At the home of the premises, a cache of moonshine was found in a cow stable, packed with brick and the usual paraphernalia. Several gallons of the potent moonshine were taken from the cache and the cache was destroyed.

SIGNS GOOD AND EVIL

There are many superstitions connected with precious gems. Here are a few of them:

Moonstone is an aid to beauty and charm.

Sapphire guards against deceitful friends.

Olivines make the wearer witty and animated.

Jade will guard against bad luck and misfortune.

Turquoise assures self-possession and clear thinking.

Amethyst protects the wearer from lightness or folly.

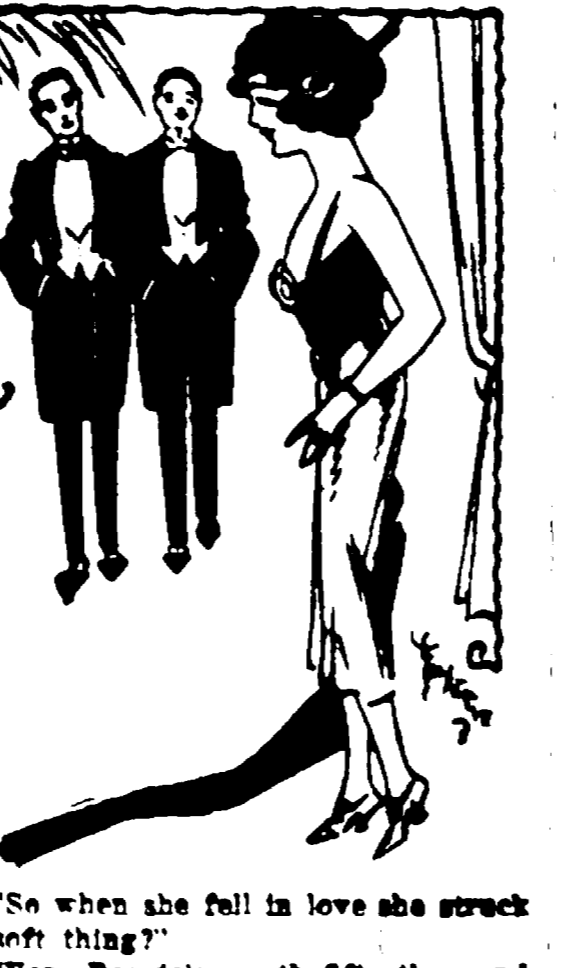

Small ears and a small mouth denote a horse of good breed.

A white star in the center of the forehead of a horse is considered a lucky sign.

Emeralds are a spur to ambition and promote the spirit of a leader.

A SOFT THING

"So when she fell in love she struck a soft thing?"
"Yes, Reggie's worth fifty thousand a least."

GARDNERS LOSE WITH INFERIOR VARIETIES

Even Experienced Growers Said To Overlook Important Requirements In a Satisfactory Crop

East Lansing, March 3.—Michigan market gardeners are losing vast amounts of profits each year through the planting of inferior varieties, according to George E. Starr, vegetable specialist with the horticultural staff of the Michigan Agricultural College.

The experienced grower, according to Starr is acquainted with many of the dependable varieties, but an inspection of the vegetables on display in any of the state's city markets will show that even he might make changes in his planting list, with profit both to himself and to the customer.

The beginner, the inexperienced grower is often at an absolute loss to know which varieties to choose. The large lists carried by the average seed catalog result frequently in selection of varieties which are poor in quality and entirely unsuited to the local conditions.

"To be most profitable," says Mr. Starr, "a variety should possess, at least three important qualifications: productivity, attractive appearance, and high quality. For nearly every kind of vegetable there are a number of outstanding varieties in which these characters are combined to a high degree."

"The expense connected with any intensive gardening operation is so great today, that the gardener cannot afford to overlook any point which may tend to add to his income. The best of cultivation will be of little benefit if the variety is an inferior one. Hence, the grower should make every effort to secure the best strain of the best variety that may be available."

Information on vegetable varieties may be had by writing to horticultural departments, Michigan Agricultural College, East Lansing.

ALL STAR CAST ENACTS "ISLE OF LOST SHIPS"

With an all star cast, which includes Milton Sims, Anna Q. Nilson, Frank Campion and Walter Long, "The Isle of Lost Ships," a First National attraction, directed by Maurice Tourneur and produced by M. C. Levey is coming to the Temple Theatre, Howell, next week. Crittenden Marrott wrote the story, which is declared to be one of the most unusual ever seen on the screen.

