PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

GORDON BARNHART

Universities are not defined by any single event. Our university is no exception.

The graduates of Spring Convocation 2014 are a wonderful reminder of what defines our university and what our most important job is: to provide you with an education that ensures your lifelong success.

Your achievements, all of the success you had in the classrooms, labs and libraries, are part of how our university will be defined. And what you accomplish from here forward—whether achieving your career goals or helping build the communities in which you live—will also shape our university.

Just as you were not alone in your academic pursuits—indeed you had continual support from family, friends and the entire university community—you will not be alone once you graduate. You are now joining more than 141,000 U of S alumni around the world, and the collective excellence of our graduates is critically important in defining the University of Saskatchewan.

We know you will succeed because you are backed with a rigorous, high-quality education. We will watch your careers develop with great interest and we encourage you to stay in touch. We were proud to have you as our students and even prouder to count you among our alumni. Your stories of success will remind everyone that the University of Saskatchewan is among the best universities in North America.

I offer you my sincerest congratulations on this important milestone. Take a moment to reflect on your experience at the University of Saskatchewan and take time to celebrate with your family and friends.

Your future is filled with so much promise, and I look forward to hearing all about it.

HEATHER MAGOTIAUX

Congratulations to our graduates, and welcome to the University of Saskatchewan Alumni Association.

Convocation is one of life's unforgettable moments. Your years as a student—years of new experiences, of studying, learning, and building life-long relationships—all lead up to this accomplishment, to earning your degree, diploma or certificate. We are delighted to celebrate with you, your family and your friends.

You spent your most transformative years at the University of Saskatchewan not just to graduate, but to make a difference. Today, as you transition from student to alumnus, you join our community of over 141,000 alumni making a difference in the world. You will build upon their collective success and accomplish great things; the possibilities are endless.

Your journey of discovery and life-long learning continues. Just as you had the support of your family, classmates, professors and numerous others to help you achieve success as a student, you now have the support of your U of S alumni family to help you along your journey of learning and discovery in the future.

I encourage you to maintain those relationships, to build new ones with your fellow U of S alumni, and to share your milestones and achievements with us so we can celebrate with you.

Congratulations class of 2014, and welcome to the U of S alumni family.

Our ceremony

The convocation ceremony is a calling together of the new graduates of the University of Saskatchewan, symbolizing the historical practice of calling together all former graduates. In current times, the major functions of convocation are the election of representatives to university governing bodies and the admission of candidates to degrees. The chancellor, appointed by senate as the chair of convocation, is the highest official and spokesperson of the university.

The convocation ceremony marks the transition from the role of student to the holder of a degree with its accompanying rights and privileges.

The ceremony, solemnized in the presence of the university community and family and friends of the graduands, consists of three parts: a procession marking the leaving of the old status and entering the new; the president's statement to the graduands, the secretary's petition and the chancellor's consent for their admission; followed by individual presentation by a university orator and admission by the chancellor to the degrees to which they are entitled.

As graduates are admitted to their degrees, a graduation hood, which has a colour symbolizing a particular degree, is placed over each graduate's head.

ENTRANCE

Graduands in their academic dress march in procession into the ceremony in the following order: graduands in the order in which their degrees are to be conferred; faculty; board of governors; senate; guests of honour; the president; the chancellor; the lieutenant governor. When the members of convocation reach their places they remain standing during the Vice-Regal Salute, the singing of “O Canada” and the invocation.

ORDER OF THE CEREMONY

The first business is the conferring of honorary degrees, followed by convocation address, president’s statement to the graduands, the conferring of degrees and the presentation of awards. The meeting is closed by the chancellor rising and leading the procession in the reverse order out of the hall.

THE PETITION

The university secretary on behalf of all the candidates, addresses the chancellor and senate in the following words:

“Eminent Chancellor, Mr. President, members of the University Senate and Board, I present to you the petition of the Council of this University that the candidates to be named, having fulfilled all the requirements of the bylaws, may, with your permission, be admitted to the degrees and certificates to which they are entitled”.

