U-VISA CERTIFICATION: INTRODUCTION

(Last Updated November 2010)

By providing U-visa certifications, law enforcement officials add to their arsenal of crime-fighting tools because victims feel safer coming forward to report crimes. This document provides the following background information on the U-visa: an overview of the U-visa and a section on law enforcement officials and the U-visa certification. The section on law enforcement officials includes who qualifies for a U-visa, which criminal activities are covered by the U-visa, the application process, and other information that will assist law enforcement in their role as certifiers.

Overview of the U-visa

When Congress created the U-visa in the Violence Against Women Act (VAWA) under the Victims of Trafficking and Violence Prevention Act of 2000 its intent was (1) to strengthen the ability of law enforcement agencies to detect, investigate, and prosecute cases of domestic violence, sexual assault, human trafficking, and other crimes; and (2) to offer protection to victims of such crimes.¹

Lawmakers recognized that a victim's cooperation, assistance, and safety are essential to the effective detection, investigation, and prosecution of crimes.² Victims who fear deportation, however, will be unlikely to come forward to cooperate and assist in investigative efforts. Thus, Congress provided a specific avenue through which immigrant crime victims who cooperate with law enforcement can obtain lawful immigration status and protection against deportation.

Who is eligible for a U-visa?

To be eligible for a U-visa, immigrant victims must meet four statutory requirements and they must include a certification from a certifying official or agency that they have been, are being, or are likely to be helpful in the detection, investigation, or prosecution of a qualifying criminal activity.³ The law requires that a person who is eligible for a U-visa must

- (1) have suffered substantial physical or mental abuse as a result of having been a victim of a listed criminal activity;
- (2) possess information concerning such criminal activity;
- (3) have been helpful, be helpful, or be likely to be helpful in the investigation or prosecution of a crime; and

¹ New Classification for Victims of Criminal Activity; Eligibility for "U" Nonimmigrant Status, 72 Fed. Reg. 53,014. 53,015 (Sept. 17, 2007) (citing Battered Immigrant Women Protection Act (BIWPA) § 1513(a)(2)(A)).

² Congress created the U-visa because it was important for U.S. humanitarian interests to enhance safety of crime victims and encourage them to cooperate with the justice system. BIWPA § 1513(a)(2)(A).

³ INA § 101(a)(15)(U), 8 U.S.C. § 1101(a)(15)(U) (outlines four statutory requirements for U-visa eligibility and contains non-exhaustive list of qualifying criminal activities. Congress used the term "criminal activity" rather than "crime" to provide victims access to U-visa protection as early as possible after the crime occurred or was reported.); INA § 214(p)(1), 8 U.S.C. § 1184(p)(1) (details certification requirement).

(4) have been the victim of a criminal activity that occurred in the United States or violated the laws of the United States.⁴

The U-visa certification requirement

The U-visa statute states that federal, state, or local law enforcement officials are qualified to provide certifications for victims filing U-visa applications.⁵ Law enforcement officials are the first responders to immigrant victims of crime. Police departments, sheriffs' offices, marshals, and other law enforcement officials have firsthand knowledge of a victim's helpfulness in reporting the crime and participating in any subsequent investigations. Law enforcement officials, therefore, are well positioned to provide U-visa certifications and verify a victim's helpfulness in the detection or investigation of qualifying criminal activity.

The U-visa certification must affirm the immigrant victim's past, present, or future helpfulness in the detection, investigation, or prosecution of certain qualifying criminal activity.⁶ Law enforcement officials who sign certifications do not confer any immigration status upon the victim, but rather enable the victim to meet one of the eligibility requirements in the victim's application to U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services of the Department of Homeland Security (DHS).⁷ Only DHS has the discretion to grant or deny U-visa status to the victim.

Law Enforcement Officials and the U-visa Certification Requirement

I. INTRODUCTION

In creating the U-visa, Congress recognized that it is virtually impossible for officials who work in law enforcement, justice systems, or with other government enforcement agencies to punish and hold accountable perpetrators of crimes against noncitizens if the abusers and other criminals can avoid prosecution because their victims risk being deported. Congress also recognized that victims often do not come forward to seek law enforcement assistance because they fear detention and/or deportation. The U-visa encourages immigrant victims to report criminal activity by protecting them against deportation. It also enhances their access to safety and support needed to overcome physical and emotional injuries caused by criminal activity. The U-visa can make communities safer by holding perpetrators accountable for criminal activity that might otherwise go undetected.

⁴ INA § 101(a) (15) (U); 8 U.S.C. § 1101(a) (15) (U). If the petitioner is under 16 years of age, incapacitated, or incompetent, s/he is not required to personally possess information regarding the qualifying criminal activity. In these cases, an exception permits a parent, guardian, or "next friend" of the minor, incapacitated, or incompetent petitioner to provide information and assist in the investigation or prosecution. See INA § 101(a)(15)(U)(i), 8 U.S.C. § 1101(a)(15)(U)(i).

⁷ See Form I-918, Supplement B, Instructions (08/31/07), at page 3 (United States Customs and Immigration Services will consider the totality of the circumstances in determining whether someone is eligible for the U-visa).

The U-visa application process requires an immigrant crime victim to obtain a certification by an approved certifying official who verifies the type of criminal activity perpetrated against the applicant and attests to the fact that the victim has been, is being, or is likely to be helpful in the detection, investigation, or prosecution of that criminal activity.⁸ To increase victims' access to certifications, Congress explicitly included federal, state, and local law enforcement officials in the list of U-visa certifiers.⁹ This document outlines the significance of the role that certifiers play.