With its poetic touch, which characterizes all Maurice Tourneur productions, this novel story has been put on the screen in a wordily realistic and beautiful manner. Lovers of the unusual and picturesque will find "The Isle of Lost Ships" one of the most diverting pictures ever shown here.

One of the most exciting scenes in the picture shows the escape of the hero and heroine from an "island of ships" in the Sargasso sea by means of a submarine which had also been added to the "island" by action of the elements. Interior "shots" of the under sea boat furnish remarkable effects.

MOTOR ETHER

Does your car start hard these cold mornings?

Save that annoyance by using a priming of ether. If you have a spark from your plugging it will absolutely explode in coldest weather. It comes in pint cans at 60c a pint. Smaller quantities at slight advance.

Government Standard Grain Alcohol

We can also furnish you Government Standard grain alcohol for your radiator at 85c a gallon. A simple test to tell that you are buying pure grain alcohol is to place a sample of it in a spoon—set it in a fire. If there is a residue left in your spoon after fire burns out it isn't of good quality and you are either paying for water or other ingredients that may be harmful to your motor.

BARRY'S NYAL STORE

Dirty Lamps Waste Light

Your lamps and reflectors accumulate dust, which robs you of light. You bear a double loss—direct loss of current that you pay for and don't utilize—indirect loss in your sales; for your store is made less attractive to customers.

You may not realize that neglected lamps and reflectors may cut down the amount of your light as much as fifty per cent; or that a brightly lighted store means increased business; always.

Don't be afraid of soap and water. Keep your lamps clean. Add more, if necessary. Make your place bright and attractive. It pays, big.

LAXATIVE
 Aged
 People

THE BANE of old age is constipation. The bowels become weak and unable to perform their functions without aid. For this purpose only the mildest and gentlest laxative should be used. The use of harsh cathartics aggravates the trouble and makes the constipation worse. Chamberlain's Tablets are a favorite with people of middle age and older on account of their gentle action.

The Home Care of the School Child

When children start to school, what are the things relating to their health which parents should especially watch? The very words, "starting to school," make one think of the morning scene so frequent in American homes—the scene we do not like to think of as typical because we always resolve it will not happen again, but which somehow keeps on happening: Late rising, time for only a hurried breakfast and a hurried trip to school. The children may eat too little or eat so rapidly that digestion is interfered with. In either case they have not the energy they need for the morning's work; they tire easily and they are too tired to eat well at noon. If a meal is slighted the loss is hard to make up later. The same thing is true if the lunch is hurried or inadequate and this is one of the great points in favor of the hot lunch served at school.

The time has passed when schools were expected only to train the mind without consideration of the body. In many communities school nurses and doctors are employed to give regular examinations to all the pupils; nourishing food is provided in the schools for any meals the children can not take at home; personal hygiene is taught and games and exercise to develop the body properly are directed by expert leaders. But no matter how much the schools may do for children's health, the greatest responsibility rests with the parents.

Parents know that school children need several hours more sleep than adults. The number of hours they need can be tested on a Saturday or Sunday or holiday morning, letting them sleep till they awaken naturally. Fix their bedtime at any hour early enough that they may awaken naturally every morning.

Parents should see that school children's hours are properly adjusted to allow time for fresh air and exercise and rest in the daytime, as well as for any home study they may have to do. All growing children need fresh air and sunshine and school children are growing steadily. From five up to ten or twelve years they should gain at a fairly even rate, above five pounds a year, and then begins a very rapid growth about double this rate. On this account, children not yet fully grown cannot follow the same plan of life as adults. They must avoid both physical and mental strain. While they need activity of all kinds, nothing they do should be carried to the point of fatigue.

Children need more food in proportion to their weight than adults need. Between six and twelve they are said to need about three-fourths as much as an average man, and over twelve they may need almost as much as a man. This again is because their food must provide for growth as well as for body repairs. It is more important for children than for adults that their food should be simple and easily digested because their digestive systems are so much more easily disturbed. Don't take any risks "just once" with foods that you know are hard to digest. Again it is more important for children than it is for adults to have an adequate supply of the special growth-producing foods or proteins, and to have sufficient minerals and vitamins. Children need calcium and phosphorus for the growth of the bones and teeth and tissues, and iron to help the blood carry on its work. The foods which more than any others insure these elements in the diet are milk, butter and eggs, together with green vegetables and fruits. Whole grains also are valuable for these elements, and bread and cereals furnish a considerable part of children's heat and energy. Don't overdo the sweets. That is where the mother's wisdom and care must be exercised. All of us tend to overeat this class of food.

