be organized as a corporation (including a limited liability company), trust, or unincorporated association. The organizing document (articles of incorporation if you are a corporation, articles of organization if you are a limited liability company, articles of association or constitution if you are an association, or trust agreement or declaration of trust if you are a trust) must limit the organization's purpose(s) and permanently dedicate its assets to exempt purposes.

Operated. An organization must be operated to further one or more of the exempt purposes stated in its organizing document. Certain other activities are prohibited or restricted, including, but not limited to, the following activities. A 501(c)(3) organization must:

- Absolutely refrain from participating in the political campaigns of candidates for local, state, or federal office.
- Absolutely ensure that its assets and earnings do not unjustly enrich board members, officers, key management employees, or other insiders.
- Not further non-exempt purposes (such as purposes that benefit private interests) more than insubstantially.
- Not operate for the primary purpose of conducting a trade or business that is not related to its exempt purpose(s).
- Not engage in activities that are illegal or violate fundamental public policy.
- Restrict its legislative activities.

Legislative activity. An organization does not qualify for section 501(c)(3) status if a substantial part of its activities is attempting to influence legislation.

Form 5768. Most public charities are eligible to elect to make expenditures to influence legislation by filing Form 5768, Election/Revocation of Election by an Eligible Section 501(c)(3) Organization To Make Expenditures To Influence Legislation. By filing Form 5768, an eligible organization's legislative activities will be measured solely by an expenditure limit rather than by the "no substantial amount" limit. For additional information on the expenditure limit or the no substantial amount limit, see Publication 557, Tax-Exempt Status for Your Organization.

For this purpose, "legislation" includes action by Congress, a state legislature, a local council, or a similar governing body, with respect to acts, bills, resolutions or similar items (such as legislative confirmation of appointive offices). Legislation also includes action by the public in a referendum, ballot initiative, constitutional amendment, or similar procedure. Legislation generally does not include actions by executive, judicial, or administrative bodies. Organizations may involve themselves in issues of public policy without being engaged in legislative activity. For example, organizations may conduct educational meetings, prepare and distribute educational materials, or otherwise consider public policy issues. Similarly, an organization may appear before a governmental body to offer testimony about a decision that may affect the organization's existence.

Political campaign intervention. All 501(c)(3) organizations are absolutely prohibited from directly or indirectly participating or intervening in any political campaign on behalf of (or in opposition to) any candidate for elective public office. Non-partisan voter education activities (including public forums and voter education guides) are permitted. Similarly, non-partisan activities to encourage people to participate in the electoral process, such as voter registration and get-out-the-vote drives, are not prohibited political campaign activity. However, voter education or registration activities that (a) favor one candidate over another, (b) oppose a candidate in some manner, or (c) favor a group of candidates, are prohibited.

Public Charities and Private Foundations

Every organization that qualifies for tax-exempt status under section 501(c)(3) is further classified as either a public charity or a private foundation. For some organizations, the primary distinction between a public charity and a private foundation is an organization's source of financial support.

A public charity has a broad base of support, while a private foundation receives its support from a small number of donors. This classification is important because different tax rules apply to the operations of each entity. Deductibility of contributions to a private foundation is more limited than contributions to a public charity. See Publication 526, Charitable Contributions, for more information on the deductibility of contributions. In addition, private foundations are subject to excise taxes that are not imposed on public charities.

Public charities. The following 501(c)(3) organizations are classified as public charities.

- Churches.
- Schools
- Hospitals, medical research organizations, and cooperative hospital service organizations.
- Organizations that receive substantial support from grants, governmental units, and/or contributions from the general public.
- Organizations that normally receive more than one-third of their support from contributions, membership fees, and gross receipts from activities related to their exempt functions, and not more than one-third of their support from gross investment income and net unrelated business income.
- Organizations that support other public charities.

Private foundation. A 501(c)(3) organization that cannot meet one of the specific exceptions to be classified as a public charity is a private foundation.

TIP: Classification as a private foundation has nothing to do with the name of the organization. There are many organizations that include the word foundation in their names that are not private foundations for tax purposes.

Private operating foundations. A private foundation that lacks general public support but actively conducts exempt programs (as opposed to making grants to other organizations to conduct exempt activities) may be treated as a private operating foundation. Private operating foundations are subject to more favorable rules than other private foundations in terms of charitable contribution deductions and attracting grants from private foundations. In order to be classified as a private operating foundation, an organization must meet certain support tests.

