PREAMBLE

God (Allah) created women and men to be intimate with each other through the bond of marriage. The religion of Islam gives a great deal of importance to family, as a union of a man and a woman that makes the unit block to create a virtuous society and to raise righteous children. Marriage is the Sunnah (tradition) practiced by the Prophet Muhammad and Messengers of God before him, may peace and prayers be on them all. God (Allah) says In the Qur'an [30:21]: "And among His signs is this, that He created for you mates (wives/husbands) from among yourselves, that you may dwell in tranquility with them, and He has put love and mercy between your (hearts); verily in that are signs for those who reflect." Islam places love, mercy, affection, selflessness and keenness to make one's spouse the happiest ever at the foundation of the union between a woman and a man.

Yet the beauty of the Islamic law rests in its ability to combine faith with civics, spirit with material and ideals with the practical. With all its warmth and affection marriage is defined in Shari'ah as a civil contract between two parties, a woman and a man. According to Shari'ah, a marriage contract is a contract on intimacy between a woman who would become the Wife and a man who would become the Husband; it requires co-living and kind and mannered treatment on the part of each one of them. Like other civil contracts prescribed by, or compatible with Shari'ah, marriage has its legalities besides being a blessed relationship of mutual love, mercy and support. This is why there is a need for a marriage contract whenever a Muslim man and a woman enter in this dignified and affection/warmth-based intimacy contract. In most Muslim countries all legalities related to this contract is taken care of within the family laws that lay down the terms of reference of a brief marriage contract. Whenever there are no Islamic family laws, a need arises for a detailed marriage contract like this.

NOW THEREFORE, for and in consideration of their forthcoming marriage to each other, the vows expressed therein and the benefits conferred and detriments suffered in this Agreement, Bride and Groom agree as follows:

The Preamble and Recitals are part of this contract, and:

ARTICLE I: ADHERENCE TO SHARI'AH

We, [.....] and [.....], bride and groom desire, agree, conclude and announce that our marriage contract, certificate and marital relations, including any dispute and dissolution, God forbid, shall always be practiced, ruled, regulated, governed and dominated by the Islamic Values, tenets and principles as manifested in the Islamic Law known as Shari'ah.

ARTICLE II: MAHR

1. Mahr or Sadaq is a contractual gift from husband to his beloved wife as a part of the Marriage Contract. Shari'ah requires that every marriage contract must have a Mahr as one of its components. We therefore hereby agree, announce and acknowledge that the Mahr, or Sadaq, of our marriage, as agreed upon between us shall be the amount of [.....] US Dollars (US$-----). The Mahr becomes owed by the husband to the wife upon signing the marriage contract.
2. Of this Mahr, the amount of [.....] is payable in cash on the day of performing the marriage upon signing the marriage contract or certificate; and the remainder amount of [.....] is postponed.
3. This remainder or unpaid part of the Mahr in the amount of [.....] shall be a debt on the Husband [.....] to the Wife [.....]. In accordance with Shari'ah, We agree that this remainder of the Mahr is due and must be paid upon the death of either of us or at divorce, God forbid. However, the husband may opt and decide to pay it at any time, in such a case the wife shall accept such payment and release the husband from this debt.

ARTICLE III: HOUSEHOLD MAINTENANCE

1. Shari'ah also requires that the husband alone be responsible for all the household expenses and the personal expenses of his wife. He will have to spend in accordance with his income, wealth and other resources, as Allah does not ordain a person to do except what is in a person's capacity and ability [the Qur'an 2: 233 and 286]. The groom _____ knows, acknowledges, understands, accepts and agrees to undertake this responsibility and we, the groom and the bride hereby agree that once we perform our marriage the husband shall provide for all household expenses and maintenance including but not limited to the personal expenses of his wife and children, that he will fulfill this commitment and undertake this charge to the best of his ability and within the limits of his income, wealth, resources and assets regardless of whether his wife works or not, earns income or not, and/or has expendable assets or not.

2. However, if by her own will and desire and without pressure from her husband the wife _____ decides to pay for any of the household and personal needs and expenses of herself, the children and even her husband, this is considered a voluntary contribution from her, rewarded in the Hereafter, God willing, and appreciated by her husband in this worldly life. In such a case, she has no right, at the time she spends or at any future time to claim, seek and/or ask for any material or monetary compensation or reimbursement for such voluntary payments and expenses whether from her husband, his agent, his guardian or personal representative, or from his estate.