The meals should be balanced. Plan every meal to contain some food from all the different groups. In case any necessary element is lacking, the best food to make up the lack is milk. In the diet of a boy or girl who is growing rapidly nothing can take the place of milk. It can nearly always be served in some way, in cooking or with cereal, to give variety.

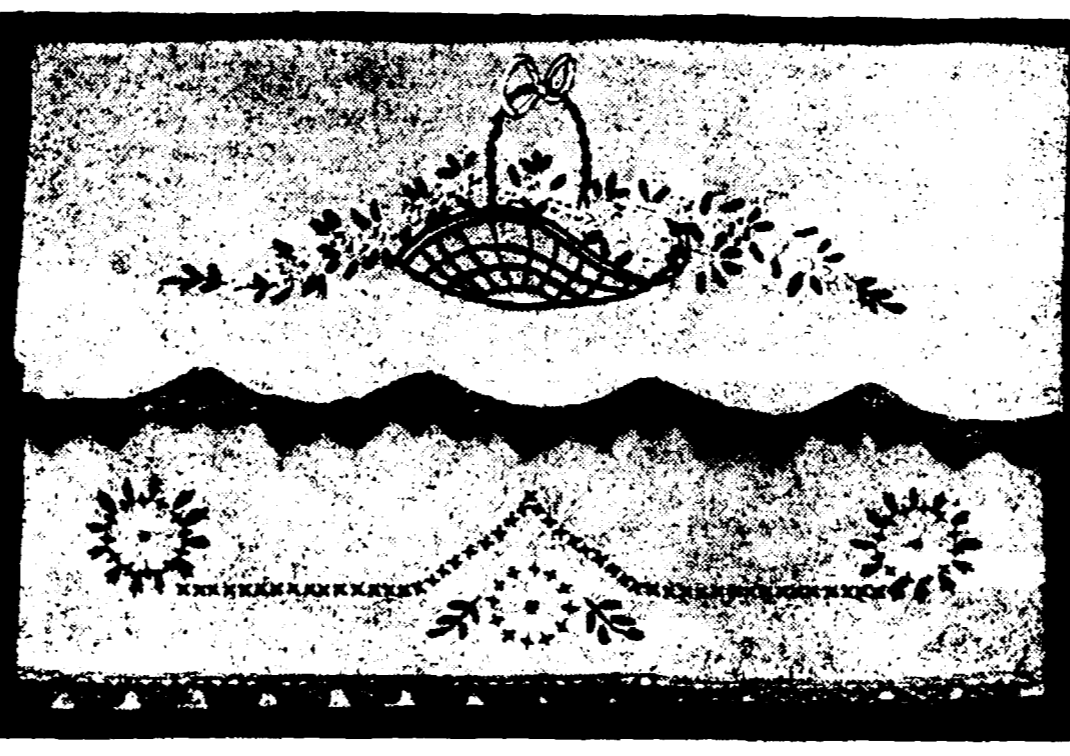

The essential points in helping along the natural development of growing boys and girls are wholesome food, and regular exercise without strain, regular sleep and rest, and regular health habits of all kinds. The schools will emphasize many of these things, but they are so important that all wise parents will "check up" to see they are taught and also carried out. The greatest responsibility for many of all of them rests with the parents!

New Embroideries Offered in the Art Shops

Pattern No. 321

Pattern No. 424

There is some satisfaction and pride that comes to every woman, who can point to the many useful articles of the home adorned with her own work. Embroidery work is not hard to do, once you get the hang of it and have good plain stamped work and select the right material to work each piece.

No. 321. An unusually interesting design in the simplest of stitches appears on this luncheon cloth. Leaves of lazy daisy stitches, connected by single stitches, form the stem. Petals of large flowers are single stitches, with several strands of cotton. Smaller flowers are lazy daisy stitch. Not a stitch is wasted. Every one appreciably adds to the design. The cloth is white linen finished cotton and the work is done with stranded cotton. Stamped material $1.00. Embroidery floss, 60 cents.