II. WHAT DOES THE U-VISA DO?

As described above, in 2000 Congress created a specific avenue for immigrant crime victims to obtain temporary lawful immigration status. This was done by amending sections of the Immigration and Nationality Act to create the U-visa.¹⁰

If approved for a U-visa, an applicant will receive legal status for up to four years. This status will permit the crime victim to live and work in the United States for the duration of the U-visa. At the end of the third year, the U-visa recipient may be eligible to apply to adjust his or her status to lawful permanent residence (commonly known as a "green card"). Receiving a U-visa does not directly or necessarily grant lawful permanent residency. Lawful permanent residency will be granted only to U-visa recipients who can provide evidence that they have not unreasonably refused to provide assistance in the criminal investigation or prosecution and that their continuous presence in the country is justified on humanitarian grounds, to ensure family unity, or is otherwise in the public interest.

III. WHICH CRIMINAL ACTIVITIES DOES THE U-VISA COVER?

A "non-exclusive" list of qualifying criminal activities is provided in the statute.¹¹ The list includes rape, torture, trafficking, incest, domestic violence, sexual assault, abusive sexual contact, prostitution, sexual exploitation, female genital mutilation, being held hostage, peonage, involuntary servitude, slave trade, kidnapping, abduction, unlawful criminal restraint, false imprisonment, blackmail, extortion, manslaughter, murder, felonious assault, witness tampering, obstruction of justice, perjury, solicitation to commit any of the above-mentioned crimes, or any similar activity in violation of federal, state, or local criminal law. The list also includes attempts or conspiracy to commit any of the listed activities.

Congress intentionally chose the term "criminal activity" in the statutory language to accomplish two goals: to be broadly inclusive of "any similar activity" and to focus on the victim's actions in coming to state or federal government officials with information about criminal activity.

⁹ 8 U.S.C. § 1101(a)(15)(U)(I) (2006); 72 Fed. Reg. 53,014, 53,023-53,024 (Sept. 17, 2007).

¹⁰ See INA § 101(a)(15)(U), 8 U.S.C. § 1101 (a)(15)(U).

¹¹ INA § 101(a)(15)(U)(iii), 8 U.S.C. 1101 (a)(15)(U)(iii); 72 Fed. Reg. 53,014, 53,018 (Sept. 17, 2007) (explaining that the list is non-exclusive).

This language is meant to take into account “the wide variety of state criminal statutes in which the terminology used to describe the criminal activity may not be identical to that found on the statutory list, although the nature and elements of both criminal activities are comparable.”¹² For example, the statute lists domestic violence as a U-visa–qualifying crime. However, most state statutes do not specify domestic violence as a crime, but instead list crimes that constitute domestic violence, such as harassment, assault, battery, criminal threats, menacing, criminal trespass, burglary, malicious mischief, reckless endangerment, stalking, child abuse, elder abuse, or malicious property damage.¹³ Even though these crimes are not specifically enumerated in the U-visa, they are incorporated within the qualifying crime of domestic violence for U-visa purposes.

In cases when crime perpetrators are charged with unrelated crimes, U-visa certifications are still appropriate and explicitly encouraged by the United States Department of Homeland Security.¹⁴ An illustrative example is provided in the U-visa regulations: if a government agent is investigating federal embezzlement charges and learns that the offender is abusing his wife, the wife may be eligible for a U-visa as a victim of domestic violence, even if her husband is charged only with the non-qualifying federal embezzlement crimes.¹⁵

IV. DOES U-VISA STATUS REQUIRE THE INITIATION OF A LAW ENFORCEMENT INVESTIGATION OR A SUCCESSFUL PROSECUTION?

No. Congress explicitly crafted the U-visa immigration protections for victims so as not to interfere with the discretion that investigators and prosecutors have to investigate and choose whether to prosecute criminal activity in any particular case.

Congress also recognized that for many crimes, particularly those that can be serial in nature (e.g., rape), a victim could come forward, provide evidence, and only much later—after a number of victims have come forward—can police build a criminal case against the perpetrator. The U-visa was designed to provide protection for immigrant victims, to encourage them to come forward and provide evidence and information about criminal activity committed against them. If an immigrant crime victim has offered or is willing to offer assistance to law enforcement officials regarding such activity, the outcome of the case (or whether authorities ever proceed with the case) is not relevant to a victim’s U-visa eligibility. In addition, investigation or prosecution of some criminal activity is impossible because the perpetrator cannot be located, has diplomatic immunity, or has been deported.

U-visa status can therefore be granted even when police decline to investigate or prosecutors decline to charge perpetrators, when charges are later dropped, or when prosecutors are unable to secure convictions.¹⁶

V. APPLICATION PROCESS

The United States Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) of DHS has sole jurisdiction over adjudication of petitions for U-visa status.

A person seeking U-visa status must submit, by mail, Form I -918, “Petition for U Nonimmigrant Status” and include with it Form I-918 Supplement B, “U Nonimmigrant Status Certification,” along with supporting documents required to prove the four requirements for U-visa eligibility. A copy of Form I-918, Supplement B, with instructions is included in the tool kit on page 14. Form I-918, Supplement B must be signed by a qualifying certifier, such as a law enforcement official.¹⁷

The applicant sends the completed petition and supporting materials to the Victims and Trafficking Unit of USCIS, located in Vermont. This specialized unit is trained to adjudicate cases involving crime victims and is the only adjudication unit within DHS that can grant U-visa status.

By preparing and signing Form I-918, Supplement B, a certifier is not conferring legal immigration status upon a noncitizen applicant or making a determination of the applicant’s eligibility for a U-visa. The certification is a mandatory part of the evidence the victim must submit to USCIS to prove eligibility to receive a U-visa. In addition to the certification, the applicant must meet the other eligibility criteria, such as demonstrating that he or she suffered substantial mental or physical abuse as a result of having been a victim of the qualifying criminal activity. To be granted a U-visa, victims are also required to prove that they are eligible for admission to the United States. In some cases, a victim may be inadmissible under immigration law. In such cases, a victim will need to submit an application for a discretionary waiver along with the U-visa petition.

