SYMPOSIUM INFORMATION

The 2010 Airport Consultants Council/American Association of Airport Executives Airport Planning, Design & Construction Symposium, February 24-26 in Atlanta, Georgia, is your one stop event highlighting the latest tools, methods, concepts and new ideas in airport development and operations. This is a must-attend event for airport directors, managers, operations managers and airport staff responsible for planning, engineering, finance, sustainability, information technology and legal aspects at public airports. Architects, engineers, IT consultants, specialty consultants, airlines, FAA, TSA, state personnel and equipment service providers also will benefit greatly from participating in this program.

The symposium includes sessions for new and seasoned airport development professionals alike. The workshops will range from providing “the basics” to highly technical sessions. Five concurrent technical workshops are scheduled under five tracks: planning; terminals and landside; airside; project management and construction management; and, for the first time, a new track on sustainability. Information technology will be a theme woven into the individual tracks. The combined “super tracks” will feature insights on decision-making in volatile economic times and international collaboration opportunities. The plenary sessions will provide the latest perspectives from airports and airlines that will benefit both airport staff and consultants, particularly in this time of uncertainty in the aviation industry.

Be sure to join your colleagues at the preeminent airport technical event of the year.
