7. Narrative Description

This is a three-story brick Italianate building constructed in 1871 between two two-story buildings constructed in 1867. The storefronts on the first story appear to have been remodeled in the 1970s. The 419/east storefront has a large recessed section with the entry and large windows. A display window is located to the east, extending out to the sidewalk. The upper story entry is located in the middle of the building. The 421/west storefront has a recessed entry to the right and large storefront windows, and it has a shingle awning. The second story has seven windows, three on each half and one on the center stairs. The arch windows have connected brick arches and a continuous stone sill. The sashes have been replaced with one-over-one-light double-hung windows with arch transoms. The six windows on the third story have been boarded over. They also have connected brick arches and a continuous stone sill. Decorative brickwork extends across the frieze/parapet, typical of Italianate building constructed in this post-Civil War period in downtown Burlington. Each end and the center have a larger brick "bracket" with smaller brick "brackets" extending across the width.

8. Narrative Statement of Significance

The Gillies-Dreher Building appears to contribute historically to the potential Downtown Commercial Historic District (#29-03685). The building was constructed in 1871 during a period of construction along this section of Jefferson. It was occupied by various businesses through the years, including saloons, restaurants, a music store, and department stores. From the 1930s to early 1960, B&F Coffee Shop operated at 419 Jefferson and Waugh Bros Radio and Electric operated at 421 Jefferson. This history contributes to the significance of the district. The building is currently listed as contributing in the West Jefferson Street Historic District (1991, #29-00001). It does not appear that this building is likely individually eligible under Criteria A, B, or C.

On July 4, 1866, Thomas Hedge advertised business lots along 97.5 feet of Jefferson Street west of the Lawrence House (401-407 Jefferson) for sale. The same ad appeared in subsequent editions (Hawk-Eye, August 16, 1866, 2; Hawk-Eye, September 18, 1866, 1; Hawk-Eye, October 27, 1866, 1). Thomas Hedge was a partner in the lumber, lath, and shingle business of Gilbert, Hedge, and Company, and he began to invest in real estate after the Civil War. In 1867, L.M. Runyan and D.C. Redding built the block at 413-415-417 Jefferson, and a similar building was constructed further west at 423 Jefferson ("Buildings," Hawk-Eye, March 21, 1867, 4). Thus, this east 39' of the west half of Lot 608 remained vacant and in Hedge's ownership. No building was noted here when fire struck the Lawrence House (formerly Sunderland House) to the east on June 22, 1868 ("Destructive Fire," Hawk-Eye, June 23, 1868, 4). On December 5, 1868, Thomas Hedge sold the part of Lot 608 associated with 419 Jefferson to William Gillies, and Gillies also bought part of Lot 609 to the south. Similar to Hedge, Gillies was a partner in a successful planing mill in Burlington. On November 5, 1870, Thomas Hedge sold the part of the lot associated with 421 Jefferson (east ½ of west 39' of Lot 608) to J.B. Morris. In January 1871, the Hawk-Eye noted that William Gillies was building next to the Runyan Block (Hawk-Eye, January 9, 1921, 12), and Morris likely built his half at the same time. By April 28, 1871, William Gillies advertised a store for rent at 87 Jefferson (early address for 419 Jefferson). J.B. Morris then sold the 421 section to Conrad Dreher on July 17, 1871. Thus, while the two halves reflect joint construction and design, they were built under separate owners and maintained under separate ownership. The building has a center staircase, which appears split between the two halves. By 1890, the listing for Runyan Block includes the five storefronts from 413 to 421 Jefferson. Thus, this 1871 three-story building appears to have become an extension of the 1868 two-story block in references of this period.