VI. LAW ENFORCEMENT OFFICIALS AS U-VISA CERTIFIERS

A U-visa applicant must obtain a certification from a law enforcement official, prosecutor, judge, or other federal or state authority that is detecting, investigating, or prosecuting any of the criminal activities listed in the U-visa statute or regulations.¹⁸ Congress specifically listed

¹⁶ 72 Fed. Reg. 53,014, 53,020 (Sept. 17, 2007). (“This rule does not require that the prosecution actually occur, since the statute only requires an alien victim to be helpful in the investigation or the prosecution of the criminal activity. See INA sections 101(a)(15)(U)(i)(III) & 214(p)(1), 8 U.S.C. 1101(a)(15)(u)(i)(III) and 1184(p)(1).”).

¹⁷ The implementing regulations of the U-visa require that the law enforcement official that is the certifying official be the head of the certifying agency, or any supervisor specifically designated by the head of the certifying agency to issue U-visa certifications. See 8 CFR §§ 214.14(a)(3) & 214.14(c)(2)(i).

federal, state, and local law enforcement officials as U-visa certifiers in the statute.¹⁹ As first responders, police departments, sheriffs' offices, and marshals regularly encounter victims whose allegations of criminal victimization they believe to be credible. During the process of detecting criminal activity, taking police reports, and engaging in crime investigations, officers routinely determine whether they believe the criminal activity occurred and whether a person has been a victim of such activity.²⁰ When the crime victim is or may be a noncitizen, the agency, under the federal U-visa statute, is authorized to issue a U-visa certification. Based upon the law enforcement officer's contact with the immigrant victim during detection or investigation of criminal activity, the officer is well positioned to certify an immigrant victim's helpfulness or willingness to be helpful.

The DHS regulations envision that the U-visa certification process fits within routine activities of law enforcement. The U-visa certification can be completed at the same time officers are completing their police reports and can then be reviewed and approved by supervisors who are also signing off on the police reports. The U-visa regulations allow the head of the certifying agency to grant any supervisory person(s) the authority to issue U-visa certifications.²¹ The regulations contemplate granting certification authority to multiple supervisory personnel. DHS encourages law enforcement agencies to develop internal policies and procedures to respond to requests for U-visa certifications. To facilitate the authorization of personnel to sign U-visa certification forms, a sample "Designee Letter" is included in the tool kit on page 20.

Certifying agencies may also develop internal policies and procedures to inform victims where and with whom to file requests for certifications; to provide certifying officials with the relevant and necessary information needed for supervisors to sign U-visa certifications; and to implement practices that result in certifications being issued. A sample U-visa certification policy is included in the tool kit on page 26.

Evaluating Helpfulness

Law enforcement officials may complete U-visa certifications once they are able to assess a victim's helpfulness. An investigation need not be complete prior to signing a certification. The certification signed by a certifying official demonstrates that the applicant "has been helpful, is being helpful, or is likely to be helpful in the detection, investigation, or prosecution of the qualifying criminal activity."²²

The "helpfulness" requirement was written using several verb tenses, recognizing that an applicant may apply for status at different stages of an investigation or prosecution.²³ Congress intended to allow an individual to petition for status at virtually any stage of the investigation or prosecution.²⁴ Likewise, the definition of “investigation or prosecution” in the statute is interpreted broadly.²⁵ Some examples of helpful actions include, but are not limited to, calling 911 to report the crime, providing a statement to the police, filing a police report, or seeking a protection order.

²⁰ It is important to note that U-visa certification can and should occur as early as possible after taking a police report or interviewing a credible crime victim. See 72 Fed. Reg. 53,014, 53,019 (Sept. 17, 2007). Certification need not wait until the case reaches a probable cause determination. However, for cases in which probable cause has been found, noncitizen victims should receive U-visa certifications.

A victim who received certification and was granted a U-visa has an ongoing obligation to provide assistance.²⁶ Law enforcement officials may notify USCIS directly for cases in which victims are no longer helpful. However, such notification is appropriate only when the victim’s lack of cooperation is not reasonable.

VII. APPLICATIONS FOR LAWFUL PERMANENT RESIDENCY BY U-VISA RECIPIENTS

U-visa status is issued for a period of up to four years.²⁷ A U-visa holder can live and work legally in the United States and file petitions with USCIS to provide immigration status for family members.²⁸ Upon certification by a qualifying official, U-visa status can be extended.²⁹

After three years of continuous presence in the United States, a U-visa holder is eligible to apply for lawful permanent residency.³⁰ Not all U-visa holders will qualify for lawful permanent residency. To qualify, U-visa holders must provide evidence that they have not unreasonably refused to provide assistance in the criminal investigation or prosecution and that their continuous presence in the country is justified on humanitarian grounds, to ensure family unity, or is otherwise in the public interest.

U-VISA QUICK REFERENCE FOR LAW ENFORCEMENT OFFICIALS

Purpose of the U-visa	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> The U-visa facilitates the reporting of crimes to law enforcement officials by immigrant victims of crime, including domestic violence, sexual assault, human trafficking and other crimes listed in the U-visa statute.