THE ADMISSION

The chancellor then addresses the candidates:

“By virtue of the authority vested in me by the legislature of this province, and with the consent of the council of this university, I consent to admit you to the degrees and certificates to which you are entitled and to invest you with all the powers, rights and privileges pertaining thereto.”

THE PRESENTATION

The university orator approaches the chancellor from the left and presents the candidates:

“Eminent Chancellor, on behalf of the faculty of _____, I present to you these scholars and ask that you will confer on them the degree of _____.”

Each candidate then comes forward and the degree hood is placed on his or her shoulders. As the orator speaks the candidate’s name in full, the candidate moves forward in front of the chancellor. Then the chancellor says, “I admit you”. Hereupon the candidate passes to the chancellor’s right, is greeted by the dean of the faculty, or designate, and receives the degree parchment.

DEGREES IN ABSENTIA

In such cases, the university secretary says:

“Eminent Chancellor, in the name of the faculties, I ask you to grant the degrees and certificates, in absentia, to those students who have met the requirements to graduate, but were not able to be present today.”

ACADEMIC DRESS

Academic dress lends an element of colourful pageantry to the convocation proceedings. This traditional clothing—worn on a daily basis at universities in earlier times—is now more commonly reserved for ceremonial functions.

At the University of Saskatchewan, the following academic dress is adopted to be worn upon all appropriate occasions: The gown resembles a long cape with full sleeve cut to elbow and terminating in a point for the bachelor’s degree; with long sleeve and a semi-circular cut at the bottom for the master’s degree; and with round open sleeves for the doctor’s degree. The material is black broadcloth for the bachelor’s, master’s and doctor’s degrees. The doctoral gown incorporates green and gold on the front and sleeve panels.

The hoods for the bachelor’s and master’s degrees are of black broadcloth. The master’s and doctor’s hoods have a lining and the bachelor’s an edging (and in some cases, a lining) of a color distinctive of the character of the degree.

Ph.D. hoods have a green satin lining with gold trim and the honorary degree hoods feature a white satin trim. A velvet Beefeater style hat with a green, gold and white tassel is also part of the doctoral dress.

ABORIGINAL CULTURE

At the U of S, we have one of the highest populations of Aboriginal students among Canadian post-secondary institutions. As indicated in our Third Integrated Plan, one of our most influential documents, it is important to us to include Indigenous knowledge and experience into our daily practices, curriculum and celebrations. At convocation, one of our most important celebrations, we display the Treaty No. 6 flag and sing an honour song.

TREATY FLAG

Represented on the Treaty No. 6 flag are the signatories of the treaty—the First Nations and the Queen’s representative. The signatories stand in front of a Treaty medal with the Union Jack in the background. First Nations Veterans adopted this flag and often bring it to powwows to show respect and to remind the younger generations that treaties were signed under this flag.

HONOUR SONG

These are special songs to demonstrate respect for an individual or group in recognition of their accomplishments such as a return from military service or other events. In some families, individuals have their own song, which is sung for them when they are being honoured.

Voices ring out at convocation ceremonies

Volunteer orators step up to the microphone

Thirteen orators have been selected through an audition process to read out the names of degree recipients as they receive their parchments. The recruits hail from all parts of campus and perform a wide range of roles throughout the U of S, but all are gifted with resonant voices, fine pronunciation skills and share a great attention to detail.

The post of university orator can be traced back hundreds of years to universities in the United Kingdom such as Oxford and Cambridge. Traditionally orators served as the official voice of the university, composing letters, giving speeches in Latin at ceremonial occasions and presenting candidates for honorary degrees.

A special thank you to the Drama Department and Natasha Martina for their assistance in the orator process.

WILLIAM (BILL) McKNIGHT

The Honourable William (Bill) McKnight, P.C., was born and raised in Wartime, Saskatchewan. He is fundamentally a farmer, entrepreneur, and a servant of the public. His prairie roots shaped him and his values. His lifetime of work is a reflection of these roots and values.

