INTERVENTION & EVALUATION DESIGN

Summary *

Describe the proposed study in simple terms understandable to general audiences for publication on 3ie's website and other outlets. (Note: by submitting this application you are granting 3ie permission to use this text.) (up to 400 words)

Intervention *

Describe the program or intervention that you propose to evaluate including the implementing agency's intended beneficiaries and outcomes. (up to 250 words)

Evaluation questions *

List the main evaluation question(s) to be addressed by the proposed study (up to 250 words)

Evaluation design: internal validity *

Present the main features of the proposed evaluation design (up to 2,500 words). Include the identification strategy; treatment of spillover, John Henry, Hawthorne, and/or survey effects; the data collection methods and instruments; sampling strategies; the complete power calculations; and the risk and treatment of attrition. Also discuss impact heterogeneity and diversity across population sub-groups, particularly disadvantaged groups. Explain what, if any, ethical issues you believe are relevant to the proposed study and how you propose to address them. For applications to carry out CGE-type of studies, describe the dataset, the calibration assumptions, model closure, the nature of the simulations and the social protection impact estimates upon which the study will be based. For applications to analyze context, describe the proposed inclusion/exclusion criteria for evaluations and present the proposed methodology(ies) for analyzing the results of those evaluations.

Evaluation design: external validity *

Present the main elements of the proposed study that will contribute to external validity (up to 1,500 words). Include the theory of change, mixed methods approaches, and cost effectiveness analysis.

Policy relevance *

Describe the policy relevance of the proposed evaluation (up to 500 words). Policy relevance includes a) the alignment of the evaluation questions with enduring national and international policy challenges and b) the importance of the intervention being evaluated in terms of either its scale or effect size or in terms of an innovation in program (not evaluation) design. In addition, as the Social Protection Thematic Window places a priority on low income countries, please describe the coverage of and relevance for low income countries.

Potential policy impact *

Describe the potential policy impact of the proposed evaluation (up to 750 words). Potential policy impact is the extent to which the study may influence national, regional, and international policy. One element of policy impact is the implementing agency's intended use of the findings, as stated in the accompanying letter. Another important factor for the study's potential policy impact will be its policy influence plan \(PIP\). Awarded grantees will be required to submit a complete PIP in the 3ie template prior to grant signing. As part of your answer here, please describe your policy influence objective(s), the primary target audiences (especially the policy stakeholders) for this study, strategies for engaging with policy stakeholders, and the potential risks to policy impact.

DELIVERABLES AND BUDGET

Workplan and Deliverables *

3ie grant agreements include deliverables schedules that combine regular reporting requirements with technical outputs for the deliverables against which tranches of the grants are paid. Please see 3ie's reporting requirements document (on the 3ie website) for complete details. Each tranche payment must be justified by one or more technical deliverables in addition to the periodic progress report and utilization report and a letter of continued support from one key stakeholder. The technical deliverables for the first, second-to-last, and last tranche are pre-determined. They are responses to the comments for response document and the Policy Influence Plan, the draft final report in 3ie format, and the final report in 3ie format, respectively. Applicants must propose the specific technical deliverables for other desired tranche payments as well as propose the time periods between tranches for the term of the grant. (In the grant agreement itself, all due dates will be stated as number of months from the grant effective date based on the information provided here.) For fewer than seven tranches, just select 0% for the unnecessary rows. Tranche percentages must sum to 100%.

Prior to grant signing	SELECT PERCENTAGE	Fixed requirements
Grant effective date plus: SELECT MONTHS	SELECT PERCENTAGE	Fixed requirements plus the following technical deliverable(s) (up to 50 words):