Status of Crime Perpetrator	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> A victim may qualify for a U-visa certification regardless of whether there is any familial relationship between the victim and the perpetrator. The perpetrator may have any immigration or citizenship status such as U.S. citizen, legal permanent resident, diplomat, work-visa holder, or undocumented immigrant.
Certification Requirements	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> A certifying official must complete U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) Form I-918, Supplement B. A certifying official is the head of a law enforcement agency or a person(s) with supervisory responsibility designated by the head of the agency to provide certifications. The certification is necessary to establish eligibility for the U-visa, but by itself does not grant immigration status to the victim. To obtain a U-visa, a victim must meet certain eligibility requirements, in addition to obtaining a U-visa certification. USCIS has sole authority to grant or deny a U-visa. The certification should provide specific details about the nature of the crime being detected, investigated, or prosecuted, and describe the petitioner's

	helpfulness in the case. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • U-visa certification does not require that law enforcement investigate the criminal activity beyond reporting of the crime. The certification attests only to the U-visa petitioner’s willingness to be helpful or past or present helpfulness in detection, investigation, prosecution, or investigation efforts.
Assessing the Helpfulness of the U-visa Applicant	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • If a U-visa petitioner filed a police report and is willing to assist—or has assisted or cooperated—with detection, investigation, or prosecution of criminal activity, a certification may be provided even when the initial investigation efforts do not lead to further investigation and/or do not result in a prosecution or a conviction. • Law enforcement officials may issue a certification at any time after detecting a qualifying criminal activity if the officer believes criminal activity occurred and identifies a person as a victim of criminal activity. The investigation need not be complete prior to issuing a certification. • Congress intended to allow victims to obtain U-visa certifications at very early stages of crime detection—during investigations into criminal activity. • To be eligible for lawful permanent residence, the victim has an ongoing responsibility to provide assistance when reasonably requested, as the statute specifies.

Instructions for I-918, Supplement B, U Nonimmigrant Status Certification

Instructions

Please read these instructions carefully to properly complete this form. If you need more space to complete an answer, use a separate sheet(s) of paper. Write your name and Alien Registration Number (A #), if any, at the top of each sheet of paper and indicate the part and number of the item to which the answer refers.

What Is the Purpose of This Form?

You should use Form I-918, Supplement B, to certify that an individual submitting a Form I-918, Petition for U Nonimmigrant Status, is a victim of certain qualifying criminal activity and is, has been, or is likely to be helpful in the investigation or prosecution of that activity.

When Should I Use Form I-918, Supplement B?

If you, the certifying official, determine that this individual (better known as the petitioner) is, has been, or is likely to be helpful in your investigation or prosecution, you may complete this supplement form. The petitioner must then submit the supplement to USCIS with his or her petition for U nonimmigrant status.

NOTE: An agency's decision to provide a certification is entirely discretionary; the agency is under no legal obligation to complete a Form I-918, Supplement B, for any particular alien. However, without a completed Form I-918, Supplement B, the alien will be ineligible for U nonimmigrant status.

To be eligible for U nonimmigrant status, the alien must be a victim of qualifying criminal activity. The term "victim" generally means an alien who has suffered direct and proximate harm as a result of the commission of qualifying criminal activity.

The alien spouse, unmarried children under 21 years of age and, if the victim is under 21 years of age, parents and unmarried siblings under 18 years of age, will be considered victims of qualifying criminal activity where:

1. The direct victim is deceased due to murder or manslaughter, or
2. Where a violent qualifying criminal activity has caused the direct victim physical harm of a kind and degree that makes the direct victim incompetent or incapacitated, and, therefore, unable to provide information concerning the criminal activity or to be helpful in the investigation or prosecution of the criminal activity.

An alien may be considered a victim of witness tampering, obstruction of justice, or perjury, including any attempt, conspiracy, or solicitation to commit one or more of those offenses if:

1. The victim has been directly and proximately harmed by the perpetrator of the witness tampering, obstruction of justice, or perjury; and
2. There are reasonable grounds to conclude that the perpetrator committed the witness tampering, obstruction of justice, or perjury offense, at least in principal part, as a means:
 - A. To avoid or frustrate efforts to investigate, arrest, prosecute, or otherwise bring to justice the perpetrator for other criminal activity; or
 - B. To further the perpetrator's abuse or exploitation of or undue control over the petitioner through manipulation of the legal system.

A person who is culpable for the qualifying criminal activity being investigated or prosecuted is excluded from being recognized as a victim.

A victim of qualifying criminal activity must provide evidence that he or she (or in the case of an alien under the age of 16 years or who is incapacitated or incompetent, the parent, guardian, or next friend of the alien) has been, is being, or is likely to be helpful to a certifying official in the investigation or prosecution of the qualifying criminal activity as listed in Part 3 of this form. Being "helpful" means assisting law enforcement authorities in the investigation or prosecution of the qualifying criminal activity of which he or she is a victim.

General Instructions.

Indicate whether the qualifying criminal activity violated the laws of the United States or occurred within the United States (including in Indian country and military installations) or the territories and possessions of the United States - Qualifying criminal activity of which the applicant is a victim had to violate U.S. law or occur within the United States.

Please indicate whether the qualifying criminal activity occurred within the United States (including in Indian country and military installations) or the territories and possessions of the United States.

- 1. United States means the continental United States, Alaska, Hawaii, Puerto Rico, Guam, and the U.S. Virgin Islands.
- 2. Indian country refers to all land within the limits of any Indian reservation under the jurisdiction of the United States Government, notwithstanding the issuance of any patent, and including rights-of-way running through the reservation; all dependent Indian communities within the borders of the United States whether within the original or subsequently acquired territory thereof, and whether within or without the limits of a state; and all Indian allotments, the Indian titles to which have not been extinguished, including rights-of-way running through such allotments.
- 3. Military installation means any facility, base, camp, post, encampment, station, yard, center, port, aircraft, vehicle, or vessel under the jurisdiction of the Department of Defense, including any leased facility, or any other location under military control.