Mr. McKnight was in public life from 1979 to 1993 serving as a Member of Parliament for Kindersley-Lloydminster. He served as minister in seven federal ministries: Labour, Canada Mortgage and Housing Corporation, Indian Affairs and Northern Development, Western Economic Diversification, National Defence (during the first Gulf War), Agriculture, and Energy, Mines and Resources. Some of his accomplishments during this time included: representing Canada at First Ministers' conferences, NATO, the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT), and UN proceedings; negotiating the Husky Oil Bi-Provincial Upgrader and the $6-billion Hibernia Offshore Oil Project; serving as the first minister of the Department of Western Economic Diversification; and negotiating land claims settlements in the Yukon, Northwest Territories, and Saskatchewan.

Mr. McKnight's values and roots are reflected most profoundly in what he considers the touchstone accomplishment of his career – the 1992 Saskatchewan Treaty Land Entitlement Framework Agreement. Currently 2.5 million acres of land have been identified which will greatly enhance the economic opportunities for First Nations in Saskatchewan. Through it, an old obligation was fulfilled. It helped to move Saskatchewan from a dark period in its relations with First Nations to one where they were given the opportunity to transform their own futures. This is a reflection of Mr. McKnight's core values – seize the opportunities that present themselves, or provide opportunities for others so they can seize their own futures.

As the Treaty Commissioner for the Province of Saskatchewan from 2007 to 2012, Mr. McKnight was appointed and mandated by Canada and the Federation of Saskatchewan Indian Nations to assist with Treaty implementation. As Commissioner, he oversaw the curriculum addition of a resource guide for teachers of kindergarten through Grade 12 to teach about treaties in all Saskatchewan schools.

Since leaving public life in 1993, Mr. McKnight has been active in the private sector. He is founding board member and current chair of the Golden Opportunities Fund and director of several public and private companies. Mr. McKnight is the honorary Chief of the Muskeg Lake Cree Nation, a reflection of the high regard and respect accorded him by the Aboriginal community.

Mr. McKnight resides in Saskatoon with his wife, Bev. They have two children, Rob and Torrie.

Dr. Abuelaish has overcome many hardships, including poverty, violence, and the horrific tragedy of his three daughters' and niece's deaths in the 2009 Gaza War. His autobiography of this loss and subsequent transformation, I Shall Not Hate: A Gaza Doctor's Journey (2010), is an international best-seller published in 20 languages and is a testament to his commitment to forgiveness as the solution to conflict and the catalyst towards peace. He continues to live up to the description bestowed upon him by an Israeli colleague as a "magical, secret bridge between Israelis and Palestinians." He is now one of the most outspoken, prominent and beloved researchers, educators and public speakers on peace and development in the Middle East.

Many influential figures within the diplomatic community have spoken highly of Dr. Abuelaish's work. In nominating Dr. Abuelaish for the Nobel Peace Prize, the Belgian Parliament named him the "Martin Luther King of the Middle East." In his nomination for the Sakharov Prize, Dr. David Naylor, then President of the University of Toronto, called Dr. Abuelaish a remarkable ambassador for peace and an exemplar of forgiveness and reconciliation. President Barack Obama referred to him as an example of strength and reconciliation in his address on May 19, 2011, when he discussed the possibility of peace within the Middle East.

Dr. Abuelaish lives with his five children in Toronto where he is an associate professor at the Dalla Lana School of Public Health at the University of Toronto.

DON BATEMAN

Don Bateman is a corporate fellow and chief engineer-technologist for Flight Safety Systems and Technology in Advanced Technology Engineering for Honeywell in Redmond, Washington State. He heads a small team of scientists and engineers.

Mr. Bateman was born in Saskatoon and graduated from the University of Saskatchewan with the degree Bachelor of Science in Engineering - Electrical Engineering. Mr. Bateman's interest in aviation began at the age of five when his father took him to a "barnstormer" air show in the summer of 1937. Later as a youngster, he would pedal his bicycle to the airport to watch young Canadian Air Force recruits trying to obtain their flying wings in de Havilland Tiger Moths.