She always has the full and complete right to abstain and discontinue such voluntary spending or to require that every thing she spends shall be considered debts on the Husband, payable in any determined or undetermined future date. If her Husband agrees to this indebtedness she may spend and hold records of her debts on her Husband. Such debts shall be paid from his estate if he dies not pay them earlier.

ARTICLE IV: INHERITANCE

1. Bride and groom each one alone and together agree, announce, declare and accept that the distribution of the estate of the deceased spouse must be done exactly and only in accordance with the Shari'ah system of inheritance as given in details in the Last Will and Testament, the Schedule of Mawarith posted on the website pages of either ISNA (Islamic Society of North America, Inc. of Indiana) currently at www.isna.net or Monzer Kahf, presently at www.kahf.net.
2. The groom hereby waives and releases any share in all joint and community properties and in the personal property of his deceased wife he may otherwise be entitled to by laws of the state in which his wife dies, or where the estate property or any part therefrom may then be located, in favor of the distribution in accordance with the Islamic inheritance system as mentioned in section IV-1 regardless of whether the Islamic distribution allows him bigger or smaller share.
3. The bride hereby waives and releases any share in the joint and community property and in the personal property of her deceased husband she may otherwise be entitled to by laws of the state in which her husband die, or where the estate property or any part therefrom may then be located, in favor of the distribution in accordance with the Islamic inheritance system as mentioned in section IV-1 regardless of whether the Islamic distribution allows her bigger or smaller share.

4. Should any disputes then arise with regard to estate distribution, it must be resolved in accordance with the clauses of the Schedule of Mawarith by ISNA Fiqh Council of North America. We hereby agree that a written determination of ISNA Fiqh Council of North America as for the distribution of the estate must be considered final and binding to all concerned persons and we ask any court of competent jurisdiction to uphold such determination.
5. Specifically and especially, we hereby agree. Announce, declare, and accept that:
 - a. The share of the wife in the estate of her husband, should he die before her must always be equal to one half of the share of the husband in the estate of his wife, should she die before him; and,
 - b. As one half of any and all joint and community properties belongs to the deceased spouse, we agree, consent and ordain that one half of any and all joint and community properties existing at the time of death of either one of us must be treated with regard to inheritance as if the deceased spouse separately owned it. Hence, it must be distributed to the deceased's heirs as defined and determined in the Islamic law as depicted by the Schedule of Mawarith, including surviving spouse, as being inherited in accordance with Shari'ah.
 - c. Accordingly, each one of us hereby consents, agrees and accepts that no part of This half of community and/or joint properties may pass on to the surviving spouse except for the part of estate that upon distribution in accordance with section IV-1 falls within the surviving spouse's Shari'ah-determined share in the estate of the deceased; or if it is in implementation of a written consent from all other heirs who are entitled to any shares in the deceased's estate.

ARTICLE V: CUSTODY AND GUARDIANSHIP OF MINOR CHILDREN

Bride and groom hereby acknowledge and consent that, since Shari'ah considers care provision, custody and guardianship as the absolute right of minors, rather than of adults, we agree that in case of divorce, God forbid, and/or death of either one of us or of both of us, the following Shari'ah principles should be applied to the care provision, custody and guardianship of our children:

1. Under no circumstances guardianship/custody of any of our minor children may be given to non-Muslims regardless of their relation to the minors and their love, care and affection for them. Hence, whenever, a potential custodian/guardian is or becomes non-Muslim, custody/guardianship goes to the next one.

2. We also specifically express our absolute and uncompromised desire and determination that our children must be raised as Muslims and must know that their parents were Muslims too. They must be taught the Islamic values and system of ethics and educated and raised to believe in the Oneness of God, the Day of Judgment and the Prophethood of His Messenger Muhammad, pbuh, and to practice prayers and other Islamic forms of worship and to appreciate the Islamic values and practice their implications.
3. The guardian/custodian care provider of our minor children must be their mother provided that all the following four conditions are satisfied: 1)- she is then Muslim, 2)- she remains unmarried and lives either alone or with a close relative (not outside the following: her parents, grandparents, uncles/aunts, sisters/brothers, children) or she is married to a brother of the children's father, 3)- she is then physically, mentally and legally fit and competent to provide the minor children with adequate care and custody, proper up-bringing, and especially Islamic education, and, 4)- she is then willing to take the responsibility as a guardian/custodian/care provider.
4. Should the children's mother not exist or any of these conditions be unsatisfied or laps at any time, custody/guardianship/Care provision goes to the children maternal grandmother provided all the following four conditions are satisfied: 1)- she is then Muslim, 2)- she is then single or married to the children grandfather, 3)- she is then physically, mentally and legally fit to provide the children with proper care, adequate up-bringing, and especially Islamic education, and, 4)- she is then willing to take the responsibility as a guardian/ custodian/care provider.
5. Should the maternal grandmother not exist or should any of the above conditions be unsatisfied or laps after custody is granted, guardianship/custody/care provider goes to the paternal grandmother under the same conditions.
6. The next in line for custody/guardianship/care provider is any of the children adult sisters, then maternal aunts, then paternal aunts, in this order, subject to the conditions 1-4 of section V-3 (except the sentence 'or married to a brother of the children's father'), then, custody/guardianship goes to the children's father, any adult brother, then paternal grandfather.
7. When there is no female to take charge of the custody/guardianship/care provision of our minor children, then custody/guardianship/care provision goes to the children's father, then any adult brother, then paternal grandfather.
8. If none of the above is possible, the Arbitrator named in Article VII of this agreement shall select a Muslim custodian/guardian/care provider. The Arbitrator must give priority, in sequence, to mother, then maternal grandmother, then paternal grandmother, then adult sister, then maternal aunt then paternal aunt even with lack of satisfaction of the marriage condition.