The original occupant of the 419/east section was Root & Ripley, a clothing and fancy goods store. Dr. Martelle's Dental Rooms advertised at 87 Jefferson over Root's clothing store on July 19, 1871, and Root & Ripley had several ads at 87 Jefferson in fall of 1871. By 1876, 419 Jefferson is the location of the music store of C.H. Whiting, selling music, musical Instruments, pianos, and organs. Miss A.C. Deterick is a dress maker at 419 ½ Jefferson. In 1880, the Y.M.C.A. operated in a hall over 419 Jefferson (Hawk-Eye, April 13, 1880, 4). Professor Gustave Heyner is listed as a music teacher at 419 Jefferson in 1883, and there are nine music teachers in Burlington. By 1890, Charles H. Biklen moved his confectionery from 413 Jefferson to 419 Jefferson, listed as selling candy and running a restaurant here. He lived on an upper story. He continued to be listed with a restaurant and confectionary here in 1892. By 1896, Charles H. Biklen bought the Bonanza Store from J.E. Gurney and moved it from 421 to 419 Jefferson. He expanded to include space to the east at 417 Jefferson by 1902, listed as running the Bonanza Department Store at 417-419 Jefferson. The 1907 directory continues to list the Bonanza Bargain Store at 417-419 Jefferson. The 1912-13 city directory then lists C.H. Biklen Company at 417-419, a department store run by H.L. Biklen, president; W.C. Biklen, vice president and manager; and L.M. Biklen, secretary and treasurer. The Gillies family continued to own this half of the building through the 1910s. The 1916-17 city directory lists the J.C. Penney Company at 419 Jefferson. J.C. Penney opened their first two stores in Iowa in April 1916, store #89 in Fort Madison and store #90 in Burlington. Thus, this was the first location for the company in Burlington, as well as one of their first locations in Iowa. They then moved to larger quarters at 405-407 Jefferson in 1918.

The original occupant of 421 Jefferson then appears to have been the restaurant/saloon of Conrad Dreher, after purchasing this property in July 1871. The 1873 Andreas atlas directory lists Conrad Dreher as a restaurant owner. On April 28, 1877, C. Dreher advertised beer and extra lunch at 421 Jefferson (Hawk-Eye, April 28, 1877, 8). He is listed as operating a saloon at 421 Jefferson in the 1876 and 1883 city directories. The 1879 county history lists Conrad Dreher, Teutonia Hall, 421 Jefferson. In 1883, N.G. Bouquet also operated a billiard hall at 421 Jefferson. The 1886 Sanborn map shows that the building included a rear ell west to 5th Street at that time. This rear section has been demolished and a parking lot is currently there. Dreher appears to have retired, and the 1886 Sanborn map shows a variety store here. This appears to be the store of Joseph E. Gurney, who was previously located at 302 Jefferson. His "Fair" or "Specialty Store" was noted in 1882 as having a wide variety of goods, including Foreign and American Fancy Goods, Vases, Toilet Sets, Albums, Plated Ware, Jewelry, Cutlery, Glassware, Lamps, Traveling Bags, Hats, Jackets, Pictures, Musical Instruments, Baby Carriages, and articles of vertu. He bought goods in large lots to sell at lower prices (Spalding 1882: 89). By 1892, the Bonanza Store, run by J.E. Gurney, is listed at 421 Jefferson, and variety store is indicated on the use on the 1892 Sanborn map. J.E. Gurney is also listed as living at 421 ½ Jefferson. By 1896, the store was back to its original use, with Benjamin Hasselman running a saloon at 421 Jefferson. He continues to be listed here in 1900 and 1902. The Dreher heirs transferred interest in this building to Francis P. Walz on December 12, 1900. John Walz is listed as owner of the saloon here in 1907, and there are also upper story listings for the Masonic Hall (colored) and residence of Mrs. Agnes Lamb (colored) and Frank and Mattie Lamb (colored). Adams Express Company is then listed here in the 1910 and 1912 city directories. John J. Walz, husband of Francis P. Walz, is again listed as running a saloon here in 1916. Owl's Hall is listed on one of the upper stories.

The 1920 city directory lists the cigar business of Carlson-Williams Company at 417-419 Jefferson and confectioners John Lazio and J. Vincent Masulli at 421 Jefferson. They continued to operate here respectively without partners per the 1926 city directory, with J.H. Williams Company (cigars and bakery) at 417-419 Jefferson and James V. Masulli at 421 Jefferson. Elizabeth Gillies et al sold the 419/east half to H.S. Rand on August 30, 1922. Rand then sold it to Francis Pauline Walz on October 1, 1923. Thus, both halves were under the same ownership. She continued to own the building into the 1940s.

