

AAAE AIRPORTS ENERGY EFFICIENCY FORUM

FEBRUARY 15-17, 2012 WEST PALM BEACH, FL

Pack your beach towel and SPF40, because the American Association of Airport Executives (AAAE) is excited to announce the 2012 AAAE Airports Energy Efficiency Forum will be held February 15-17, 2012, in West Palm Beach, Florida, at the Embassy Suites West Palm Beach Airport Hotel.

At this meeting, attendees will have the opportunity to hear about the latest energy efficiency technologies and practices that will allow their airports to save on energy costs. How will you be able to afford it? Is the return on investment quick or is it going to take many years to pay for this technology? By attending the Energy Efficiency Forum in West Palm Beach, you will learn about the many ways your airport can pay for these tools and be justified in doing so. From VALE grants and state funding, to energy performance contracts, your airport CAN install energy efficient practices without grimacing at the thought. Feel at ease and more confident about saving your airport money by attending the 2012 AAEE Airport Energy Efficiency Forum!

Airport directors/planners, Texas A&M University's Energy Systems Laboratory, and aviation/energy consultants will be on hand to discuss solutions that you can implement right away. The forum also will present case studies and best practices from various airports and other major institutional organizations.

Top Reasons to Attend!

- Learn how other airports are saving money through energy efficiency solutions that have short paybacks.
- Hear actual case studies and lessons learned about projects ranging from geothermal to smart grids.
- Afford energy efficient solutions by learning about funding opportunities.
- Discuss the latest technologies and solutions to making your airport as energy efficient as possible.
- Network with your peers from across the aviation and energy industries about best practices and lessons learned – Gain exposure for your company and the products that are changing the airport industry.