No. 424. The tatted edge (blue, white or pink) is already sewed onto these towels of fine white Huckaback. No. 424-A is embroidered with a basket in brown outline, filled with French knot flowers to match the edge. Leaves are green lazy daisy stitch. Fine white Huckaback towel with tatted edge (15 by 27 in.), stamped, 65 cents.

No. 424-B is more simply embroidered with wheels and lines in blue cross stitch. Leaves are green and center of circles yellow. Stamped towel 65 cents.

to carry a puppy dog is to tie a string around its neck and lead him home.

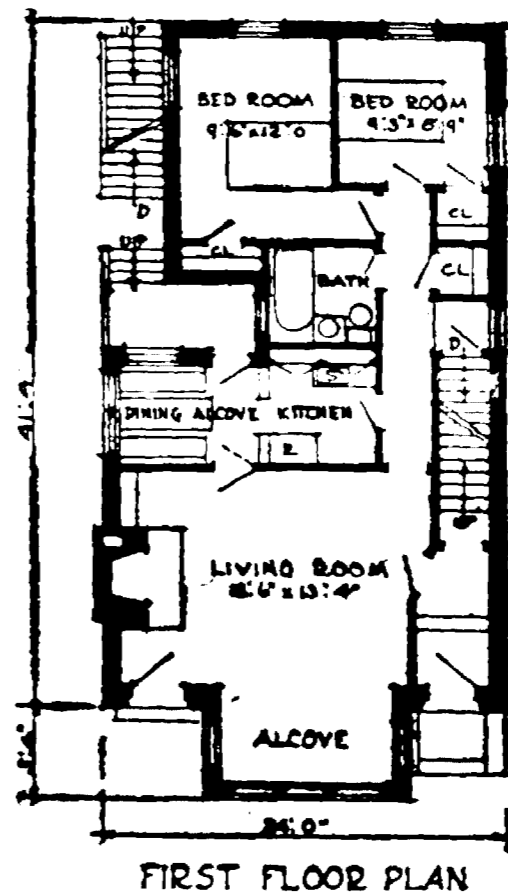

And then again he asked his Mamie if he could go to his Granie's place. His mother said yes, you may, so Epamanonas went to his Granie's place. When he came there his Granie gave him a piece of cake, then Epamanonas said, thank you, and then went home.

He took the cake and put it into his hands and squeezed it. When he came home he said to his Mamie, Here Mamie here is nice piece of cake. Then his mother said, Why! Epamanonas is that the way to carry cake? The way to carry cake is to wrap it up in leaves and put it in your hat and go home.

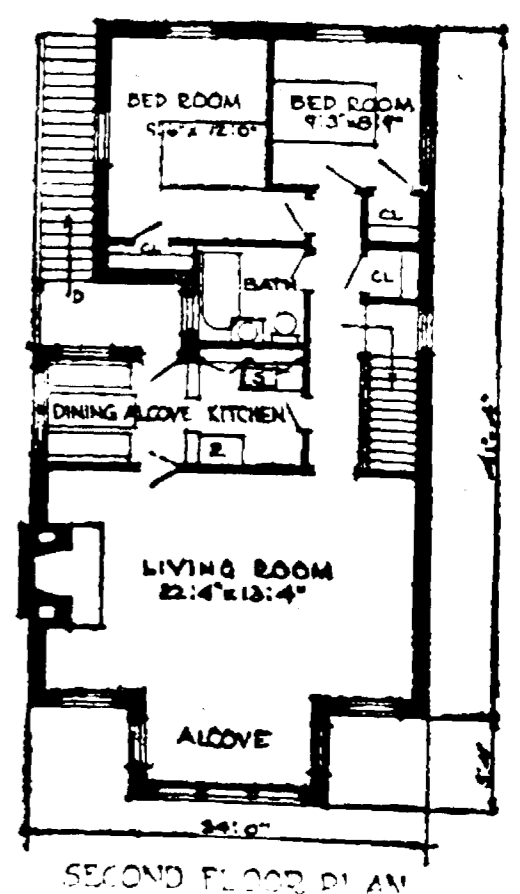

So the next day, he asked his Mamie if he could go to his Granie's place. His mother said yes, so he went. When he came there his Granie gave him a pound of butter, then he thought of what his Mamie told him to do with the cake, so thought that he would do that with the butter. Then he took some leaves and wrapped the butter up and put it on his head. On the way home the butter started to melt and rolled down his cheeks. When he came home his Mamie said to him, "What have you there, Epamanonas?" A pound of butter Mamie. His mother said, is that the way to carry butter? The way to carry butter is to wrap it up in leaves and when you come to the pond, cool it.