The 1930 city directory lists the restaurant of John S. Mitchell at 419 Jefferson. By 1935, R.G. Birkenstock and G.W. Falgren operated the B&F Coffee Shop here, in conjunction with their cigar business to the east at 417 Jefferson. Elda Kemp is listed as managing the B&F Coffee Shop in the 1940 city directory. On April 28, 1941, Roy G. Birkenstock bought the 419 half from the heirs of J.P. Walz (Augusta C. Loerty et al). The two listings are then combined by the 1945 city directory, with B&F Cigar Store listed at 417-419 Jefferson, offering retail cigars, tobacco, beer and soft drinks, eight pocket billiard tables, and fine sandwiches. The restaurant component likely continued to operate in the 419 section, and B&F Coffee Shop is then listed individually again by 1951. George W. Fahlgren and A.J. Nickelsen were then associated with the business, and Nickelsen was then replaced by Jack Beaber and M.C. Fahlgren by 1947. By 1955, George W. and M.C. Fahlgren are listed as partners in B&F Cigar Store at 417-419 Jefferson, with Mark and Bernice Welch managing the B&F Coffee Shop at 419 Jefferson. B&F Cigar Store continues to be listed at 417-419 Jefferson in 1957, with the Fahlgrens then running the Pink Pig restaurant at 419 Jefferson. It is listed here into the 1960s, last listed in 1963. The estate of Roy B. Birkenstock then sold the property to George Ganakes on July 3, 1965. In 1965, Pearl Optical has opened at 419 Jefferson, and it continued to operate here into the 1970s. The property transferred from George & Dorothy A. Ganakes to Dixie Ganakes on July 14, 1981 and then from Nickolas Ganakes to the State Central Bank on January 22, 1990. Marcia A. Stiefel (current owner) bought it from the bank on October 30, 1990.

The 1930 city directory lists the Square Deal Shoe Company, managed by George C. Mellinger, at 421 Jefferson. However, they were only here briefly before Waugh Bros moved to this location in late 1930 and continued to operate here into the early 1960s. They had started in the Medical Arts building, moving to "King Row" in fall 1930. They were the exclusive General Electric dealers in Burlington ("1930 Proved Big Building Year in Burlington," Hawk-Eye, January 4, 1931, 7). In 1935, the Waugh Bros Radio and Electric is listed at 421 Jefferson, run by Harry H. and William J. Waugh. They were dealers for General Electric home appliances, house wiring, fixtures, electrical, Easy washers and ironers, and Stromberg-Carlson radios. They also repaired radios. In 1945, the city directory notes: Dealers for the Complete Line of General Electric Home Appliances and Radios, Also Easy Washers and Ironers, Zenith and RCA Victor Radios and the New Bendix Automatic Home Laundry, Electric Fixtures, Wiring, Appliances and Radio Service, A-B and Detroit Jewel Gas Stoves, Nu-Enamel Enamels, Paints, Varnish, Roper Bottled Gas Stoves, "Dri-Gas The Bottled Cooking Gas," Coal and Wood Cooking and Heating Stoves, Coleman Oil Heaters, Lamps, Irons and Lanterns and Household Needs. On February 19, 1945, the heirs of F.P. Walz (Augusta C. Lorey et al.) sold the 421/west half (and rear section that extended west to 6th Street) to Harry H. Waugh & William J. Waugh. In 1955, they are noted as dealers for a complete line of Hot Point appliances; RCA, Victor, and Zenith televisions and radios; Bendix Automatic Washers and Ironers; Roper, Grand, and Dixies gas ranges; "Dri-Gas" cooking gas; Coleman space heaters, floor furnaces, and automatic water heaters; and Blend-Air forced air furnaces. They also sold sporting goods and records, and they serviced televisions, radios, and appliances of all makes. The property transferred from William to Harry on December 31, 1957. The 1960 and 1963 city directories then list Waugh's Appliances at 421 Jefferson. On March 8, 1963, Harry H. & Ruth Waugh sold the property to A.A. Schneiderhahn Co. of Polk County, IA. It was then vacant in 1965. On August 14, 1968, AA. Schneiderhahn Company sold the property to Edwin J. Landwehr and Donald H. Lippert. The 1968 and 1970 city directories list Ace Florist at 421 Jefferson. Edwin J. Landwehr and Donald H. Lippert sold the property to Rodney A. Wittkamp on December 17, 1974. Rodney A. & Deborah L. Wittkamp sold it to Christy L. Nau, single, on November 1, 1992. She then sold it to David A. Stiefel (current owner) on December 16, 1997.

The Stiefel continue to own both halves of this building, as well as the building to the west at 423 Jefferson and a portion of the Runyan Block at 413-415 Jefferson. Currently, Hawkeye Baseball Cards operates at 419 Jefferson and Gifts Etc. operates at 421 Jefferson.