His first flight was a ride in a war-time de Havilland "Mosquito" and he forever became an addict to flying. Later in life he would get his own "wings" from the FAA, and followed through with an instrument rating and accumulated 2,100 flight hours of experience. He went to work for Boeing on the B-707 as a young avionic system designer and then moved to a small "start-up" company that eventually became Honeywell. Mr. Bateman is still employed today with 53 years of service with the same company.

As a child, Mr. Bateman witnessed a mid-air collision of two military training planes, leaving an indelible impression. In 1956 he became interested in flight safety accidents and became a pioneer in developing many flight instruments and systems.

Mr. Bateman is primarily recognized for developing and championing critical flight-safety sensors now used by aircraft worldwide, including ground proximity warning systems and wind-shear detection systems. Mr. Bateman and his colleagues have developed many aircraft instruments and safety devices for aircraft, and he has been the recipient of many flight safety awards.

Mr. Bateman holds more than 50 U.S. patents in the field of flight safety and was inducted into the National Inventors Hall of Fame in 2005. In 2007, the University of Saskatchewan honoured Mr. Bateman with the Alumni Association Award and named him one of the 100 Alumni of Influence, the latter as part of the university's Centennial activities. In 2011, Mr. Bateman was inducted into the Saskatchewan Aviation Hall of Fame, was inducted into the University of Saskatchewan's Engineering Wall of Distinction and was the guest lecturer at the C.J. Mackenzie Gala of Engineering Excellence. That same year he also received the U.S. Presidential Medal for Technology and Innovation from President Obama, the highest honour bestowed by the U.S. government on scientists, engineers and inventors.

Mr. Bateman is a Royal Aeronautical Society Fellow and a member of the American Institute of Aeronautics and Astronautics. He and his wife, Mary, reside near Seattle; they have five children and seven grandchildren.

HONORARY DOCTOR OF SCIENCE

LORNE A. BABIUK

Lorne Babiuk is an internationally recognized leader in Canadian vaccine research who has devoted his career to Canadian-based research aimed at safeguarding the health of people and animals at home and abroad. The vaccines that he was involved in developing have had a significant impact on the economy as well as reduced mortality and morbidity caused by infectious diseases.

Dr. Babiuk studied at the University of Saskatchewan, receiving the Bachelor of Science in Agriculture and Master of Science degrees. He received a Ph.D. in microbiology from the University of British Columbia. In 1987 he was awarded the Earned Doctor of Science degree from the University of Saskatchewan, and in 2007 he was named as one of the 100 Alumni of Influence as part of the university's Centennial celebrations.

He specializes in immunology, pathogenesis, virology, molecular virology, and vaccinology, and is a world expert in infectious diseases and their control, specifically by vaccination. He has published over 500 manuscripts, awarded 40 patents, and trained over 100 Ph.D. and post-doctoral fellows who have gone on to successful careers in academia, industry, and government.

Among his many honours, he is an Officer of the Order of Canada, a Fellow of the Infectious Disease Society of America, a Fellow of the Royal Society of Canada, and a Member of the European Academy of Sciences. Dr. Babiuk was also honoured to receive the Saskatchewan Order of Merit and to be inducted into the Saskatchewan Agricultural Hall of Fame. Dr. Babiuk was awarded the 2012 Canada Gairdner Wightman Award and in 2013 with the Killam Prize in health sciences.

Before taking up his position at the University of Alberta, Dr. Babiuk was the director of the Vaccine and Infectious Disease Organization (VIDO). During his time at VIDO, Dr. Babiuk built the organization into an international powerhouse carrying out major research in immunology, pathogenesis, virology, molecular virology, and vaccinology.

Dr. Babiuk resides in Edmonton with his wife, Betty Lou. He has two children, Shawn and Kimberley. Shawn and his spouse, Kristy, live in Winnipeg, and Kimberley and her spouse, Bryan, and their son, Tyler, live in Saskatoon.

ROSS KING

Ross King was born in Estevan, Saskatchewan, and raised in the nearby village of North Portal. He is one of seven children, all of whom attended university in the province. He graduated with a B.A. and an M.A. in English from the University of Regina. He did a Ph.D. at York University before completing postdoctoral studies at University College, London.