9. Except for the father, any guardian/custodian/care provider of minor children is entitled to a child support for her/himself and for the minor children in her/his custody. Child support is a duty and responsibility of the children's father. If the children's father doesn't exist or he is financially unable, it is then payable from the wealth/income of the minor children themselves, then from the children's parental grandfather, then adult brothers. The amount of such child support shall be determined by the Arbitrator named in Article VII on the basis of the standard of living of the minor children and their custodian/care provider before divorce or death and the financial ability of the payer of the child and custodian support.
10. Mother, father, grandparents from both sides, sisters and brothers have Visitation rights with minor children regardless under whose custody/guardianship they live. The Arbitrator named in Article VII shall determine the frequency and duration of visits. The Arbitrator shall also decide on the rare cases of denied visitation on the ground of protecting the minor children from any potential physical or psychological harm that may be caused by such visits.
11. Custody/guardianship of mother, grandmothers father and paternal grandfather covers provision of care, raising, upbringing and educating the minors; it also covers the management of minor children's properties. In the case of other guardians/custodians, the management of the minor's property shall be held in the hands of the minor's father if available and legally fit, then it goes to paternal grandfather, then to a custodian/guardian of properties to be appointed by the Arbitrator with preference to adult sisters or brothers.
12. If mother, father or a grandmother is the custodian/guardian, Custody/guardianship continues until the minor completes 18 years of age, as long as the four conditions mentioned above are satisfied (except that the condition of marriage does not apply to the father),, regardless of the minor's sex. However, other custodians/guardians shall surrender the minor on request to one of the parents or grandparents, at the same sequence mentioned in Sections 3 -7 of this Article, upon completing 12 years of age provided the conditions of custody as mentioned in this article are satisfied..
13. Dead or alive, we do not permit our minor children to be available for adoption by any person, Muslim or non-Muslim, nor to be placed under the fostering of non-Muslims
14. All other cases and all details related to custody/guardianship shall be referred to the Arbitrator whose decision shall be final, binding and uncontestable.

ARTICLE VI: SEPARATION OF PROPERTIES

1. Full Disclosure of Separate Property and Income. Bride and groom each covenants and represent to the other that she or he has disclosed to the other the nature, extent and value of her or his various assets, interests, sources of income and income for the past three (3) years. By execution of this Agreement, Bride and groom each acknowledges receipt of the other's financial information and confirms that she or he has reviewed such information, fully understands the nature and approximate value of said assets and has conducted whatever investigation and made whatever inquiries deemed necessary concerning such information.

4. Release by Each of Assets of the Other Acquired by Gift or Inheritance During Marriage. If either party acquires additional property during marriage by gift, devise, inheritance, or trust distribution, then each party agrees that property received during marriage in this manner, together with appreciation therein, income therefrom, and assets purchased with the income thereof or proceeds therefrom (hereinafter collectively referred to as the "Inherited Property") shall be the sole and separate property of the recipient.
5. Release by Each Party of Other Assets Acquired During Marriage. Bride and groom hereby waive, release and relinquish all right, title, estate and interest, statutory or otherwise, in any and all assets acquired by the other in such other party's separate name during marriage, including but not limited to any and all assets which are acquired by the other with income from employment, business ventures and assets or any other source, earned by the other in that party's separate name during marriage, from sources other than assets owned by the other at the time of the marriage or assets which are inherited or given to the other, or the proceeds from the sale or disposition of such assets together with the income thereof or proceeds therefrom.

