Student Details
Name:
Date of Presentation:
Milestone: Please tick one	<input type="checkbox"/> Confirmation of Candidature The presentation should provide a brief overview of the background, aims and design of the study and progress to date, highlighting issues that would benefit from discussion. Note whether the aims of the study and proposed methodology and analyses are suitable for a Doctoral level project.
	<input type="checkbox"/> Mid-Candidature review The oral presentation must explore at least one aspect of research undertaken to date and note anticipated future directions of the research program. The review panel must provide feedback to the candidate on the content and delivery of the presentation and the research work plan. This may include advice regarding the candidate's application to the project, the level of initiative shown, the progress made to date and the attainment of the goals set in the original work plan, including skill development and participation in seminars, conference and other programs. The panel should also make any appropriate recommendations to assist the progress of the candidate and, if any specific problems are identified, determine appropriate actions to address these. The panel should also allocate responsibilities to implement these actions.
	<input type="checkbox"/> Pre-Submission Seminar The seminar should provide a summary of the thesis structure and findings and describe, in greater detail, at least one element of the research. The panel should provide critical feedback to the candidate on the strengths and weaknesses of the work presented and the delivery of the presentation. The panel should also make any appropriate recommendations to assist the preparation of the thesis for submission and the candidate should be encouraged to consider incorporating these recommendations into their thesis.