4. Territories and possessions of the United States means American Samoa, Bajo Nuevo (the Petrel Islands), Baker Island, Howland Island, Jarvis Island, Johnston Atoll, Kingman Reef, Midway Atoll, Navassa Island, Northern Mariana Islands, Palmyra Atoll, Serranilla Bank, and Wake Atoll.

If the qualifying criminal activity did not occur within the United States as discussed above, but was in violation of U.S. law, it must violate a Federal extraterritorial jurisdiction statute. There is no requirement that a prosecution actually occur. Please provide the statutory citation for the extraterritorial jurisdiction.

Part 4 - Helpfulness of the victim.

- A. Indicate whether the victim possesses information about the crime(s). A petitioner must be in possession of information about the qualifying criminal activity of which he or she is a victim. A petitioner is considered to possess information concerning qualifying criminal activity of which he or she is a victim if he or she has knowledge of details concerning that criminal activity that would assist in the investigation or prosecution of the criminal activity. Victims with information about a crime of which they are not the victim will not be considered to possess information concerning qualifying criminal activities.

When the victim is under 16 years of age, incapacitated or incompetent, he or she is not required to personally possess information regarding the qualifying criminal activity. The parent, guardian, or "next friend" of the minor petitioner may provide that information. "Next friend" is a person who appears in a lawsuit to act for the benefit of an alien victim. The "next friend" is not a party to the legal proceeding and is not appointed as a guardian.

- B. Provide an explanation of the victim's helpfulness to the investigation or prosecution of the criminal activity. A victim must provide evidence to USCIS that he or she (or, in the case of an alien child under the age of 16 or who is incapacitated or incompetent, the parent, guardian, or next friend of the alien) has been, is being, or is likely to be helpful to a certifying law enforcement official in the investigation or prosecution of the qualifying criminal activity.

Being "helpful" means assisting law enforcement authorities in the investigation or prosecution of the qualifying criminal activity of which he or she is a victim. Alien victims who, after initiating cooperation, refuse to provide continuing assistance when needed will not meet the helpfulness requirement. There is an ongoing responsibility on the part of the victim to be helpful, assuming there is an ongoing need for the victim's assistance.

You, the certifying official, will make the initial determination as to the helpfulness of the petitioner. USCIS will give a properly executed Supplement B, U Nonimmigrant Status Certification significant weight, but it will not be considered conclusory evidence that the victim has met the eligibility requirements. USCIS will look at the totality of the circumstances surrounding the alien's involvement with your agency and all other information known to USCIS in determining whether the alien meets the elements of eligibility.

Part 5 - Family members implicated in criminal activity.

List whether any of the victim's family members are believed to have been involved in the criminal activity of which he or she is a victim. An alien victim is prohibited from petitioning for derivative U nonimmigrant status on behalf of a qualifying family member who committed battery or extreme cruelty or trafficking against the alien victim which established his or her eligibility for U nonimmigrant status. Therefore, USCIS will not grant an immigration benefit to a qualifying family member who committed qualifying criminal activities in a family violence or trafficking context.

Part 6 - Certification.

Please read the certification block carefully. NOTE: If the victim unreasonably refuses to assist in the investigation or prosecution of the qualifying criminal activity of which he or she is a victim, even after this form is submitted to USCIS, you must notify USCIS by sending a written statement to: USCIS - Vermont Service Center, 75 Lower Welden Street, St. Albans, VT 05479-0001. Please include the victim's name, date of birth, and A-number (if available) on all correspondence.

In this article, the author details the history of the U-visa, including the administrative barriers that have led to the U-visa being an underused tool for law enforcement.

U-VISA STATUTORY AND REGULATORY BACKGROUND: PURPOSE AND HELPFULNESS REQUIREMENT

The following excerpts from the Victims of Trafficking and Violence Prevention Act of 2000 and its implementing regulations summarize the statutory and regulatory background on the U-visa's purpose and its helpfulness requirement.

Statutory Authority: Purpose of the U-visa

"The purpose...is to create a new nonimmigrant visa classification that will strengthen the ability of law enforcement agencies to detect, investigate, and prosecute cases of domestic violence, sexual assault, trafficking of aliens, and other crimes...against aliens, while offering protection to victims of such offenses in keeping with the humanitarian interests of the United States. This visa will encourage law enforcement officials to better serve immigrant crime victims and to prosecute crimes committed against aliens. Creating a new nonimmigrant visa classification will facilitate the reporting of crimes to law enforcement officials by trafficked, exploited, victimized, and abused aliens who are not in lawful immigration status."¹

Statutory Authority: Helpfulness

"[T]he alien (or in the case of an alien child under the age of 16, the parent, guardian, or next friend of the alien) has been helpful, is being helpful, or is likely to be helpful to a Federal, State, or local law enforcement official, to a Federal, State, or local prosecutor, to a Federal or State judge, to the Service, or to other Federal, State, or local authorities investigating or prosecuting criminal activity..."²

Regulatory Authority: Helpfulness

"USCIS [United States Citizenship and Immigration Services] interprets 'helpful' to mean assisting law enforcement authorities in the investigation or prosecution of the qualifying criminal activity of which he or she is a victim."³

"The requirement was written with several verb tenses, recognizing that an alien may apply for U nonimmigrant status at different stages of the investigation or prosecution. By allowing an individual to petition for U nonimmigrant status upon a showing that he or she may be helpful at some point in the future, USCIS believes that Congress intended for individuals to be eligible for U nonimmigrant status at the very early stages of the investigation. This suggests an ongoing responsibility to cooperate with the certifying official while in U nonimmigrant status. If the alien victim only reports the crime and is unwilling to provide information concerning the criminal activity to allow an investigation to move forward, or refuses to continue to provide assistance to an investigation, the purpose of BIWPA [Battered Immigrant Women Protection Act] is not furthered.”⁴

