

Richard Shafer Scholarship Fund

"Everything the teacher does, as well as the manner in which he does it, incites the child to respond in some way or another and each response tends to set the child's attitude in some way or another." John Dewey How We Think (1933, .p59)

- Remember our 10th grade English class experience, all we learned about writing and world literature, our experiences as amateur thespians;
- Recognize the impact of what we learned, how that experience helped shape the adults we became, how fortunate we were to be exposed to state-of-the-art and cutting edge educational practices;
- Honor the teacher,
the educator,
the guide,
the friend,
the man.