Dr. King is the author of six books on Italian, French and Canadian art and history. He has also published two historical novels, Domino (1995) and Ex-Libris (1998), and edited a collection of Leonardo da Vinci's fables, jokes and riddles. Translated into more than a dozen languages, his books have been nominated for a National Book Critics' Circle Award, the Charles Taylor Prize, and the National Award for Arts Writing. He has won both the Governor General's Award in Canada (for The Judgment of Paris) and the BookSense Non-Fiction Book of the Year in the United States (for Brunelleschi's Dome).

His latest book, Leonardo and The Last Supper, was awarded the 2012 Governor General's Award for Non-Fiction. He is married to the writer and historian Melanie King, and they have lived for many years in the historic town of Woodstock, near Oxford in England.

Largely educated in Saskatchewan, Dr. King has become one of Canada's most widely recognised writers. What makes him unique is his apparently easy combination of deft storytelling and serious scholarship. A true public scholar, he teaches through delight, often giving tours and lectures in Italy, France or Canadian and American art museums, and raising funds for the conservation of Italian Renaissance art. He understands his subject matter deeply.

Patiently and with great clarity, he conveys to readers the most abstruse details, such as the engineering problems and solutions that are at the core of his work on Brunelleschi. He understands the technical problems Renaissance painters faced when mixing colours and the particular challenges of work in fresco.

He also has a feeling for the psychology of such diverse personalities as Leonardo, Michelangelo and Brunelleschi. As Time magazine has stated, he has made a career out of elucidating pivotal moments in the history of art, and in placing iconic artworks within their complicated and often turbulent historical contexts.

RENÉ DRUCKER-COLÍN

René Drucker-Colín was born in Mexico City in 1937. He obtained his B.Sc. at the Universidad Nacional Autónoma de México (UNAM) in 1962, his M.Sc. at Northern Illinois University in 1964, and his Ph.D. in Physiology at the University of Saskatchewan in 1971. Dr. Drucker-Colín is best known for his life-long interest in the brain mechanisms regulating the sleep-wake cycle and in employing the technique of implanting stem cells into brain tissue to restore lost function in neurodegenerative diseases. He is the author of over 280 neuroscience articles.

In the 1970s, Dr. Drucker-Colín demonstrated that peptides were involved in the regulation of sleep, a revolutionary finding since the emphasis had been exclusively on classical neurotransmitters. His work provoked a flurry of studies revealing the complexity of the neurochemical regulation of sleep. He was the first to use c-fos as a marker to demonstrate that a wide variety of structures get activated during REM sleep, allowing a better understanding of the neural circuitry involved in sleep regulation.

Dr. Drucker-Colín was the first to demonstrate that transplants were useful to understand the biological clock. He found that following destruction of the suprachiasmatic nucleus, circadian rhythms could be re-induced by transplanting fetal cells. This led to clinical investigations in which he transplanted dopamine-producing fetal cells into Parkinson's patients. Though controversial, those studies provided an enormous stimulus to the idea that diseased cells could be replaced by healthy fetal tissue thereby restoring function. Recently, he has been the first to show that adult stem cells can be differentiated within the subventricular zone. This could lead to exciting new avenues of research towards the treatment of Parkinson's disease (PD), including, for example, Transcranial Magnetic Stimulation, which he has used to help reduce some of the symptoms of PD.

In the past few years he has studied the effects of nicotine on depression and sleep, demonstrating the possible usefulness of nicotine to treat depression and its associated alterations of sleep.

For the last 15 years Dr. Drucker-Colín has played an important role through his many presentations and articles that make the technical aspects and complex concepts of neuroscience accessible and interesting to the general public. He has also persistently pressed the Mexican government to invest more in science. For these activities, he was awarded the 2011 Kalinga UNESCO prize for the Popularization of Science.

PRESIDENT'S SERVICE AWARD

MARLENE FEHR

For the past 39 years, Marlene Fehr has given her time and energy to educating University of Saskatchewan students, supporting research and sharing her expertise beyond the borders of campus, all of which make her most worthy of recognition. But it is her absolute dedication to the comfort and health of the university's Greenbrae dairy herd that helped earn Ms. Fehr the President's Service Award.

