

The Byron Hanke Fellowship for Graduate Research on Community Associations

Scholarship Overview

The Foundation for Community Association Research is proud to offer an annual fellowship available to graduate students working on topics related to community associations. Community associations govern common-interest communities of any kind—condominiums, cooperatives, townhouse developments, planned unit developments, and other developments where homeowners support an association with mandatory financial assessments, and are subject to use and aesthetic restrictions.

Scholarship Requirements

- Hanke Fellowship applicants must be enrolled in an accredited master's, doctoral or law program in the United States of America or Canada.
- Graduate students of all disciplines are welcome to apply for the Hanke Fellowship, provided their studies relate to community associations generally and to the topic of the candidate's proposed community associations research project.
- As part of the Hanke Fellowship's application, the graduate student must commit to research and write a substantial paper dealing with common-interest communities. The paper should be on a scale appropriate for a master's thesis, doctoral dissertation or a law review quality article, and benefit the Foundation and the community association industry.
- The topic must have the approval of the graduate student's general academic advisor or another full-time faculty member, who will supervise the Hanke fellow's project.
- The applicant is responsible for obtaining and submitting all required documentation and any other pertinent information requested.
