The Arc Welcomes New Executive Director — Karen Chappell Davis Assumes Role

The Arc family grew just a bit in September as the agency board and staff welcomed the agency's new executive director, Karen Chappell Davis.

Karen comes to The Arc of Calhoun & Cleburne Counties from Jacksonville State University where she was employed for 20 years, retiring as the Director of Human Resources.

She retired from JSU in 2010 to spend more time with her family. During her time out of the work force, she enjoyed time with her family, reading good book (preferable a mystery or historical fiction), and volunteering with a hospice. She was also able to travel. She went to Kenya on a photography safari and took a very special trip to Russia with her mother. Karen holds this a truly special memory, since her mother passed away in October.

Karen grew up in Montgomery and graduated from Auburn University-Montgomery and Troy University-Montgomery. She was employed by the State Personnel Department for approximately 5 years. Leaving state employment, she worked for Faulkner University in Montgomery as the director of a degree completion for adult students.

Karen moved to Jacksonville to accept the position at JSU in 1990, the same year she married John W. Davis Jr. Mr. Davis is employed by the Calhoun County Health department. Their son, Caleb, is 17 and a senior at the Alabama School of Math & Science in Mobile.

Karen is The Arc's fourth executive director in the agency's fifty-three year history.

"I feel honored and humbled to be offerred the opportunity to work with Arc," Karen says. "I look forward to getting to know our members, clients, friends."

The Arc Honors Supporters with Awards and Meal — New Board and Officers Also installed at Annual Meeting

The Arc extended its appreciation to its community supporters and program participants with a presentation of great food and awards during its Annual Awards Banquet and Fashion Show on November 8, 2012.

The evening began on a musical note as Cleburne County Probate Judge Ryan Robertson took to the keyboard to entertain the guests with song as they dined on a Thanksgiving-themed meal catered by Refuge on the Greens.

Judge Robertson stayed at the keyboard to provide accompaniment to the fashion show which followed. Fifteen agency consumers of all ages modeled outfits put together from favorite pieces of their own wardrobe. (See photos page 4).

The fashion show was emceed by Robin Kines. Jon Holder then took over the microphone to announce the winners of the 2012 Arc Awards, as The Arc honored individuals, families and others who have made a significant contribution in the area of intellectual disabilities

Board members Randy Payne and Jerry York were surprised to learn they had received individual Arc Member of the Year Awards for their work on behalf of the agency and its board of directors. Among their other efforts on behalf of The Arc, Payne serves as the board's legal advisor and York is returning to the position of board president.

Award committee members also selected two individuals to receive Educator of the Year Awards. The recognition went to Lynetta Owens and Valerie Gamble, both of whom are instructors at Jacksonville State University. Tera McIntee, who teaches students with intellectual disabilities at Constantine Elementary School, won the Teacher of the Year Award.

Three groups, one from Anniston High School, Oxford High School and the Calhoun County Career Technical Center, each earned the agency's Youth Volunteer Award (s) for their help in the Knights of Columbus Tootsie Roll fundraiser and The Arc's spring fundraiser.

Tammy and Gary Wigington, parents of a child with autism, received The Arc's Family Involvement Award for their efforts to raise awareness about the disorder. Honeywell Employees were awarded The Arc's Distinguished Service Award for supporting such efforts as those of the Wigingtons through donations and volunteerism.

Millie Haygood picked up an Appreciation Award to the My Father's Arms ministry for that agency's work dedication toward housing and employing a local man with intellectual disabilities. The night's other Appreciation Award went to Karen Montgomery for her ongoing support of the Arc's art program

The evening ended with a business meeting as The Arc's general membership approved changes to the agency's by-laws and voted on the slate of new officers and members of the Arc board of directors into office.

New members Tammy Burkhardt,

Banquet and Awards

Sygrid Beard, Glenda Berry, Claire Dryden, Mark Dugan, Jeanie Klazaras-Jaskowski, Kellie McCord and Cynthia Russell were elected to join the board as the Class of 2015. Elected to hold office as the 2013 executive board were Jerry York, President; Bob Elliot, Vice-president; Cindy Beam, Secretary; Ron Drury, Treasurer; and Sharon Davis, Immediate Past President.

Tom Holmes, Executive Director of The Arc of Alabama, installed the new board members and officers and briefly updated those in attendance about the current work of The Arc Alabama and The Arc of the United States.

The evening was made possible by the assistance of many volunteers, including the board members and their families. Special appreciation was given to First Presbyterian Church of Anniston for hosting the event, and to special education classes at Cleburne Count High School, Cleburne County Middle School, Saks Elementary School and Weaver Elementary School for providing the table decorations. Door prizes were donated by Kellie McCord, CAST Theatre and Wendy Thompson and the participants in the Jacksonville Senior Center program.

The Arc's General Membership Approves Changes to Agency By-Laws

The general membership of The Arc of Calhoun and Cleburne counties gave its approval to changes in the agency's by-laws on November 8, when those in attendance at The Arc's Annual Awards Banquet and Fashion Show voted to approve proposed changes to the document without any dissent.

The majority of the approved changes deal with updating the language of the in the document. The term "mental retardation" was replaced throughout the wording by the terms "intellectual disability" and/or "Intellectual/ developmental disability" or "I/DD".

These changes reflect a move by The Arc of The United States and disability rights advocate groups to halt the use of the word "retardation" in its various forms due to the negative and sometimes derogatory connotation the word has gained by misuse from the public at-large.

For a complete look at the changes to the 2007 version of the chapter's by-laws, check out our website at calhouncleburnearc.org.