Over her exemplary career with the dairy research, teaching and outreach programs in the Department of Animal and Poultry Science, Ms. Fehr held a number of positions, all of which involved primary responsibility for the herd. She is known to be uncompromising in ensuring the animals receive expert care, knowing as she does that dairy research requires cows that are performing at the top industry standard. As one nominator pointed out, Ms. Fehr's animals-first approach meant innumerable "unsocial hours responding to cows that do not respect an eight-hour work day."

Managing a dairy herd requires in-depth knowledge of, among others, biology, animal health, biostatistics, economics, pharmacology and nutrition. Managing a research herd presents even more of a challenge, with cows constantly being subjected to novel and previously untested diet formulations along with various health and handling regimes. It is therefore a testament to Ms. Fehr's animal management skills that the university's Greenbrae herd is consistently ranked among the top five herds in the province by the Canadian Dairy Herd Improvement Program, and took top ranking in Saskatchewan in both 2007 and 2013.

Ms. Fehr has been a tireless supporter of faculty in the organization and conduct of animal experiments, and over her tenure, has assisted virtually every graduate student working with cows and calves. She has organized and delivered undergraduate laboratories that provide students with experiential learning opportunities and direct exposure to animal production systems. She also spent years leading Grade 2 students on tours of the university farm and continues to spend time with the 1,200 or so local, national and international visitors to the farm.

Ms. Fehr recently oversaw the relocation of the herd to the new Rayner Dairy Research and Teaching Facility on campus, and with that project complete, she plans to retire. All those who have worked with her know she is a key component of the department's teaching, research and outreach, and a most worthy recipient of the President's Service Award.

CHELSEA WILLNESS

Chelsea Willness is an assistant professor and Grandey Scholar in Sustainable Leadership at the Edwards School of Business. She is also associate faculty at the School of Environment and Sustainability, and a research associate with the Community-University Institute for Social Research. She is a passionate champion of community-engaged scholarship.

Dr. Willness holds two national research grants (SSHRC) for her research focusing on how stakeholders respond to organizations' environmental practices and community involvement, and has published this work in top journals and book chapters. She is also co-investigator on a $2.5 million SSHRC Partnership grant examining Community First: Impacts of Community Engagement. She has presented her research on topics such as environmental and social responsibility, organizational reputation, and community-based experiential learning to local, national, and international audiences.

Dr. Willness has successfully developed and implemented dozens of innovative, in-depth applied projects for students in her training and development, recruitment and selection, and leadership courses, via partnerships that she has developed between the university and numerous community organizations.

One achievement of which she is most proud was the creation of a new course—the governance and leadership development practicum—and the formation of her advisory council. This course is centered on an eight-month partnership between students and non-profit board mentors, and involves extensive leadership development, interactive seminars (on fundamentals of governance, strategy, financials, and talent management), and active involvement with the organization and its board. Dr. Willness adopted a stakeholder engagement approach by identifying key constituents such as non-profit organizations, current and former students, faculty colleagues and governance experts, and ensured that they each had a “voice” at the table. Each stakeholder group has ongoing representation on the advisory council to ensure that their needs and goals are reflected in the course structure, content, and implementation.

Dr. Willness provides ongoing mentorship to other educators, both internal and external to the University of Saskatchewan, through a variety of presentations, seminars, and workshops. In 2012-13, she served as the special advisor on community engaged scholarship for the School of Environment and Sustainability. She is a member of the Community Engaged Scholar group, centered at Station 20 West, which aims to build collaborations and increase community-based teaching and research across the university. In 2012, Dr. Willness was awarded the Innovation in Teaching Award from the Academy of Management for her design and implementation of human resource courses that integrate community involvement and experiential learning.

KENNETH (KEN) ROSAASEN

Kenneth (Ken) Rosaasen has earned the reputation of a well-respected educator, analyst, presenter and leader on agricultural economic issues affecting Western Canada, particularly Saskatchewan.