“In addition, in order to qualify for permanent residence status on the basis of U nonimmigrant classification, the alien must not have unreasonably refused to provide assistance in the criminal investigation or prosecution. This requirement further suggests an ongoing responsibility to cooperate with the certifying official while in U nonimmigrant status.”⁵

“The rule provides that the determination of whether an alien’s refusal to provide assistance was unreasonable will be based on all available affirmative evidence and take into account the totality of the circumstances and such factors as general law enforcement, prosecutorial, and judicial practices; the kinds of assistance asked of other victims of crimes involving an element of force, coercion, or fraud; the nature of the request to the alien for assistance; the nature of the victimization; the applicable guidelines for victim and witness assistance; and the specific circumstances of the applicant, including fear, severe trauma (either mental or physical), and the age and maturity of the applicant.”⁶

“Alien victims may not have legal status and, therefore may be reluctant to help in the investigation or prosecution of criminal activity for fear of removal from the United States.”⁷

“Although there are no specific data on alien crime victims, statistics maintained by DOJ [Department of Justice] have shown that aliens, especially those aliens without legal status, are often reluctant to help in the investigation or prosecution of crimes. U visas are intended to help overcome this reluctance and aid law enforcement accordingly.”⁸

U-VISA CERTIFICATION AND LAW ENFORCEMENT: FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS¹

BACKGROUND

What is the purpose of the U-visa?

In keeping with humanitarian interests of the United States, Congress created the U-visa to encourage immigrant crime victims to report crimes without fear of deportation and to “encourage law enforcement to better serve immigrant crime victims.”²

How do law enforcement agencies benefit from the U-visa?

As a crime-fighting tool, the U-visa reinforces an agency's commitment to victim safety, protection, and recovery from trauma. Victims without immigration status are more likely to report crimes if they have no reason to fear that doing so could cause them to be deported. The community will be safer as a result. Law enforcement agencies that use the U-visa in conjunction with other community policing measures also prove to immigrants and the community that they are serious about protecting immigrants from crime.

CERTIFICATION

What is the U-visa certification?

The U-visa certification is a Department of Homeland Security (DHS) form (I-918 Supplement B) that a U-visa applicant submits with a U-visa application to the United States Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) of DHS.³ The certification is a sworn statement that says an individual is a victim of a qualified criminal activity and has been, is being, or is likely to be helpful in the detection, investigation, or prosecution of that criminal activity.⁴

What is U-visa qualifying criminal activity?

U-visa qualifying criminal activity involves a violation of federal, state, or local criminal law (or any similar activity), and specifically includes “rape; torture; incest; domestic violence; sexual assault; abusive sexual contact; prostitution; sexual exploitation; female genital mutilation; being held hostage; peonage; involuntary servitude; slave trade; kidnapping; abduction; unlawful criminal restraint; false imprisonment; blackmail; extortion; manslaughter; murder; felonious assault; witness tampering; obstruction of justice; perjury; or attempt, conspiracy, or solicitation to commit any of the above mentioned crimes.”⁵ Although not all-inclusive, the list of qualifying criminal activity represents the many types of behavior that can constitute domestic violence, sexual abuse, trafficking, or are crimes that often target vulnerable immigrants as victims.⁶

³ USCIS is the agency within DHS responsible for adjudicating applications for immigration benefits, work authorization, and naturalization. Two other branches of DHS are responsible for immigration enforcement activities: Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) and U.S. Customs and Border Protection (CBP).

⁴ INA § 101(a)(15)(U)(i)(III); 8 U.S.C. § 1101(a)(15)(U)(i)(III) (2000).

What constitutes helpfulness?

Helpfulness refers to the victim’s willingness to assist law enforcement during the detection, investigation, or prosecution of criminal activity. Helpfulness can be as simple as a victim reporting a crime to the police. It may also include participating in other aspects of the investigation or prosecution, such as identifying a perpetrator, appearing at court hearings, testifying, or filing victim-impact statements. Once a victim has been cooperative, the individual has continuing responsibility to assist officials and is required to provide reasonable ongoing cooperation in order to apply for lawful permanent residence.⁷ To prevent further harm to victims, an exception to the ongoing cooperation requirement exists when victims can demonstrate that their inability or refusal to cooperate is not unreasonable. In some cases it may be unsafe for a victim to fully cooperate with law enforcement. Such situations include trauma or threats of retaliation.⁸ If a victim has been helpful in detection or investigation of criminal activity, law enforcement can issue U-visa certification even if the victim later found it too difficult to continue cooperating.

Why is the law enforcement certification so important to immigrant victims?

The U-visa affords undocumented victims temporary legal immigration status. Without this, victims may be afraid to seek assistance from law enforcement when they are victimized by a spouse, family member, employer, or even a stranger. Undocumented victims fearing deportation may risk exploitation and ongoing victimization rather than coming forward to report crimes. The U-visa also provides a victim with employment authorization and protection against deportation, critical tools in establishing economic independence and long-term safety.

Who can sign a U-visa certification?