So the next day Epamanonas said, Mamie may I go to Granie's? Yes you may, Epamanonas went away. This time his Granie gave him a puppy dog. When he went home, he said thank you and took the puppy. Then he took some leaves and wrapped the puppy dog up when he came to the pond he sat down and cooled the dog. When he came home his Mamie said, "What have you there Epamanonas?" Epamanonas said, "A puppy dog, Mamie, a puppy dog." "Is that the way to carry a puppy dog?" The way

THE HOME BEAUTIFUL — THE SOUTHSHORE — A Duplex House With a Home Atmosphere

FIRST FLOOR PLAN

SECOND FLOOR PLAN

To look at the Southshore one would never guess that it is planned for two families. The whole exterior is one of substantial dignity though not so severe in treatment as to appear inhospitable. This plan is one selected by a committee of architects to be built at the 1922 Chicago "Own Your Home" exposition.

The first and second floor plans are essentially alike, the general idea being to have a compact scheme utilizing very bit of space as is done in modern apartment construction, but which at the same time would give the freedom of the individual home.

The living room is large and appears even larger on account of the alcove which can be used as a sun porch, and treated as such in decoration and furnishings. Whether the day be cold or warm, the all-season combination of fireplace and sun room makes this part of the house most agreeable. There is ample space in the alcove for a day bed or the larger folding davenport, should the occupant want sleeping porch comfort on hot nights. The two bedrooms at the back have generous windows so placed as to give cross ventilation. Both rooms have good closets and there is a large linen closet in the back hallway.

The arrangement of the kitchen and dining alcove in this plan is worthy of special study. Above and below the sink and drain board there is plenty of cupboard space. The range is out of the way. In the dining alcove, which will accommodate four or five persons, two windows furnish an abundance of light and air.

Although no definite cellar plan is given, where furnace heat is wanted, both apartments may be heated from one plant. The wall construction of concrete block or tile guarantees a dry cellar and superstructure. Cream or buff colored stucco of Portland cement insures a permanent attractiveness without repainting costs. The appearance of a house like this is reflected in higher rentals.

Plans, blue prints and special specifications of these homes can be secured for $1 by addressing the Building Editor, 58 Market Avenue, S. W., Grand Rapids, Michigan.

BOYS and GIRLS

This week there are three girls who will get prizes on the promise from Uncle Ernest, that the next ten, who wrote stories, or letters would get prizes.

The first is a story entitled, "The Fox in the Well."

Riverdale, Michigan.
Dear Friend:—

I am writing you a story.

The Fox in the Well

One day a Fox passing by a farmer's well happened to be thirsty and stopped to get a drink. When he stooped over he fell in the well, along came a Wolf, hearing the Fox, stopped to see what was the matter. He saw his cousin Raynard in the well. The Fox told the Wolf that he saw something glitter in the well, so jumped in to get it and he had his pockets filled with gold. The wolf too eager for a share wanted to help him out, so the Fox told him to get in the bucket at the brink. The wolf being heavier went down and the Fox came up. The Fox jumped out and said, thank you Mr. Wolf I'll leave the treasure all to you, as he disappeared across the lot.

Yours very truly,
Fay Clark.

I think Fay is some real story teller, and surely her story is going to be read with interest and she is surely entitled to a present for this effort.

We have another story from Oakley, Michigan from a little girl who has never written before for this department and we all will welcome her after we read her story I am sure.

Oakley, Michigan.

Dear Uncle Ernest:—

I have never written to you, but now I am going to write you a story.

Sightseeing Buses May Cover Michigan Pikes

Muskegon—The so-called "rubber neck" wagon of the big cities may decide to go far afield. In these days of good roads there does not seem to be any reason why collective sight-seeing should be confined to the cities.

An indication of the further possibilities is glimpsed in the inquiry recently made along Michigan's west shore by a representative of the Chicago, Milwaukee & North Shore Railroad. This representative recently visited the Greater Muskegon Chamber of Commerce and discussed some details of the proposal.

