

Event Programme

AGEING PLANT – MANAGING RISKS, EXTENDING LIFE – 25 OCTOBER 2012 – QUEENS HOTEL LEEDS, CITY SQUARE, LEEDS, WEST YORKSHIRE, LS1 1PJ

Who should attend?

Senior Engineering Managers and business managers from operating companies in Chemicals and Pharms.

Why attend?

Many operating assets in the process industries are required to operate well beyond their original design lives. The challenge is to demonstrate to regulators and stakeholders that these “ageing assets” can be operated safely, reliably and economically for their required operating life.

This one-day course shows how knowledge of the vulnerabilities - deterioration and obsolescence of equipment; loss of organisational competence – can be used to develop a strategy for managing the risks from ageing plant. This strategy includes a robust justification for on-going operation, and provides a sound basis for investment decisions.

Course Aims

- Increased awareness of ageing plant issues
- Overview of why deterioration occurs , obsolescence and other life-influencing factors
- Understanding of organisational and technical requirements to manage ageing plant

This course is being run by ABB Limited.