In order to approve a U-visa, USCIS requires a U-visa certification. Any agency that investigates or prosecutes criminal activity may sign a certification.⁹ USCIS includes in this category judges,

⁸ USCIS will consider in deciding reasonableness of non-cooperation “general law enforcement, prosecutorial, and judicial practices; the kinds of assistance asked of other victims of crimes involving an element of force, coercion, or fraud; the nature of the request to the alien for assistance; the nature of the victimization; the applicable guidelines for victim and witness assistance; and the specific circumstances of the applicant, including fear, severe trauma (either mental or physical), and the age and maturity of the applicant.” 8 C.F.R. 245.24(a)(5); 73 Fed. federal and local law enforcement agencies and prosecutors, Child Protective Services, the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, Department of Labor, and other agencies that meet these guidelines.¹⁰ Within law enforcement agencies, only an individual in a supervisory role specifically designated by the head of the agency may sign the certification.¹¹ Every law enforcement officer with a supervisory role may be designated as a U-visa certification signatory. An agency head may designate any number of law enforcement officers to sign these certifications.

Is a law enforcement agency required to sign the certifications?

No. Law enforcement agencies are not required to sign the certifications. However, Congress enacted the U-visa protections with the expectation that law enforcement officers are in the best role to assess the helpfulness of a victim.¹² A victim cannot obtain a U-visa without a law enforcement certification.¹³

CERTIFICATION SCENARIOS

Can a law enforcement officer certify an application for a crime that happened long ago?

Yes. There is no applicable statute of limitations that precludes signing a certification. The U-visa was enacted in January 2001 as part of the Victims of Trafficking and Violence Prevention Act of 2000.¹⁴ However, USCIS did not promulgate regulations until September 2007.¹⁵ As a result, many individuals who were crime victims and likely eligible for U-visas were unable to apply. Many of them still reported crimes, despite the lack of immigration protections. Many more were too scared to report crimes to law enforcement for the reasons Congress contemplated.¹⁶ Similarly, by not creating a reporting statute of limitations, Congress protected individuals who were victimized before the law took effect (and before regulations were clarified) by allowing them to meet the criteria required for a law enforcement officer to sign a certification.

Can a law enforcement officer sign a certification if the agency decides to investigate a crime that is not listed as a qualifying crime under the U-visa statute?

Yes. The certifying officer must state only that the individual is a victim of a qualifying crime.¹⁷ It is not necessary that the qualifying crime be investigated or prosecuted.¹⁸

Can a law enforcement officer sign a certification if the victim is not needed in the course of the investigation or prosecution?

Yes. Per Congress, the certification process does not hinge on or require a victim's testimony or completion of a prosecution.

Can a law enforcement officer sign a certification if the prosecutors decide(d) not to prosecute the perpetrator?

Yes. A victim should be protected regardless of whether the perpetrator is investigated or prosecuted. In many cases prosecutors do not prosecute, such as when the alleged offender has absconded, enjoys diplomatic immunity, or may be a perpetrator against whom law enforcement has not yet fully built a case. The accused person will usually know at least that a police report has been filed against him (or her), even if charges are never filed. The risk of retaliation is still considerable.

Can a law enforcement officer sign a certification if the perpetrator is not convicted?

Yes. Prosecutors must build a case considering the full evidence, including the victim's statement. Ultimately, obtaining a conviction depends on many factors. Regardless of how the prosecution moves forward, however, the victim is at risk. The victim may be at a greater risk if the perpetrator is not convicted. The U-visa certification is designed to be issued when the law enforcement officer believes that the individual is a victim of a qualifying criminal activity. The criminal burden of proof does not apply and an acquittal in a criminal case does not affect certification, which requires only an assessment of victimization and helpfulness or willingness to be helpful.

Can a law enforcement officer sign a certification if the individual seeking certification does not appear to be a victim of a qualifying criminal activity?

No. If the law enforcement officer does not believe that the individual seeking certification is a victim of a qualifying criminal activity, the officer should not sign the certification unless it is for an indirect victim (see below). Law enforcement officers, however, should remember that many of these crimes, including sexual assault and human trafficking, are traumatic. Furthermore, many perpetrators fuel immigrant victims' perceptions and expectations about law enforcement based on experiences from their home countries, where law enforcement officers might have been corrupt and unreliable. Therefore a law enforcement officer may not immediately identify someone as a victim because the individual is not yet comfortable disclosing the victimization.

Can a law enforcement officer sign a certification if the victim's testimony conflicts with earlier statements or is harmful to the case?

¹⁸ "For varying reasons, the perpetrator may not be charged or prosecuted for the qualifying criminal activity, but instead, for the non-qualifying criminal activity. For example, in the course of investigating Federal embezzlement and fraud charges, the investigators discover that the perpetrator is also abusing his wife and children, but because there are no applicable Federal domestic violence laws, he is charged only with non-qualifying Federal embezzlement and fraud crimes." New Classification for Victims of Criminal Activity; Eligibility for "U" Nonimmigrant Status; Interim Rule, DHS Docket No. USCIS-2006-0069 at page 18 (2007).

Maybe, depending on why the testimony conflicts with earlier statements. For example, language barriers and the use of unqualified interpreters often create the perception that an immigrant victim's testimony has changed when the conflict is because of faulty or no translation. In cases of particularly traumatic crimes, it may take some time before a victim is able to provide complete information, even if the victim is being helpful. This can also lead to unintended conflicting statements.

Can a law enforcement officer sign a certification if there is evidence that the victim is also a crime perpetrator?

Yes. Certification can be granted when an officer believes that the immigrant has been the victim of criminal activity, even if the victim has been arrested as a crime perpetrator in the past. Congress anticipated this problem and specifically allowed USCIS the discretion on a case-by-case basis to grant waivers of U-visa victims' criminal convictions when it is in the public or national interest.¹⁹ Many immigrant crime victims have been controlled in such a way that they end up being arrested based on information from the perpetrator or because of poor interpretation or fear of disclosing the truth about abuse to law enforcement. Despite federal and state policies to the contrary, some domestic violence incidents result in arrest of both the perpetrator and the victim, despite government policies discouraging arrest of the victim. Such arrests fail to acknowledge an overall power and control dynamic that exists in abusive relationships.²⁰ USCIS will screen the criminal background of every U-visa applicant and the agency will investigate every arrest. If a U-visa applicant is found to be the perpetrator of the crime (e.g., someone identified as a trafficking victim is actually the trafficker), USCIS precludes the individual from obtaining U-visa relief.