However, Bride and groom do not waive, release and relinquish the right to homestead, exempt property, the right or preference to act as personal representative of the testate or intestate estate of the other, which either may acquire under present or future law as the spouse, widow or widower, heir-at-law, next-of-kin in any property or asset subject to this Agreement of the other spouse at the other spouse's death.
7. Properties and assets is Both Our Names: Bride and groom hereby agree and decide that one half of every and all properties and assets we together or either one of us voluntarily record in both our names or is owned by us together must be treated as being owned by one of us while the other one half is owned by the other. This half/half division of community and joint property must be considered as owned separately and independently by each one of us especially for the purpose of distribution and division of assets at the death of either one of us or at divorce regardless of who paid to acquire such properties or whose savings, assets or income were used to nourish and maintain them or whether one of us paid more or less than the other. Any excess above the one half paid by one of us is hereby declared and considered as a gift to the other spouse given in accordance with Shari'ah. Debts on such properties that are in both our names are also shared the same way half/half. Whether such property is real estates, bank accounts, investments, business, interests in any corporation or property, insurance policies, personal properties, etc.
8. Voluntary Transfers Permitted. The purpose of this Agreement is to limit certain rights of each party in the assets of his or her spouse in the event of death, separation or divorce, but this Agreement shall not be construed as placing any limitation on the rights of either party to make voluntary inter vivos and testamentary transfers of his or her assets to his or her spouse¹ or voluntarily to name the other as Executrix or Executor under his or her will. If the couple is not sure that the surviving spouse will make such distribution this sentence must be removed from the agreement.

her present or any future Will prior to or in contemplation of or subsequently to the marriage, and each agrees that said Will, and any Codicil thereto, shall not be deemed revoked by marriage and/or the subsequent birth of children of said marriage. It is further agreed that the subsequent designation of either party as a legatee, devisee, or beneficiary of the other, either under Will or otherwise, shall not be construed as an amendment of this Agreement, as a waiver or relinquishment of any rights hereunder, or as creating any obligation from one party to the other aside from the obligations herein contained.

ARTICLE VII: DISPUTE AND DIVORCE

Since the Shari'ah is not the law of the land in our country _____ or in our state of _____, we hereby agree, announce, declare and accept that any disputes, differences or disagreements, including divorce, divorce settlement, alimony, inheritance, custody and guardianship of our minor children and all and any other matters whatsoever, that may arise in the future between us must be solved and settled in accordance with the guidance of the Qur'an and the Sunnah [Tradition] of the Prophet Muhammad peace and prayers be upon him and under the light of Shari'ah as being derived therefrom, first between ourselves alone, then with help of families and friends, and finally by arbitration as stated in this article.

2. We hereby agree, announce, declare and nominate that our appointed and agreed-upon Arbitrator in any such disputes is the Fiqh Committee or Council of The Islamic Center Nearest to our residence at the time when needed. If this appointed Arbitrator was not available our successor appointed and agreed upon Arbitrator shall be the Fiqh Committee or Council of any other Islamic Center we together choose. If we do not then agree on any given Islamic Center, Our mandatory appointed and agreed upon Arbitrator shall be the Fiqh committee of the Islamic Center of _____ at _____ Street, the City of _____, the State of _____ or of its successor. If the said Islamic Center or its successor does not exist or it doesn't have a Fiqh Committee or Council, We agree and accept that the Islamic Society of North America, Inc. of Indiana or its successor be declared and accepted as our appointed agreed-upon and mandatory Arbitrator. This provision shall be considered as a binding agreement to submit to arbitration in accordance with the Uniform Arbitration Act, T.C.A. §29-5-301 et seq
3. The determinations and/or decisions of the Arbitrator shall be final and binding to both and each party, bride and groom today and husband and wife in the future and final and binding too to all persons of concern to our marital relationship and we hereby ask and request any court of justice in the United States and anywhere in the world to accept, honor and uphold the determinations and decisions of the Arbitrator in full as final and binding to all.

