
GEORGETOWN LAW JOURNAL

ANNUAL REVIEW OF CRIMINAL PROCEDURE

TO: Whom It May Concern
FROM: Amanda Chick, Publications Manager
SUBJECT: Georgetown Law Journal Annual Review of Criminal Procedure

The Georgetown Law Journal Annual Review of Criminal Procedure (ARCP), formerly titled the Criminal Procedure Project, has been hailed as “the most important and widely used law review publication in the U.S.” The newest edition of the ARCP was published in June 2011.

Please note this is the only publication available at a discount. All other Georgetown Law publications are academic in nature and unlikely to be of assistance in gaining review of convictions or filing new claims. I hope that this information will be of assistance to you.