A series of weekly tours through the chief cities of the state is proposed. The route laid out would be 813 miles long, 624 of which is well paved and all of which is gravelled. The company will send a car over the route in March to determine whether such tours would be feasible.

The Chicago, Milwaukee and North Shore railroad puts on weekly tours to the principal cities of Illinois and Wisconsin, starting from Chicago each Monday morning. It is the purpose of the road to put on the Michigan tour if road conditions are favorable, both for its scenic and educational value. The route laid out includes visits to the automobile, pure food, educational and furniture centers of the country.

The route would take the parties to Benton Harbor and St. Joseph over M-11 and there include a visit to the House of David. From there they would go to Kalamazoo; Battle Creek, Jackson, Ann Arbor and Detroit along M-17; Pontiac, Flint, Saginaw and Bay City over M-10; to Oshtemo and Lansing over M-14 and M-47; to Grand Rapids over M-16; to Muskegon over M-46; and returning to Chicago over M-11, visiting Grand Haven, Holland and other cities on the trip down.

The company's tours are made in large Flageol buses with a chauffeur and touring conductor on each car.

The tour laid out provides for the departure from Chicago Monday morning and return the following Saturday night.

Chambers of Commerce throughout the state will be asked to co-operate with the local chamber in this matter.

U. S. Weather Map Explained

Washington—Almost everyone is familiar with the large weather maps located in public places, such as railway stations, postoffices or government buildings. The weather bureau of the United States department of agriculture issues a printed explanation of the weather map, telling in detail what the various marks and lines mean, and how the map is read.

The daily weather reports consist of observations of the barometer and thermometer, the velocity and direction of the wind, state of the weather, and amount of rain or snow. On the weather maps solid lines, called isobars, are drawn through points that have the same atmospheric pressure. Dotted lines, called isotherms, are drawn through points that have the same temperature. The direction of the wind at each station is indicated by an arrow which flies with the wind. Shaded areas are sometimes used to show areas of rainfall or snowfall. Tabulated data give other details.

The centers of areas of low barometric pressure are indicated on the map by the word "low" and the centers of the areas of high barometric pressure by the word "high."

In the northern hemisphere winds blow spirally inward, counterclockwise, toward and around the center of a low, while from the center of a high they blow spirally outward as the hands of a clock move. These facts influence the direction from which prevailing winds at any point are blowing. There are rather well-defined storm tracks which may be traced on a weather map, and very definite indications of the character of approaching weather changes which may be found on the weather charts. Topography and the location of land and water areas with regard to the place where the observer happens to be, are, of course, important factors in weather changes.

State Building Many Roads

Lansing—The state now has under construction 1,400 miles of state trunk line highways, and this is to be completed during 1924 in addition to a large program, which is being planned by Governor Groesbeck and Frank F. Rogers, state highway commissioner. About 20,000 new signs will be posted by the state before July 1 for the new system of trunk line warning signs. Present diamond-shaped markers and mileage posts will remain the same. The new signs, already approved by a number of other states, will have a white background with black up-raised lettering, and there will be 21 designs to denote the various forms of warning.

Northern Michigan Hunts Scrub Bulls

Marquette—Scrub bulls in the upper peninsula of Michigan are in bad repute and none from other sections are wanted in that region. 11 of the 15 counties in the upper peninsula of Michigan have organized purebred-sire campaigns, and as soon as a survey is taken to locate the unprofitable, poorly bred bulls, active economic warfare will be waged against them. In fact, scrub-bull meat will be the piece of resistance at a big Cleveland barbecue to be held in December, 1924.

Committees of leading farmers are in charge of the campaigns which are being conducted along original lines. The U. P. Development Bureau has issued purebred-sire blotters containing statements which show that scrubs are a short cut to a mortgage. The blotters are significant in suggesting the mopping up of the scrub-calling. Another device is a unique calling card:

The initials L. C. signify low caste, while P. B. represents purebred. The reverse side contains educational matter.

Eight prominent local organizations, including the Michigan Agricultural College extension department, railroads, the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau, banks, State range farm bureau, and local county committees are aiding in the work.

Does Advertising Pay?

J. J. Cuddy, A director of Advertising of the Standard Oil Company has a keen sense of humor. The following story is credited to him:

A merchant keeps hens about a mile away from his home, and daily his wife fetches home about fifty eggs.