Can a law enforcement officer sign a certification if there are concerns about the victim's credibility?

Yes. The law enforcement officer is responsible for ensuring that the information on the certification is true and complete. USCIS will adjudicate any issues of credibility beyond the certification, including statements in the application that suggest issues of credibility. USCIS employs rigorous standards to check the credibility of every applicant.

Are there times when someone might be an indirect victim and still seek certification?

Yes. Indirect victims are able to seek U-visas in cases when the direct victim is deceased as a result of the crime (e.g., murder or manslaughter), incompetent, incapacitated, or under the age of 18.²¹ The indirect victims can include spouses, children under 21 years of age, and parents of the direct victim. If the direct victim is or was under 21 years of age, parents and unmarried siblings under 18 years of age can also apply.²² Parents of U.S. citizens can be considered indirect victims. By extending the victim definition to include certain family members of deceased, incapacitated, or incompetent victims, family members are encouraged to fully participate in the investigation or prosecution and may provide valuable information that would otherwise not be available.²³

What if a crime victim does not have an immigration attorney, practitioner, or advocate but the law enforcement officer wants to sign a certification?

Law enforcement officers may sign certifications for victims who have not yet secured legal representation.²⁴ U-visa certifiers should recommend that victims have representation before applying. They should also refer crime victims to agencies in the community with experience assisting immigrant victims. These agencies will provide social services and assist victims in securing representation before the victim applies for a U-visa. Law enforcement officers should not provide any legal advice to the crime victims. If law enforcement officers are eager to sign certifications, however, they can refer victims to community groups or organizations that can provide legal advice or representation or to advocates who can access technical assistance and support.

If a law enforcement officer signs the certification, does the victim automatically get lawful immigration status?

No. USCIS requires U-visa applicants to provide significant further documentation to meet all other U-visa requirements.²⁵

Can the certification be considered a benefit for the victim in the course of a prosecution of the perpetrator?

This may be a concern for prosecutors. Please refer any prosecutors to Partnership staff and we will provide technical assistance specific to that situation.

LAW ENFORCEMENT CONCERNS

If a law enforcement agency has an ICE (Immigrations and Customs Enforcement) ACCESS partnership agreement (such as 287(g), Secure Communities, or the Criminal Alien Program [CAP]), is a victim still eligible to receive a U-visa certification?

Yes. ICE ACCESS guidelines do not prohibit undocumented victims from seeking U-visa certification.

²⁴ If an officer signs a certification before the victim has located counsel, the officer may need to reissue the certification at a future date to certify additional or different crimes or if the certification expires due to delays in the victim attaining legal representation. Note, victims are not required to have attorneys to apply for the U-visa.

What if a particular jurisdiction has a policy not to protect people who are without lawful immigration status?

Congress created the U-visa to:

strengthen the ability of law enforcement agencies to detect, investigate, and prosecute cases of domestic violence, sexual assault, trafficking of aliens, and other crimes...while offering protection to victims of such offenses in keeping with the humanitarian interests of the United States. This visa will encourage law enforcement officials to better serve immigrant crime victims and to prosecute crimes committed against aliens.²⁶

Law enforcement jurisdictions that in practice refuse to sign U-visa certifications or that adopt a uniform policy against signing U-visa certifications should consider the ramifications for immigrant victims and the safety and trust of law enforcement within the entire community. Law enforcement agencies exist to keep communities safe. Excluding a significant and vulnerable part of the population from protection may have long-lasting and serious effects for the entire community.

Once a certification is signed, what are the ongoing obligations for a law enforcement officer?

If a victim later appears not to be a victim or is no longer being helpful, a certifying officer is required to contact the VAWA Unit at the Vermont Service Center of USCIS to report any such changes. However, such notification is appropriate only when the victim's lack of cooperation is not reasonable. A victim may choose not to continue to provide information or testimony for a number of reasons, including the crime perpetrator's coercing the victim not to testify or threatening the victim or family members with further harm or other retaliation if s/he continues cooperating. The regulations use a "totality of circumstances" test to assess whether a U-visa holder unreasonably refused to provide assistance.²⁷ Some factors to consider in ascertaining whether the victim's lack of cooperation is reasonable are the amount of time that has passed since the victimization, the level of trauma, the availability of victim services and resources, and financial stability.²⁸

What if the victim is arrested after the certification is signed?

USCIS will investigate the arrest of every person with a pending application. Certifying officers have no duty to track the criminal history of every victim receiving a U-visa certification. U-visa applicants with criminal convictions must disclose these convictions and apply for a waiver related to criminal convictions as part of the U-visa adjudication process. USCIS has the discretion to grant waivers if it is in the national or public interest to do so. After the U-visa is granted, USCIS will review an individual's criminal history when the U-visa holder applies for lawful permanent residence.²⁹ In some jurisdictions, the U-visa holder who is arrested will be brought to the attention of U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement. Even to individuals granted lawful permanent status, a criminal conviction can have immigration consequences and the process is closely monitored by the Department of Homeland Security.

What if the victim is in immigration removal proceedings or immigration detention?

An immigrant in removal proceedings and/or detention may still be eligible for and granted a U-visa. These circumstances should have no impact on whether a law enforcement officer signs the certification. Immigration enforcement actions are typically subject to prosecutorial discretion. Law enforcement officers should encourage immigrants in removal proceedings to obtain legal advice from an experienced immigration attorney.
