Financial Aid Information for Field Study

Assistance is available to students who have an academically approved project and who demonstrate financial need. Current financial aid is not transferable or automatically available for field-study; students must apply for field study aid. Because the cost of field study projects or programs are less than the cost of active enrollment, students qualify for less aid than they receive to be active. The maximum field-study award you can receive from Hampshire is the amount of our field-study tuition. You can use your Federal Pell Grant, your state grant, any outside scholarships and your student loan to assist with the other expenses of your field-study project. Funding is primarily for experiential learning rather than exchange study. Therefore, tuition at another institution or program fees are not considered legitimate expenses for Hampshire funding.

PROCESS AND DEADLINES:

- Regular aid application—provide these items first Processed PROFILE application; the Noncustodial PROFILE, if applicable; parents' and student's tax returns; and the completed FAFSA results. The deadline is May 1 for the fall term; December 1 for the spring term.
- Field study application—submit a Field Study Aid Application/Budget form before the end of the semester prior to your planned field study leave. Be as accurate as possible in determining the expenses for each category so that you will have a clear understanding of the costs associated with your project. The deadline is the last day of classes in May for the fall; the last day of January term for the spring.
- If you are attending classes at another institution as part of your field study, the financial aid office requires a Consortium Agreement with that institution. The financial aid office will send you this form in your award letter packet. Submit this form to us by July 1st for the fall term and by December 15th for the spring term.

DECISIONS:

- Regular aid application—this application will be reviewed first to determine you level of need as an enrolled student.
- Field study application—this application determines the allowable expenses and your level of need as a field study student. Some expenses have maximums equivalent to the cost on campus, such as room and board, books and personal expenses. Your need is the difference between the approved field study expenses and your expected family contribution. Your family is expected to contribute the same amount toward your field study expenses that they would toward your costs if you were fully enrolled.

If you complete your regular aid application and submit a Field Study Application/Budget form by May 1 for the fall term, you will receive your financial aid decision by mid-May for the fall term. If you complete your application after May 1, your decision will be mailed at the end of June. Spring field study applications are processed as received.

AWARDS:

- The maximum field-study award (grant and scholarship) is the amount of our field-study tuition.
- Work-study eligibility is not included in field study award packages.
- Your awards will be used first to satisfy your Hampshire bill including any outstanding charges from the previous semester. Any remaining funds will be available to you as a refund. No funds are released until after the beginning of the semester. You need to make arrangements with Student Accounts to secure your refund.

We recommend that you have a contact person (usually a parent) who should have your power of attorney to sign documents and arrange your finances and payments. This is also important if the following year's financial aid application materials need to be submitted while you are away.