Soon after earning his Bachelor of Science in Agriculture and Master of Science degrees from the University of Saskatchewan, Mr. Rosaasen began teaching in the College of Agriculture and Bioresources, working his way to the position of tenured professor in the Department of Bioresource Policy, Business and Economics. He has been a professional agrolgist since 1972.

In his 34 years at the university, Mr. Rosaasen has put on thousands of miles travelling throughout the province to speak about agricultural economic issues to a seemingly endless number of communities—large and small. There are likely not many Saskatchewan farmers not familiar with Mr. Rosaasen and his work.

As both a farmer and academic, Mr. Rosaasen not only explains agricultural economics and policy to farmers, he is also able to bring farmers' ideas, innovations and concerns back to the academic world, ensuring that their interests and expertise are understood and incorporated into research, teaching and policy formation.

The most significant outreach work Mr. Rosaasen performs is the creation and continued development of Market Prospects, a series of annual broadcasts that has aired on CTV's Farm Gate in Saskatchewan since 1984. These shows give farmers, agribusiness professionals, academics and those interested in agriculture timely commodity market and outlook information prior to spring planting.

Mr. Rosaasen coordinates topics, guest analysts and world-class experts, and the broadcast schedule for the show. He also secures funding from a variety of industry and government partnerships and sponsorships.

Tens of thousands of viewers have come to rely on the program for timely market information, and its influence continues to expand with the program now being posted online.

Mr. Rosaasen's expertise and community outreach has contributed greatly to the success of individual farmers, specific agricultural sectors such as flax and canola producers, and the agricultural industry as a whole.

His studies on the beef industry in Western Canada and the economic impact of the elimination of the CROW subsidy are widely read and cited. More recently, Mr. Rosaasen has visited several Saskatchewan communities to discuss post-single desk grain marketing.

Mr. Rosaasen's ongoing outreach activities, and his influence and contributions to the agricultural industry in Western Canada, make him a deserving recipient for the University of Saskatchewan's Award for Distinction in Outreach and Public Service.

GRAHAM GEORGE

The Distinguished Researcher Award recognizes a faculty member's contributions to scholarship through the creation, expansion and critique of knowledge. Graham George, professor in the Department of Geological Sciences and Canada Research Chair in X-ray Absorption Spectroscopy, is the 2014 recipient.

An exceptional and internationally recognized researcher, Dr. George has made a wide range of seminal and significant contributions to instrumentation and synchrotron science over the past three decades. Early in his career, he developed software that analyzed X-ray absorption spectroscopy (XAS) that continues to be used at synchrotrons worldwide.

Since joining the University of Saskatchewan (U of S) in 2004, Dr. George's work has greatly enhanced the global reputation of the Canadian Light Source (CLS) synchrotron. He is the principal investigator on the CLS's BioXAS beamline, a project that has attracted more than $20 million in funding since 2006 and has proven to be a tremendously important resource for both the Canadian and international scientific communities.

He regularly acts as a consultant for synchrotron facilities around the world, and has given nearly 60 invited lectures and conference presentations to professional and academic groups globally.

His work has also contributed to the understanding of metalloenzyme diseases (such as Prion and Wilson disease) and toxic metals and metalloids in the natural environment. This includes studies of plants being considered for phytoremediation, understanding the chemical form of mercury found in fish, and a broad-based research program that examines the metal deposition in numerous living creatures, ranging from fish embryos to humans. His work in this area is informing nutritional guidelines and has major implications for human health and environmental toxicology.

Dr. George is also a prolific scientific author, with more than 250 career publications—many of which have appeared in some of the world's most prominent scientific journals. In total, his papers have been cited more than 9,000 times.

Prior to joining the U of S in 2004, Dr. George worked for Exxon Research and Engineering Co. and for 11 years at the Stanford Synchrotron Radiation Laboratory (1992-2003).

He received his Doctor of Philosophy from the University of Sussex (U.K.) School of Chemistry and Molecular Sciences in 1983.