State Registration Requirements

Tax exemption under section 501(c)(3) is a matter of federal law. After receiving federal tax exemption, you may also be required to register with one or more states to solicit for contributions or to obtain exemption from state taxes. The National Association of State Charity Officials (NASCO) maintains a website that provides informational links to the various states for these purposes. It can be accessed at www.nasconet.org.

Line 8. Organization’s website.

Enter your complete website address if you have one.

Part II. Organizational Structure

Line 1. Entity Type.

Only corporations (including limited liability companies), unincorporated associations, and trusts are eligible for tax-exempt status under section 501(c)(3) of the Code. Sole proprietorships, partnerships, or loosely affiliated groups of individuals are not eligible. Even though limited liability companies, are eligible to receive exemption under section 501(c)(3), they are not eligible to apply for exemption using this form. Therefore, check the appropriate box to indicate whether you are a corporation, an association, or you were formed by a trust.

Corporation. A “corporation” is an entity organized under a federal or state statute, or a statute of a federally recognized Indian tribal or Alaskan native government. A corporation’s organizing document is its “articles of incorporation.” You must be incorporated under the non-profit laws of your state.

Unincorporated Association. An “unincorporated association” formed under state law must have at least two members who have signed a written document for a specifically defined purpose.

The articles of organization of an unincorporated association must include the name of your organization, your purpose, the date the document was adopted, and the signatures of at least two individuals.

Bylaws may be considered an organizing document only if they are properly structured (includes name, purpose, signatures, and intent to form an organization).

Trust. A trust may be formed by a trust agreement or declaration of trust. A trust may also be formed through a will.

Line 2. Necessary Organizing Document.

Corporation. If formed under state statute, you have a “necessary organizing document” if your articles of incorporation show certification of filing. This means your articles show evidence that on a specific date they were filed with and approved by an appropriate state authority.

Unincorporated Association. In order to be a “necessary organizing document,” your articles of organization must include the name of your organization, your purpose, the date the document was adopted, and the signatures of at least two individuals.

Bylaws may be considered an organizing document only if they are properly structured (includes name, purpose, signatures, and intent to form an organization).

Trust. In order for your trust agreement, declaration of trust, or will to be a “necessary organizing document,” it must contain appropriate signature(s) and show the exact date it was formed.

Line 3. Formation Date.

Corporation. If you are a corporation, you should enter the date that the appropriate state authority filed your Articles of Incorporation.

Unincorporated Association. If you are an unincorporated association, you should enter the date that your organizing document was adopted by the signatures of at least two individuals.

Trust. If your trust was formed by a trust agreement or a declaration of trust and does not provide for distributions to non-charitable interests, enter the date the trust was funded. Generally, a trust must be funded with property, such as money, real estate, or personal property to be legally created.

If your trust document provides for distributions for non-charitable interests, enter the date on which these interests expired. If your trust agreement continues to provide for non-charitable interests, you will not qualify for tax-exempt status.

If you were formed by a will, enter the date of death of the testator or the date any non-charitable interests expired, whichever is later.

Line 4. State of Formation

Enter the state in which you were incorporated or otherwise formed. If you are a corporation, this state may not be the state in which you are physically located. For example, if you are physically located in New York, but incorporated in Massachusetts, enter Massachusetts.

Line 5. Purpose clause.

Your organizing document must limit your purposes to those described in section 501(c)(3). Those purposes are: charitable, religious, educational, scientific, literary, testing for public safety, fostering national or international amateur sports competition, and preventing cruelty to children or animals.

The generally accepted legal definition of “charitable” includes relief of the poor, the distressed, or the underprivileged; advancement of religion; advancement of education or science; erecting or maintaining public buildings, monuments, or works; lessening the burdens of government; lessening neighborhood tensions; eliminating prejudice and discrimination; defending human and civil rights secured by law; and combating community deterioration and juvenile delinquency. Therefore, the phrase “relief of the poor” in your organizing document properly limits your purposes.

If your purposes are limited in some way by referring to section 501(c)(3), your organizing document also properly limits your purposes. For example, the phrase “relief of the elderly within the meaning of section 501(c)(3)” in your organizing document also properly limits your purposes.

However, if the purposes listed in your organizing document are broader than those listed in section 501(c)(3), you should amend your organizing document before applying. A reference to section 501(c)(3) will not ensure that your purposes are limited to those described in section 501(c)(3). All of the language in your organizing document must be considered. The following is an example of an acceptable purpose clause:

The organization is organized exclusively for charitable, religious, educational, and scientific purposes under section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code, or corresponding section of any future federal tax code.