Talaq and Khul’: Bride and groom agree between themselves that while Shari’ah stipulates that Talaq is a right on hand of the husband, Shari’ah also provides Khul’ as a right of the wife. Both of them are most undesired and hated by God, the Lord of the Worlds. Additionally, the wife has the right to force Talaq on her husband through the Arbitrator in cases of any personal or financial abuse of the wife, ill treatment, violation of the wife’s rights, person or integrity or the Shari’ah principles of marriage and family values or lack of fulfillment of any of the conditions stipulated in this Contract. Also the husband has the right to seek a Talaq with loss of privileges from the Arbitrator on the basis of wife’s ill-treatment. Shari’ah gives the husband two chances to reverse his Talaq action. If these two chances are exhausted, the third Talaq becomes final. Since Talaq absolves the marriage contract and ends marriage and larital relationships, it results in financial cost to the husband, in addition to all other social and personal consequences. Upon pronouncing the Talaq, the husband does not only bring an end to his marriage, but also puts himself under legal obligation to pay the following: 1) the deferred part of the Mahr; 2) end of marriage support for three month if there is no pregnancy or until giving birth in case of pregnancy; 3) minor and mother support if she is the care provider to minor children; and 4) any compensation agreed upon in this agreement under Article VIII.

Wife can, through the Arbitrator, force a Talaq on her husband with or without damage paid her in any of the cases mentioned in this section.

Khul’ is the right of the wife who wants to end the marriage and is willing to financially compensate her husband up to a maximum amount that is equal to the total of both parts of the Mahr.

Bride and groom hereby agree that in case of dissolving the marriage contract through on-hand Talaq or forced Talaq the Arbitrator has the right to impose and enforce on the husband an additional compensation for any damage afflicted on the wife. They also agree that such damage shall be payable in addition to all and any of the four items mentioned above. Such damage may include living maintenance up to a ‘life-time’ or ‘until rehabilitation to work and actually having a job’ if the wife was full time housewife and has no means nor persons to support her sustenance expenses.² In such a case the support for the first three month shall be incorporated and the decision on maintenance expenses and its revision from time to time are the sole right of the Arbitrator. They also agree that the Arbitrator shall determine the amount of compensation due to the husband in case of Khul' within a maximum equal to the amount of the Mahr.

² Since a wife is not obligated to serve her house, husband and children, the Arbitrator may decide to consider her voluntary work as a full time housewife as a kind of employment that may qualify her to entitlement of end-of-service compensation. Additionally, this condition may be stipulated in Article VIII.

Right to Property Settlement in the Event of Separation or Divorce. Bride and groom each agrees with the other that this Agreement and the mutual releases given by each to the other with respect to the assets listed in Sections 3, 4, and 5 of Article VI shall apply and shall constitute the division of said property and the settlement of their rights therein in the event that either party institutes against the other a divorce proceeding, a proceeding for permanent or temporary separation, or a proceeding for separate maintenance and support. Each party agrees with the other that in such event, she or he will not seek, in any such proceeding, to enforce or claim any rights in the assets listed in said Sections 3, 4, and 5 of Article VI or seek to divide or settle rights in said assets in any manner other than that provided herein. Both parties further agree with each other that each will not assert or claim any other rights in or to the assets listed in Sections 3, 4, and 5 of Article VI, whether owned prior to marriage or acquired during marriage, even in case such properties may have been mixed together or used by both parties or by the non-owner party, whether now or hereafter given by applicable law, which are inconsistent with the terms of this Agreement.

Groom and Bride further agree to waiver any right to such assets and properties even if the laws then applicable grant such rights. In the event of a separation or divorce, and in the case of death of one of them both parties agree that all assets jointly owned by the parties with one another or recorded on both our names as community property shall be divided between them in equal shares.

- 6. Alimony. Although the parties contemplate a long and lasting marriage, terminated only by the death of one of the parties, they also recognize the possibility of divorce. If the marriage is terminated, regardless of which party is at fault or initiates such action and regardless of jurisdiction, venue, or location of such action, the parties hereby specifically agree that this Agreement, to the extent allowed by applicable law at the time of such divorce, shall serve as a bar or estoppel of the Wife or Husband to receive any alimony, whether pendente lite or permanent, from the other spouse; provided, however, that in the event of Talaq the groom/husband agrees to pay all his obligations as mentioned in Section VII-4 above in cash to the Wife upon receipt of her written waiver and release of all other alimony rights or claims.

ARTICLE VIII: SPECIAL CONDITIONS

Bride and groom each one alone and together agree, announce, declare and accept that the following conditions, although optional from the Shari'ah point of view, are agreed upon, consented and accepted by both of them; they are binding on each and both of them, as the Prophet, pbuh, emphasized that conditions in marriage are most worthy of fulfillment than all conditions. Consequently, we , husband and , wife hereby agree on the following special conditions:

- a. The Bride, as a Wife, has full right to pursue her education to whatever level she likes and the expenses of her education are considered an intrinsic ingredient of the household expenses.