RONALD C.C. CUMING

Ronald C.C. Cuming joined the College of Law in 1966, having received a B.A. and LL.B. from the University of Saskatchewan and a graduate degree in law from Columbia University. During his time at the college he has become an internationally recognized expert in secured financing, leasing, and insolvency law, and has shared this expertise with countless law students as well as many national and international organizations. His reputation as a teacher and scholar has been described as “legendary,” and he has received numerous awards for both teaching and research.

Mr. Cuming exemplifies the best attributes of the teacher-scholar model. A leading expert in his field of commercial law, he has played a key role in the development and analysis of the areas of law that he teaches. Students in his classes know that they have the great good fortune of learning from a true master of the subjects. His enthusiasm for these subjects is also apparent and infectious. Words like “excitement,” “passion,” and “engagement” are often used to describe the experience and effect of his teaching. Mr. Cuming has inspired generations of students to pursue careers in commercial law, including some who have become leading scholars and jurists in the field.

The many letters written by former students in support of his nomination for this award speak to Mr. Cuming’s exceptional ability to explain complex, technical, and difficult material, and to make it accessible to students whatever their background or prior knowledge. He encourages critical analysis by exploring the limits of the law and its interpretation, and has been using various forms of “active learning” since long before that phrase became a popular buzzword in teaching and learning. His approach is effective in fostering students’ ability not only to understand the current law as it applies to practical situations they will encounter in their legal practice, but also to become independent critical thinkers who can themselves contribute to the analysis and progressive development of the law.

An expert of Mr. Cuming’s stature might often be intimidating to students, but he is also known for his approachable, patient, and compassionate manner. His willingness to support both current and former students as they wrestle with challenging areas of the law is deeply appreciated and extends his influence well beyond the classroom. With this outstanding combination of personal and professional qualities, this Master Teacher continues to make a lasting impact on our students and our community.

These medals are awarded to the undergraduate and graduate students with the highest academic standings.

GOLD MEDALS

JOHN ANDERSON McLEOD

John McLeod was born in Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario, in 1984. He received a B.A.Sc. Honours degree in engineering science from the University of Toronto in 2007. John received a M.Sc. and a Ph.D. in physics from the University of Saskatchewan in 2010 and 2013, respectively, while working under Professor Moewes' supervision.

John used soft X-ray synchrotron radiation and computer simulations in his doctoral research to study the electronic structure of advanced materials. John has been the recipient of several awards and scholarships during his Ph.D. studies, including holding a NSERC CGSD-3 scholarship. He has presented his research at several international conferences and has authored or co-authored 23 peer-reviewed papers.

John is currently an associate professor at the College of Nano Science and Technology of Soochow University, Suzhou, Jiangsu, China.

MATTHEW GRAHAM LINKS

Matthew was born in Saskatoon, Saskatchewan. His early interest in bioinformatics stemmed from witnessing his family and friends' focus in the biomedical and computational sciences, and guidance from his brother who recognized the emerging field of bioinformatics. Matthew did his undergraduate degree in computer science and biochemistry at the University of Saskatchewan. He then used both laboratory and in silico experiments to explore how information is encoded in eukaryotic genomes during his M.Sc. studies with Dr. William Crosby at the University of Windsor.

In his Ph.D. thesis, with Dr. Janet Hill, Matthew evaluated the use of DNA sequence barcodes for Bacteria, and developed novel computational methods to assemble barcodes from natural microbial communities, enabling the discovery of novel microbes. Application of these methods to the microbial communities associated with crop seeds led Matthew to identify bacteria that could be isolated from wheat and used to protect canola seeds from spoilage by fungal pathogens. The computational foundations Matthew built for profiling microbial communities have been applied in studies to identify beneficial microbes associated with microbial enhanced oil recovery, anaerobic digestion as well as the health of plants, animals and humans.

Matthew is excited to be part of numerous multidisciplinary research teams in a mutual pursuit of science. He is the bioinformatics study leader at Agriculture and AgriFood Canada in Saskatoon, and an adjunct faculty member in the Department of Computer Science at the University of Saskatchewan.