See Publication 557 for further information and examples of how to limit your purposes.

Line 6. Activities not in furtherance of exempt purposes.

Placeholder – Still writing this section

Line 7. Dissolution Clause.

Your organizing document must permanently dedicate your assets for a section 501(c)(3) purpose. This means that if you dissolve your organization in the future, your assets must be distributed for an exempt purpose described in section 501(c)(3), or to the federal government, or to a state or local government for a public purpose.

If your organizing document states that your assets would be distributed to members or private individuals or for any purpose other than those provided in section 501(c)(3), you must amend your organizing document to remove such statements.

The following is an example of an acceptable dissolution clause:

Upon the dissolution of this organization, assets shall be distributed for one or more exempt purposes within the meaning of section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code, or corresponding section of any future federal tax code, or shall be distributed to the federal government, or to a state or local government, for a public purpose.

Naming a specific organization to receive your assets upon dissolution will only be acceptable if your articles state that the specific organization must be exempt under section 501(c)(3) at the time your dissolution takes place and your articles provide for an acceptable alternative if the specific organization is not exempt. See Publication 557 for further information and examples of acceptable language for dedication of assets in your organizing document.

Operation of state law. The laws of certain states make provisions for the distribution of assets upon dissolution, therefore specific written language is not needed in their organizing documents. Organizations located in these “cy pres” states should be aware of their specific state requirements. Caution: state law does not override a bad dissolution clause. If you live in a “cy pres” state and do not have a dissolution clause, state law is sufficient to meet the dissolution clause. However, if you have an inappropriate dissolution clause, state law will not make up for this and you will need to amend your organizing document to remove the inappropriate clause.

Operation of state law is based Rev. Proc. 82-2, 1982-1 C.B. 367.

Part III. Your Specific Activities

Line 1. NTEE Code. An NTEE code is a three-character series of letters and numbers that generally summarize an organization’s purpose and activities.

Enter the code that best describes your organization from the list of codes on pages X – Y of this document.:

Line 2. Operational Test. In order to qualify for exemption under section 501(c)(3) of the Code, your activities must exclusively further one or more of the following purposes: charitable, religious, educational, scientific, literary, testing for public safety, fostering national or international amateur sports competition, or preventing cruelty to children or animals.

Check all purposes that your activities further.

Line 3. Prohibited or Restricted Activities. Certain activities are prohibited or restricted for organizations exempt from federal income tax under section 501(c)(3) of the Code. Along with conducting activities that exclusively further one or more of the purposes listed in line 2 above, organizations exempt under section 501(c)(3) must:

- a. Refrain from supporting or opposing candidates in political campaigns in any way.

- b. Ensure that your net earnings do not inure in whole or in part to the benefit of private shareholders or individuals (i.e. board members, officers, key management employees, or other insiders).
- c. Not further non-exempt purposes (such as purposes that benefit private interests) more than insubstantially.
- d. Not be organized or operated for the primary purpose of conducting a trade or business that is not related to your exempt purpose(s).
- e. Not devote more than an insubstantial part of your activities to attempting to influence legislation.
- f. Not engage in activities that are illegal or violate fundamental public policy.
- g. Not provide commercial-type insurance as a substantial part of your activities.

Please check the box to attest that you have not, and will not conduct these prohibited activities.

Line 4. Influence Legislation. Select “yes” or “no” to indicate whether or not you plan to influence legislation as an insubstantial part of your activities. For a definition of “legislation,” see page x of this document.

NOTE: You should check “yes” if you plan to influence legislation in any way. Checking “yes” here does not disqualify you from receiving exemption.

Line 5. Compensation. Check “yes” here if you currently pay, or plan to pay compensation (as an employee or independent contractor) to any of your officers, directors, or trustees. Compensation includes salary or wages, deferred compensation, retirement benefits whether in the form of a qualified or non-qualified employee plan (pensions or annuities), fringe benefits (personal vehicle, meals, lodging, personal and family educational benefits, low interest loans, payment of personal travel, entertainment, or other expenses, athletic or country club membership, personal use of your property), and bonuses.

Line 6. Contributions to Individuals. Placeholder – Still writing this section

Line 7. Activities or funds outside the United States. Check “yes” to this question if you conduct activities outside the United States, provide financial assistance to individuals outside the United States, or make distributions to organizations outside the United States. For purposes of this question, “outside the United States” means those locations other than the United States, its territories and possessions, and the District of Columbia.