For three consecutive days now she has found all the nests empty. The henhouse door was intact, so was the lock, therefore how had the thieves got into the shed?

She could not tell, and Mr. and Mrs. Henfruit sat up the three nights discussing the thefts and how to catch the thief. But they were baffled.

On the following morning, when returning fruitlessly from the shed, she met all the hens on the road, nearly half way between the shed and the house. Whatever they were doing there she could not tell.

When she next went to tend the fire she was surprised and delighted to find a solution to the mystery. There in the coal place were all her eggs.

"Now, how thoughtful of those hens to save me the trouble of fetching the eggs," she thought.

She fully understood the matter, when her husband got home that night and told her of having seen all their hens in a row on the fence, looking at a new poster that read: "Now is the time to lay in coal."

Corn Kings of Michigan

Lansing—Charles Laughlin of Dansville, Ingham county, is Michigan's corn king for 1923, with a record of 83 bushels per acre or about 175 baskets. Laughlin led his nearest competitor by more than ten bushels to the acre. Seven other state growers turned in very creditable records, as follows: Paul Clement, Britton, Monroe county, 72.5 bushels; Milo Robinson, Union City, Branch county, 70.77 bushels; D. V. Bow, Saginaw, 60.72 bushels; D. A. Geddes, Swan Creek, Saginaw county, 67 bushels; P. A. Smith, Mullen, Eaton county, 69 bushels; Alf Vincent, Durand, Shiawassee county, 64 bushels, and Rossman Brothers, Lakeview, Montcalm county, 53 bushels.

"The Western Michigan Development Bureau spent $40,000 advertising this part of the state to tourists and $40,000,000 came into western Michigan as result of the campaign," Prof. M. O. Whittemore of the University of Michigan, Department of Landscape Design, declared in his address on "Michigan, the Summer Playground of the Middle West," in a lecture at Grand Rapids.

Beware of Mexican Oil Schemes

Lansing Bankers, Chambers of Commerce and other community and civic organizations have been asked by the Michigan Securities Commission to warn the public with respect to the oil schemes that are now coming out of Mexico. The Commission says: "Activities of Federal authorities and state securities officials of California within the last few months have driven fake oil promoters out of the southwest and Pacific slope sections, resulting in the conviction of Dr. Cook of pseudo North Pole fame, S. E. J. Cox and others. Finding the atmosphere there too foggy for their schemes, many of the lesser lights of this gang have migrated to Mexico. Since Jan. 1, they have been bombing people in this country with oil promotion circulars in an attempt to collect more hard earned American dollars. The U. S. government has, in conjunction with the Mexican government, held up a lot of this mail at the Mexican border, but some has slipped through. Some of it has been received by Michigan people who are in the so-called 'sucker list'."

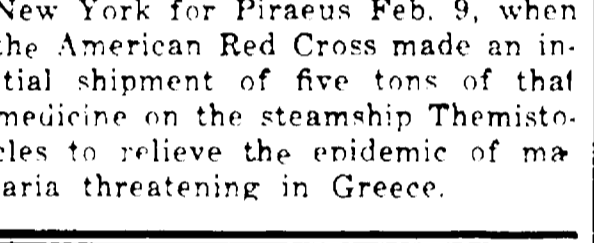

"The public should pay no attention to any oil schemes sent from Mexico by mail. The chance are they all emanate from this gang of crooks. Mexican oil schemes, even properly worked, are at best a wild gamble, owing to political and governmental conditions in that republic at the present time. Keep away from any schemes which come out of Mexico. So far most of the spurious plans have originated in the City of Mexico, Vera Cruz and Chihuahua. If anybody gets any of this literature or is solicited by mail to purchase stock in a Mexican oil or mining scheme, don't buy. Either send it to the Securities Commission or take it to your banker and have him send it to the Securities Commission for investigation."

Michigan Bank Deposits Gain $104,600,000

The bulletin just issued by the Michigan State Banking Department which includes an abstract of the reports of conditions as of December 31, 1923 of the 574 state banks, two industrial banks and 12 trust companies in this state is of importance to the bankers and business men.

Scott E. Lamb, vice president and trust officer of the Fidelity Trust Company, formerly chief examiner with the Michigan State Banking Department in commenting upon this bulletin calls attention to the fact that December 31, 1923, the resources of state banks and trust companies in Detroit aggregated more than 61 per cent of the total resources of all Michigan state banks, while the total deposits in Detroit banks and trust companies exceeded 43 per cent of all bank deposits.

For 1923, deposits in Michigan state banks increased over $104,600,000, while total loans in state banks increased approximately $90,000,000. Rediscouts and bills payable decreased approximately $4,000,000. Of the total deposit increase, approximately $79,800,000 was in savings with but approximately $24,800,000 in commercial.

The year 1923 as evidenced by this comparison was one of substantial progress with little inflation. The gradual accumulation of savings funds in this satisfactory aggregate is reassuring and indicates the substantial prosperity which Michigan has enjoyed, particularly outside of the rural district, for 1923. The prosperity of 1924 is made more sure by the splendid 1923 record.

Estimate State Bean Crop at $18,000,000

Detroit—During 1923 Michigan bean growers raised 6,500,000 bushels, the largest crop as yet recorded for the state. It was more than forty per cent of the entire bean crop of the country. The Wolverine state bean crop was estimated at from $18,000,000 to $20,000,000 in value. These facts were made known at a meeting of the Michigan Bean Growers' Association, held in Detroit, where the annual meeting of the association will be held next September.

Washington Farmers Will Release Wheat

Chicago—Farmers in the state of Washington who still hold 50 per cent of the 1923 wheat crop of 58,000,000 bushels are preparing to let go after holding since harvest for a higher price, according to reports reaching the Wheat Council of the United States. It is reported that one lot of 100,000 bushels of Washington grown wheat will be offered on the February market. Sales of Canadian wheat at Vancouver for foreign, account total 10,000,000 bushels for the season, double the figure for last season at this date.

"The World Will Soon Forget"

what we SAID here, but it will NEVER forget what we DID here! This statement, made by Abraham Lincoln after the Civil war, contains more truth and wisdom than many a lengthy volume. It was in many ways a modern version of the old saying, "Actions speak louder than words."

We are forced to listen to a great many colorful descriptions of merchandise and organizations selling it and in this case—"The world will soon FORGET"—is just as applicable as it was in the hectic days of Lincoln. And so also is it true that it is easy to REMEMBER good ACTION and PERFORMANCE.

We know that when we TELL you of the many good qualities of the WESTINGHOUSE ELECTRIC LIGHT AND POWER PLANT you will soon FORGET. But when you SEE these qualities exhibited in the daily performance of the superb WESTINGHOUSE PLANT you will indeed REMEMBER.

You cannot very well deny the evidence of your eyes, and remember that "There are none so blind as those who WILL NOT see." Our part in this case is to be the introductory agent. We realize that when Emerson said the world would beat a path to the home of the man who made the BEST mousetrap, no matter where it might be, he spoke the truth. But it is also a fact they would find his home more readily if there were a few signs along the road. We are the signs that point the way to the BEST ELECTRIC LIGHT AND POWER PLANT—and in our way we also serve.

We can make it easier for you to find this wonderful PLANT since we know the many places where it may be seen. The path is being worn deeper and wider daily and you will find yourself in excellent company. May we direct you?

Once Stage Manager for Annie Russell
Then Casting Director for Edison Film Company

From director of the Dartmouth College Mandolin Club to director of one of the most gorgeous, massive and magnificent photoplays ever filmed is the span bridged in the last ten years by Alan Crosland, the man behind the megaphone for "Under the Red Robe," the $1,500,000 motion picture which is coming to the Temple theatre on Wednesday for two days.

Alan Crosland came to his screen credit well prepared. On graduation from Dartmouth he became a news-paperman. Hearing that Annie Russell was producing "Mabel, Ado, About Nothing," he rounded out a young band of musicians from his mandolin days and appeared at a rehearsal with a repertoire of Old English numbers and a troupe of musicians ready to go to work.

Later he became casting director with the old Edison Film Company. One day an extra director was needed. Crosland got the assignment and demonstrated quickly an ability to direct pictures. Since then he has directed such stars as Shirley Mason, Holbrook Blinn, Nance O'Neil, Charlotte Walker, H. B. Warner, Faye Ferguson, Alice Brady, Lilian Harmer, Conway Tearle, Constance Binney, Irene Castle, Lionel Barrymore and Scena Owen. His previous big picture for Cosmopolitan was "Enemies of Women."

Robert B. Mantell, John Charles Thomas and Verna Rubens are featured in "Under the Red Robe."