Line 8. Business transactions with officers, directors, trustees, or key employees. Check “yes” to this question if you engage in business transactions with any of your officers, directors, trustees, or key employees. This also includes any business transactions with other entities controlled or owned by your officers, directors, trustees, or key employees. Examples of business transactions include loans, payments, rents, contracts, agreements, etc.

Line 9. Unrelated Business Income. Check “yes” to this question if you have or will have unrelated business gross income of $1,000 or more during a tax year. For a definition of unrelated business income, refer to Pub. 598.

Line 10. Gaming Activities. Check “yes” to this question if you conduct gaming activities. For a definition of gaming activities refer to Pub. 3079.

Part IV. Foundation Classification

Organizations that are exempt under section 501(c)(3) are private foundations unless they are:

- Churches, schools, hospitals, governmental units, entities that undertake testing for public safety; organizations that have broad financial support from the general public; or
- Organizations that support one or more other organization(s) that are themselves classified as public charities.

Section 501(c)(3) organizations excepted from private foundation status are public charities. Unless you meet one of the exceptions above, you are a private foundation and must complete Item 2.

If you meet one of the exceptions above and are not a private foundation, you must select your public charity status in Item 1. You may only check one box in Item 1.

1a. Check this box if you normally receive a substantial part of your support from grants from governmental units or from contributions from the general public, or a combination of these sources.

Public support test. An organization must receive either (1) at least one-third of its total support from governmental agencies, contributions from the general public, and contributions or grants from other public charities, or (2) at least 10% of its total support from governmental agencies, contributions from the general public, and contributions or grants from other public charities and also satisfy a facts and circumstances test.

Facts and circumstances test. Facts and circumstances include (1) the amount of support you received from the general public, governmental units, or public charities, (2) whether you have a continuous and bona fide program for solicitation of funds from the general public, governmental units, or public charities, and (3) all other facts and circumstances, including the public nature of your governing board, the extent to which your facilities or programs are publicly available, the extent to which your dues encourage membership, and whether your activities are likely to appeal to persons having a broad common interest or purpose. For additional information about the 10% facts and circumstances test, see Publication 557 and Treas. Regs. section 1.170A-9(e)(3).

1b. Check this box if you normally receive more than one-third of your support from contributions, membership fees, and gross receipts from activities related to your exempt functions, or a combination of these sources, and not more than one-third of your support from gross investment income and net unrelated business income.

Under this public charity status, you must meet both the “one-third public support test” and the “not-more-than-one-third investment income and net unrelated business income test”. See Publication 557 for information about these tests.

1c. Check this box if you are organized and operated exclusively to benefit a college or university owned or operated by a governmental unit. You must also normally receive a substantial part of your support from a governmental unit or from contributions from the general public.

2. If you do not meet one of the public charity exceptions listed in items 1a – 1c, you are a private foundation.

Section 508(e) provides that a private foundation is not tax exempt unless its organizing document contains specific provisions. These specific provisions require that you operate to avoid liability for excise taxes under sections 4941(d), 4942, 4943(c), 4944, and 4945(d). You can also meet these provisions by reliance on state law.

If you do not meet any of the exceptions and are therefore a private foundation, you must check this box to attest that either your organizing document contains the appropriate revisions or that the provisions are met by operation of state law.

See Publication 557, Chapter 3, Section 501(c)(3) Organizations: Private Foundations, for samples of provisions that will meet section 508(e). Also, see Appendix B, for a list of states that have enacted statutory provisions that satisfy the requirements of section 508(e), subject to notations. Appendix B is based on Revenue Ruling 75-38, 1975-1 C.B. 161.

Additional items for organizations selecting private foundation status:

1. Some private foundations are private operating foundations. These are types of private foundations that lack general public support, but make qualifying distributions directly for the active conduct of their educational, charitable, and religious purposes. “Directly for the active conduct” means that the distributions are used by the foundation itself to carry out the programs for which it is organized and operated. Grants made to assist other organizations or individuals are normally considered indirect. If you are a private operating foundation, please notify us of the status when you file Form 990-PF.

2. To request advance approval of grantmaking procedures under section 4945(g) you must complete and submit Form 8940. The advance approval request should be sent to the address indicated on Form 8940. It should not be submitted with Form 1023-EZ.

Part V. Signature

An officer, director, trustee, or other official who is authorized to sign for the organization must sign Form 1023-EZ. The signature must be accompanied by the title or authority of the signer and the date. Please clearly print the accompanying information.
